GC Commissioners Hear Update From DCL Organization

Friends of Deep Creek Lake – a nonprofit community group dedicated to the watershed's protection, preservation, and restoration – presented an update report to the Garrett County commissioners last Tuesday morning. Executive director Barbara Beelar stressed the importance of the county's role in revitalizing the 86-year-old man-made, state-owned lake.

"Our taxes are your revenue," Beelar told the commissioners about DCL users and property owners. "We have a relationship, and I don't think that's been fully understood or explored."

She noted the lake's natural aging process is evidenced in the amount/types of submerged aquatic vegetation, invasive species, and sediment build-up in many of Deep Creek's 20+ coves. The ramifications of not addressing these problems quickly, she reported, include declining property values, the loss of tourism tax revenue, and increased restoration costs.

"The faster we move on this, the less sediment we're going to have to remove, and the less negative impacts we're all going to experience," Beelar said.

She reported that the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) recently completed Phase 1 of the Deep Creek Lake Sediment Plan/Study and is expected to publish the results in the next few weeks.

Funded by the DNR, the $100,000+ study looked at sediment build-up in 10 specific coves, included a survey characterizing existing sediment throughout the lake, and compared past/current data and samples.

As noted by DCL manager Carolyn Mathews in an article titled "DNR Selects 10 Coves For Sediment Study" in The Republican's Oct. 28, 2010, issue, the chosen coves represented areas where DNR did not have sufficient data. In addition, some coves were selected because they SHA's Rt. 219 Patching Proj. To Begin Mon.

The Maryland State Highway Administration (SHA) will begin a roadway patching project on Monday, July 18, along three miles of US Rt. 219 (3rd Street/Garrett Highway) between Builders Way and East Crook Street in Oakland. The $150,000 project should be complete by early August, weather permitting.

The project was originally scheduled to begin Monday, July 11, but the contractor is completing work on other projects.

Crews may need to close one lane on northbound and southbound Rt. 219 Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Flagpersons, barrels, and temporary signs will guide motorists through the work zone.

Approximately 14,200 vehicles travel along this section of Rt. 219 each day, an SHA spokeswoman noted, so motorists should expect delays.

SHA awarded the contract to Keystone Lime Inc. of Pennsylvania. Those who have questions about traffic operations along Rt. 219 or other state numbered routes in Garrett County may call SHA's District 6 Office at 301-729-8400 or toll free at 1-800-760-7138. Motorists may also follow SHA on Twitter @MDSHA.

Grand Jury Charges Local Man With Two Counts Of First Degree Murder

Members of the March 2011 term of the grand jury were recalled to appear in Garrett County Circuit Court on Monday, as requested by State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch. Following a session that lasted approximately two hours, the jurors returned an indictment against Jeffrey Charles Minnick, 46, Accident, charging him with two counts of first degree murder for the deaths of Timothy Brandon Field Lax and of Jessica Irene Baker.

Minnick was served with his charges on Tuesday and then appeared in Circuit Court for an arraignment. Judge Jim Sherbin ordered that Minnick continue to be held in the Garrett County Jail without bond.

Minnick was originally arrested and charged with the murders in early June. Following two calls to GC Emergency Management, sheriff's deputies located the bodies of Lax, 24, and Baker, 18, in the early hours of June 1 near a camp site along the railroad tracks on the southern edge of Oakland.

In other recent Circuit Court proceedings, charges against Richard Wilson Albright, 43, Meyersdale, Pa., were placed on the stet docket. Albright was charged with

Motorcyclist Injured After Coming Upon Tree In Roadway

An Oakland man was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital Monday evening following a single-vehicle accident involving a motorcycle. Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to the 6:15 p.m. scene.

Investigation revealed that Randall Ray Tusing had been operating a 2005 Suzuki motorcycle south on Oakland Sang Run Road, when he came upon a tree that had fallen into the roadway. Tusing then reportedly rode over the tree, causing him to lose control of the bike. Northern Rescue Squad and Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded. No citations were issued.

Emerald Ash Borer Quarantine Expanded To All Counties West Of Chesapeake Bay

The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) has confirmed the presence of the emerald ash borer (EAB) in two new counties (Allegany and Anne Arundel). Based on detections this year, MDA has placed all Maryland counties west of the Susquehanna River and the Chesapeake Bay under a quarantine to prohibit the movement of ash trees and wood out of the quarantined area, as well as movement of all hardwood firewood, effective immediately.

"We believe that placing a quarantine on Maryland counties west of the Susquehanna River and the Chesapeake Bay is the best way to secure Maryland's Eastern Shore, where EAB has not been found to date, and protect our riparian forest buffer plantings," said Agriculture Secretary Buddy Hance. "We will continue to work with our federal, state, and local partners to control the spread of EAB through biocontrol and surveillance activities. However, we rely upon cooperation from the community to follow the quarantine restrictions, to not move firewood, and to report signs of possible infestation.

"MDA revised the emerald ash borer quarantine to secure Howard County and help us to conduct activities there to assess the situation," Hance continued. "It is early in the emerald ash borer season. Given the high prevalence of ash trees in Maryland, we may discover additional infested areas outside the quarantine areas and will update the quarantine as necessary."

EAB was first detected in Prince George's County after infested ash nursery stock

A GOSHAWK TAIL FEATHER, carved by five-time International water fowl carving champion Gary Yoder, Grantsville, will be among the items being auctioned at the TriState Relief Festival, Auction, and Cruise-In this Saturday, July 16, at the Garrett County fairgrounds in McHenry. Proceeds from the festival benefit victims of natural disastors, poverty, and war through missions efforts of the Mennonite Church Central Committee. The only known goshawk nesting in Garrett County was killed last month, and its three defenseless chicks subsequently died. A cash reward is being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person(s) responsible. The northern goshawk, one of Maryland's most endangered species, sports a wingspan of up to 46 inches, and is known for its speed and agility as a hunter. Kevin Dodge, director and professor of natural resources and wildlife technology at Garrett College, saw a female goshawk – one-third larger in size than the male – knock one of his students to the ground as they were studying its habitat. In fact, McDonnell Douglas and British Aerospace, serving the military in 1978 and inspired by these traits, teamed to develop the T-45A Goshawk jet trainer as the heart of the T45TS, the first totally integrated training system developed for Navy undergraduate jet pilot training. "I KNOW YOU'RE IN THERE, CLINT!" may be what's on the mind of this wild turkey, who paid a visit to the Second Street residence of Clint and Ann Englander in Oakland this past week. Debra Cowgill, a neighbor, saw the visitor and managed to get several photos. She said that the bird – not considered among the intellectual giants of the animal kingdom – was probably not there to see Clint, but evidently saw its reflection in the window and was trying to figure out how to get to the "other bird" on the "other side" of the glass. She said that the turkey also spent the night on top the automobile of another neighbor, Randy Storey, who took pity on the wayward sole by providing it some tasty birdseed.

The results of Phase I will determine if DNR should move to Phase II of the study/plan, which will quantify and characterize the accumulated sediment and identify "reasonable, feasible, and sustainable" alternatives to address that issue, Mathews noted in the article.

During last week's meeting with the commissioners, Beelar indicated that Phase II could begin as early as Sept. 1 if funding can be secured.

"They (DNR) want you guys to pay for Phase II," Beelar told the commissioners.

She asked the commissioners to fund the $180,000 project. Possible revenue sources, she noted, include dock permit fees, the state "flush tax," state/federal coffers, and through establishment of a public/private restoration fund.

Beelar also asked the commissioners to lobby lawmakers to establish watershed implementation programs to address lake issues.

Commission chair Gregan Crawford indicated he was well aware of the importance of Deep Creek Lake and has contacted the DNR about the need to make a commitment to address the problems.

"But it's very hard to get the DNR's attention," Crawford said.

Commissioner Jim Raley told the Friends of DCL that he does understand, noting that he saw numerous photos last summer of sediment filled coves. He and Crawford both stessed, however, that the state and DNR have the ultimate authority over the lake.

"What you hate to do is invest money in study, study, study, when you know you're up against a stone wall – if DNR is ultimately going to say there will be no dredging, no chemicals," Raley said. "There'll be no this; there'll be no that."

Beelar suggested that the commissioners meet with DNR Secretary John Griffin, the DCL manager, and others and ask them questions.

"We're here to help," she told the commissioners.

Following the Friends of DCL meeting, Commissioner Bob Gatto sent an e-mail Tuesday afternoon to Beelar, Griffin, Mathews, Sen. George Edwards, Del. Wendell Beitzel, and other officials. Gatto, a member of the lake's policy and review board, said the commissioners wanted to arrange a time to discuss and gather information about the future of Deep Creek Lake and the lake watershed.

"I think we all know the importance of the lake to our county and our state, and recently there have been several studies by various groups completed on the lake – along with several future studies that are yet unfunded – along with those same discussions about everyone's roles in preserving and improving the lake and the lake watershed," Gatto wrote. "As new commissioners, we would welcome the chance to discuss those roles and how we can help."

A date, time, and location for the event has not yet been set.

Beelar called the proposed meeting "really big" news.

"For the first time the county commissioners acknowledge the county may have a role in the 'state's lake,'" Beelar said.

Comptroller Warns Marylanders About Tax Scam Threats

Comptroller Peter Franchot yesterday alerted Marylanders to a new series of fraudulent tax schemes which are working their way across the country Numerous states in the Midwest and the South are reporting accounts of people falling victim to fly-by-night companies offering to help them get "free money" from the "special stimulus program" or other fictitious refund accounts.

"Though the tax filing deadlme has come and gone, this is a reminder that unscrupulous people who prey on people's fear and economic hardships never take a vacation," said Comptroller Franchot. "It is my hope that by alerting Marylanders to these schemes we can avoid the damage that has been done in other states where we have seen people lose thousands of dollars, face penalties for filing faulty returns, and suffer even more dire losses as the victims of identification theft As always, we will work with our community partners and use every tool at our disposal to protect Marylanders from fraudulent tax schemes and prosecute those who concoct these schemes to fullest of our ability."

The recent scams are targeting poor and elderly taxpayers and those who receive public assistance or draw from Social Security and would not ordinarily file returns. They are being approached by someone from Human Services Associates (HSA) LLC offering to help them receive "free money" and asking for personal information. Individuals who have given this company their information have been asked to let the company file their tax returns in order to receive their check.

The comptroller reminds people that they should never let someone prepare their tax returns if they are not present to see the final document. Human Services Associates is currently being investigated by the Ohio attorney general.

"We want to thank Comptroller Franchot for helping to get the word out," said Robin McKinney, director of the Maryland CASH (Creating Assets, Savings & Hope) Campaign. "Any Maryland residents who have worked with Human Services Associates LLC should immediately contact the Comptroller's Office or the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Unit. As with any scam, if it sounds too good to be true, it probably is."

If any Marylanders have already been contacted by HSA or a similar such company and have given them their information, they should immediately go through the following steps:

• Immediately file IRS Form 14039 "Identity Theft Affidavit." There's a box to check that says: "I am a potential victim of ID theft and believe I may be at risk for future impact to my tax account." The form is available at www.irs.gov.

• Send a certified letter to HSA stating "I revoke any permission that I may have unintentionally given for Human Services Associates LLC (HSALLC) to file my taxes for 2010, 2011, 2012, or any other tax year, or for HSALLC to deposit refunds into their accounts or take any fees."

The address is: Human Services Associates LLC, 711 Merrill Street, Lansing, MI 48912.

• Make sure that you file your 2011 and 2012 tax forms for yourself even if you do not have income that requires you to file a tax return. It will be very important that you do this and that you follow up with the Comptroller's Office and the IRS after the 2011 and 2012 tax seasons to determine if another return was been filed in your name

Franchot also reminded Marylanders of some simple but important tax safety tips if they are approached by companies who offer to file returns:

• Ask questions such as "Where is this money coming from?" If the money is supposed to come from Maryland or the IRS, check with the Comptroller's Office and the IRS to see if it is a real program and to see if you really qualify.

• Never give out personal information to any person or company until you verify how the information will be used and you are sure that the company is legitimate.

• Find out if you can apply for the money by yourself for free. If a company is offering to apply for the money on your behalf, find out exactly what fees you will be will charged.

• Do not just find out how much money one will receive Find out how much money the company will keep for its fee.

For free tax help, tips and for answers to any tax question, interested persons may go to the comptroller's web site at www.marylandtaxes.com or call 1-800-MD-TAXES (1-800-638-2937).

In Loving Memory of Tommie M. Futch
March 8, 1937 – July 16, 2010

You were the glue that held our family together
You gave me advice when you thought I needed it
You stood by me when I needed you the most.
You taught me life's little lessons even when they were not what I wanted to hear
You showed me how to love my family, no matter what any faults they may have.
You loved your family no matter what we said or did.
You showed me how to be a mom through example and actions and your words.
You taught me so many things and left before I learned the many other things I needed to see
It's only been a year since we lost you, and you will never be forgotten.
Mom, & Granny – forever in our hearts. We love and miss you.

Your devoted husband and loving children, grandchildren & great-grandchildren

Cash is Waiting...

As reported in this newspaper a few weeks ago, the only known nesting northern goshawk in Garrett County was illegally shot and killed by some ignorant, thoughtless idiot who should never be allowed to own a gun. With the killing of the mother hawk, the chicks that were in the nest subsequently died as well.

A similar tragedy occurred in neighboring West Virginia recently, as four bald eagles – a species that was on the edge of distinction just a few decades ago – were reportedly shot to death in the Moorefield area this spring.

A relatively hefty cash reward ($800 and growing) is currently being offered to anyone who provides information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person(s) responsible for killing the northern goshawk, so it is hoped that someone with such information will come forward. It is also hoped that the person responsible will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of state and federal wildlife laws, including the Migratory Bird Treaty Act. The fact is, all raptor birds are protected by these laws, as was pointed out to us in our newsroom by ornithologist Donald Heintzelman, an internationally known expert on raptors and raptor migration, and the author of 22 wildlife books.

People who commit such wanton acts give legitimate hunters a bad rap, should be sent to jail, and should never again be permitted to possess a firearm. The fact that this particular hawk is on the endangered species list is bad enough, but the random killing of defenseless birds and animals just for the fun of it is not sport. It is purely a criminal act for which consequences should be paid.

So there is a big wad of cold, hard cash waiting for that person who provides an ID on this individual, and it can be done completely anonymously through the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, the Natural Resources Police, and the Maryland State Police.

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Delegate Wendell Beitzel requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Del. Beitzel:

We held a long-planned family reunion over the 4th of July weekend at Deep Creek Lake. On the evening of July 3, about 25 of us were gathered around a small fireplace on the buffer strip, enjoying the lake, each other, and the fine weather. We had a couple of ground-type fireworks, and the four teenagers were each given one sparkler to light.

Imagine our surprise, dismay, and consternation when two police boats pulled up to the dock and some lake patrolmen came onto the dock and up to the fire. We felt sure we weren't doing anything illegal and welcomed them.

While searching in a bag of old fireworks, they found some bottle rockets that were illegal. We were then told that sparklers, which are legal in Maryland, are not legal on the buffer strip. We were given a $75 fine, which put quite a damper on our evening. I looked up my buffer strip permit and, of course, there was nothing on it about fireworks.

My point here is that there is a $200 fee for use of the buffer strip, which we pay willingly. My family has had property here for about 60 years, and in the course of time have been told that the lake area generates about 500% of the tax revenue for the county. In view of the fact that there is a record number of lakefront homes for sale and that the tourist industry is probably hurting, why would there seem to be extraordinary efforts put forth to kill tourism and discourage lakefront ownership?

It was disappointing to the 25 family members, and I'm afraid they all went back to their home states with a bad image of the whole area because of the over-zealousness of the lake patrol.

To the Editor:

In August of 2010, I received a Habitat for Humanity home, which turned out to be the best thing to happen to me (besides my son coming into the world). For years I was back and forth between homes and finally settled in with my mom, whom I love very much. She took us in when my son and I were in need, but we were in a two-bedroom trailer where my son and I slept on an air mattress in the living room.

Since the day I moved into my home, I have been nothing less then blessed to have had this opportunity to better the life of my son and myself. Not only did I gain a beautiful, top-of-the-line house, I also gained the friendship, love, and prayers of so many great people of Habitat.

It wasn't easy, but with the help of family and friends I was able to complete my required sweat-equity hours. With the interest-free mortgage Habitat provides, most people who meet the income qualifications can afford to own a Habitat house. The Garrett County Habitat office phone number is 301-533-0600.

To the Editor:

After reading the letter from Dr. Porter Welch in last week's Republican, I felt I had to respond.

Dr. Welch was my dentist for over 20 years. After I re-married and moved to Charles Town, W.Va., I never one time looked for another dentist in the area. It was always my pleasure to drive 125 miles twice a year for my check-up (and for emergencies, which in later years occurred often)!

Dr. Welch was always very gracious and very kind, and I not once did I ever leave his office in any kind of pain.

Thanks, Dr. Welch! You will be missed. Enjoy your retirement, and may God bless you!

To the Editor:

I note last week's article about citizenshale.org that states, "... Some 2,500 gas wells have been 'fracked' in Pennsylvania since 2005, as well as hundreds more in West Virginia ..." No organization has yet to publish the statistics on the number of wells contaminated by drilling operations.

I have property in Accident, W.Va., with drilling under way for Marcellus natural gas. I did hours of research into Marcellus shale operations and watched the negative documentary film Gas Lands. I am proud to be actively involved in clean energy sources.

Excerpted below is the % of chemicals for 10,000 gallons of fracking fluid: Hydrofracturing Spills Put into Perspective, posted by Mike Knapp on June 21, 2011, in Marcellus Shale:

Fracking fluid is 99.5 percent water and playground sand. The remaining half of a percent breaks down as follows (sourced from http://www.energyindepth.com):

Hydrochloric acid, 0.123 percent. The largest chemical constituent. Millions of gallons of hydrochloric acid are poured, undiluted, into public swimming pools every year.

Petroleum distillate, 0.088 percent. Petroleum distillates are found in everyday products such as candy, laxatives, and make-up remover.

Isopropanol, 0.085 percent (rubbing alcohol).

Potassium chloride, 0.06 percent. Low-sodium table salt substitute, used as an alternative in water softener systems.

Guar gum, 0.056 percent. Used in the food industry as thickening agent.

Ethylene glycol, 0.043 percent. It is defined as moderately toxic. It's the primary constituent of automotive antifreeze.

Sodium carbonate, 0.011 percent. Another staple in the swimming pool industry.

Sodium chloride, 0.01 percent. Table salt.

Borate salts, 0.007 percent. Used as a food additive/preservative.

Citric acid, 0.004 percent. Lemon juice; food additive.

N,n-dimethyl formamide, 0.002 percent. Used as an industrial solvent; long-term exposure to this chemical has been linked to cancer in some studies and is thought to cause birth defects, but is not listed as a known carcinogen by the EPA.

Glutaraldehyde, 0.001 percent. This chemical is used for surgical disinfection and as a biocide to kill algae while not harming surrounding aquatic life.

Apparently many Garrett County residents are opposed to every energy source, including wind turbines (spoils view) and gas wells (contaminate ground water), other than petroleum, but are vehemently opposed to the high cost of gasoline.

Wake up, Garrett County, stop dependency on foreign petroleum, and begin promoting clean USA energy – wind, solar, and natural gas.

projects taking months to complete and mobile operations taking only hours," the spokeswoman said. "While SHA and its transportation partners work hard to maintain safe traffic mobility in work zones, each driver needs to actively modify his or her driving style to help prevent crashes. Stay alert – look for reduced speed limits, narrow driving lanes, and highway workers. Slow down and don't follow too closely."

Ash Borer

was illegally shipped into the state in 2003. It was detected through survey in Charles County in 2008. This year it was confirmed in Allegany, Anne Arundel, and Howard counties.

"The existence of the EAB in central and western Maryland was not entirely unexpected, given the high prevalence of ash trees in Maryland and our proximity to Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Northern Virginia where EAB quarantines are in effect," said MDA Plant Protection and Weed Management Program manager Carol Holko. "We are continuing to monitor the situation, and assembling a team to work with the USDA Emerald Ash Borer Science Panel and Management Team to determine the best course of action."

Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Northern Virginia are infested with EAB and have quarantines in effect. New Jersey and Delaware are conducting surveillance activities and have no EAB detections to date.

Green ash is among the top five trees planted and one of the most frequently successful in riparian forest buffers. Ash is planted in more than 2,400 acres of riparian forest buffer plantings on the Eastern Shore and supports about 150 types of butterflies and moths.

The EAB is an invasive pest from Asia that feeds on and kills ash trees within three years after infestation. Ash trees are one of the most common and important landscaping trees used in Maryland and are common in western Maryland forests, according to the MDA. Ash wood is used for all traditional applications of hardwood, from flooring and cabinets to baseball bats.

Presence of the emerald ash borer typically goes undetected until trees show symptoms of being infested – usually the upper third of a tree will thin and then die back. This is usually followed by a large number of shoots or branches arising below the dead portions of the trunk. Other symptoms of infestation include: small D-shaped exit holes in the bark where adults have emerged, vertical splits in the bark, and distinct serpentine-shaped tunnels beneath the bark in the cambium, where larvae effectively stop food and water movement in the tree, starving it to death.

To help stop this damaging beetle, the following is suggested to homeowners and citizens who live in and travel through Prince George's, Charles, and Howard counties:

•Don't move firewood – buy it where you burn it. Hauling firewood is the most common way for damaging plant pests to be moved from one area to another. In addition, the state quarantine prohibits anyone from moving hardwood firewood or any other ash tree materials out of Prince George's, Charles, or Howard counties.

•Don't plant ash trees. As the EAB is expanding its range in Maryland, diversified plantings of alternative tree species are recommended for residential landscaping.

•Report any signs of the emerald ash borer to the University of Maryland Home and Garden Information Center at 1-800-342-2507. For information about the emerald ash borer and the quarantine, persons are invited to go online to www.mda.state.md.us/plants-pests/eab/ or telephone 410-841-5920. Being Finalized

1 p.m.

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office will provide a K-9 dog demonstration at 2 p.m. Musical entertainment will be staged throughout the afternoon by Rodney Durst and Friends.

New to Homecoming this year will be a presentation concerning World War II's Battle of the Bulge. The session will detail the horrific experience of 11 African-American soldiers from the 333rd Field Artillery Battalion, a unit that was overrun in the opening stages of the battle.

Left to their fate when the American line gave way in face of the German onslaught, many members of the 333rd were captured, and many killed. Named for the nearby Belgian town where they sought refuge, the Wereth 11 made their way across 10 miles of enemy territory before being taken in by a local family that hid them from the Nazis. A German sympathizer, though, tipped off an SS patrol, which captured the men.

Instead of taking them as prisoners of war, the SS squad marched the Wereth 11 to a nearby field where the men were tortured, mutilated, and killed. The atrocity was never fully investigated, nor were war crimes charges brought against any Germans after the war.

The only memorial to the men for their sacrifice was one erected by members of the Wereth village, who were themselves traumatized by the massacre. In the U.S., the Wereth 11 went forgotten for more than six decades until a filmmaker took up the project in an effort to increase awareness of the atrocity.

"I thought the men's dignity was taken from them, and that really bothered me," said Joseph Small, executive producer of The Wereth Eleven, which aired on the National Geographic Channel earlier this year. "I set out on a mission to make sure the citizens of America and Europe knew what happened to the 11 men."

At about the same time as Small produced his docudrama, Piedmont, W.Va., resident T.J. Coleman was on a similar mission. Among the Wereth 11 was Piedmont native Aubrey Stewart. This episode is rendered even more tragic for area residents by their connection to Stewart, who was known as a simple man who traded a job at the Luke paper mill for service to his nation.

In presenting this story, Coleman will challenge listeners to not only learn from the past, but to be inspired by Stewart's sacrifice to make the present better. The presentation will begin at 5 p.m. in the Kitzmiller School auditorium.

Following the Wereth 11 presentation (at approximately 6 p.m.), a reception will be held to honor former Kitzmiller mayor James Browning, who recently resigned after nine years of service to the town in that capacity. All county and community residents are invited to attend.

The Homecoming events will conclude on Sunday afternoon. Local churches will sponsor a covered-dish dinner in the Kitzmiller School cafeteria at 1 p.m., and at 2:30 p.m., there will be a worship celebration at the Kitzmiller Assembly of God Church. The speaker for the service will be the Rev. Harley DeLeurere, whose first pastorate was the Kitzmiller Methodist Charge, consisting of Mt. Bethel in Kitzmiller, Short Run, and St. Andrew's in West Vindex. He served the Kitzmiller churches from 1964 to 1967, when he moved to the Elk Garden, W.Va., charge. In 1970, he moved to Hendricks, W.Va., where he served the Hendricks Free Methodist Church until his retirement in 2007.

Persons interested in obtaining more information on the Homecoming events may telephone Kitzmiller Town Hall at 301-453-3449.

Leadership Series Scheduled; Will Begin August 11

The Regional Leadership Series presented by the Greater Cumberland Committee offers a new four-course series designed to help civic and corporate leaders make positive, sustainable change in the regional community

The 2011 series, developed in partnership with the four institutions of higher learning in Allegany, Garrett, and Mineral counties, focuses on strategic planning, coalition building, financial and tax matters, and organizational development.

The four courses, held at one college or university each month starting in August, are scheduled from 9 a.m. to noon and are as follows:

•Visioning and Strategic Planning – Taught by business administration faculty members Amit Shah and Tom Sigerstad, the course presents skills and knowledge to help students grasp the "big picture" to prepare their organization for the future. It is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 11, in the Ort Library of Frostburg State University;

•Working in Coalitions II: Motivating and Leading in a Multi-Generational World -- Jeannette Rudy Fitzwater, a registered corporate coach and human resources director, will present practical strategies to build consensus and motivate coalition members toward a common goal. It will be held Friday, Sept. 9, in Allegany College of Maryland's Center for Continuing Education.

•Financial Statements and Tax Issues for Boards of Directors and Management – Taught by certified public accountant David Turnbull, the course is designed to help board members of non-profit groups be more effective in their role as financial overseers. It is scheduled Garrett College's Continuing Education Building; •Building Organizational Capacity – This session focuses on assessment of an organization's capacity to grow while still maintaining quality and profitability Scheduled for Wednesday, Nov 8, at Potomac State College of West Virginia University, it will be taught by senior administrators Russ Dean and Narvel Weese.

The series, which was well received in 2009 and 2010, is designed to augment existing leadership programs, such as Leadership Allegany! the Western Maryland Rural Leadership Academy, Leadership Maryland, and Leadership West Virginia.

The goal is to provide current and potential civic and corporate leaders the tools they need to effect positive and sustainable change in the region through a series of four, three-hour sessions on key aspects of leadership.

The deadline to register for each course is one week in advance. To do so, persons may call ACM's Center for Continuing Education at 301-784-5341. The deadline to register for the complete series, which offers discounted tuition, is Aug. 8.

In Memory of Dillan R. DeWitt
3-17-47 — 7-14-05

It has been six years since you went to heaven.
Memories of you are happy ones. You have left a glow of smiles. You left an echo of memories that are still whispering softly down the way.
You left us happy times and laughing times of memories of yesteryear. We still grieve in our own ways, but with less tears, more happy times of remembering you

Love forever,

"Dog-Gone" Event To Feature Canine Costume Contest

The Canine Costume Contest is one of several events scheduled during the Garrett County Humane Society's annual Dog-Gone FUNdraiser to be held on Saturday, July 23, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the fairgrounds in McHenry.

The Costume Contest entry fee is $10 per dog. Guest judges will award prizes to the best dressed dogs. The first-place prize is a grooming package. Participants must register before noon, and the contest begins at 12:30 p.m.

There will also be a Benefit Dog Walk at 11 a.m. on a course that is less then one mile around the fairgrounds. Walkers can pick up forms at one of the local veterinarian offices, then start collecting donations from friends and family. Walkers must register for this event as well.

Each participant who collects more then $25 in pledges will receive a special gift, plus the three walkers who bring in the most cash will receive another prize. This year's top prize is a portrait sitting with a local photographer, plus more. Last year more than $600 was raised from the dog walk, with a total of $6,000+ raised during the FUNdraiser.

There will also be a small flea market, a Meet the Breed event with over 45 kinds of dogs, a GC Sheriff's Office K-9 demonstration, and a chance to meet the Husky Power dogsledding crew.

In addition, a silent auction will offer a large selection of items donated by local businesses, including gifts, plants, restaurant certificates, memberships, Pittsburgh attraction tickets, plus much more.

There will also be a snack bar on site, and gift items and raffle tickets will be for sale.

"One of the many things that makes this event different is that admission is free, plus all the money collected goes directly to the Humane Society," said Lisa Baker, president/fundraising chair.

READY FOR THE COSTUME CONTEST – Former homeless shelter pup Shelby, a collie-beagle-Lab mix, is dressed "pretty as a princess" in hopes of winning a ribbon during the upcoming Canine Costume Contest. The event is just one of many scheduled during the Garrett County Humane Society's annual Dog-Gone FUNdraiser, set for Saturday, July 23, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the fairgrounds in McHenry. Proceeds from the event will assist the GCHS in its efforts to help other homeless and neglected animals. See story.

"The GCHS is a non-profit volunteer organization that has been helping domestic animals for over 25 years. We provide a year-round spay/neuter voucher program, plus the GC Humane Society is the only organization that responds to animal neglect reports (numbering over 350 in 2010)."

Persons who have items that they would like donate to the silent auction or flea market or need more information about the fundraiser may call Baker at 301-616-4425.

The schedule of events for the fundraiser is as follows:

- Registration for dog walk or costume contest begins – 10 a.m.
- HART Pet Jeopardy – 10:30 a.m.
- Benefit Dog Walk – 11 a.m.
- Meet the Breed Parade – 11:45 a.m.
- Canine Costume Contest – 12:30 p.m.
- Sheriff's Office Service Dog Demo – 1:15 p.m.

God's Little Angel
A lillle "Angel" came to earth one day.
He gave only love then he went away.
Don't ever forget the love he brought – his happy smile and the lessons he taught.
It's hard losing someone who gives only love and goes back to heaven to his Father above.
Remember him always; there's no other way.
Then know in your heart you'll be with him one day,
but for now share the love and continue to say,
"Thanks you, God, for my angel who has gone away.
Love, Mommy, Daddy, Ayla, Justyce, Grandma, Pop,
Uncle Greg, Aunt Julie, Ivy Lynn, Quinn, and Rylee

January 10, 1987 - July 20, 2010

Words cannot express the loss we still feel from you being taken from us. It's been a year, but still feels like yesterday. We were blessed to have had you in our lives, even though the time was too short. Just when you were starting your young life, it was taken away in a blink of an eye. We will never let the memory of you die as long as we keep living. We know that you want us to move on and not cry, but that is too difficult to do, so please forgive us. We miss your strong loving hugs, that beautiful laugh and that amazing crooked grin that melted our hearts every time we would see you. We hold and cherish each and every memory and picture we have of you together or those we had of you alone. We share you with each other every chance we get. You were a feeling that was felt when you walked into a room, and that feeling is missed without you here. We try to remember that you are in a better place than we are, and that we will see you again when the time comes, but our selfishness will always wish you back here with us. I believe that you are at peace and in the loving arms of God, and in a place without pain, unhappiness, and tears. We were all blessed to have shared our lives with you. None of us can describe how the first of everything this first year without you has been. Not one thing went on without tears of missing you, wishing you were here. The first holidays, the first family gatherings, football games, concerts, your birthday and all of the things we did together. You knew our love for you, and we knew yours for us. Thank you for being in our lives, for being my son, and for being a wonderful young man. Thank you for the talks we continue to have. We love and miss you, peace and sweet dreams.

Forever in our hearts,
Mom, Fabian, Nikki, Family and Friends

two counts of first degree burglary and two counts of theft. A man had reported that his father's Lonaconing (Garrett County) home had been broken into in October and December 2005.

According to court records, two chainsaws, a generator, a woodstove, a gun safe, and 13 firearms were taken during the incidents. Some of the items were recovered in January 2006 after Pennsylvania State Police troopers, assisted by a Garrett County Sheriff's Office investigator, executed a search and seizure warrant at Albright's home in Meyersdale.

In an unrelated case, Joshua McClellan Sines, 28, pleaded guilty to driving while impaired. Related charges were not prosecuted based upon his plea.

Judge Sherbin issued a probation a probation before judgment ruling. Sines was placed on six months of unsupervised probation, with the condition that he attend and complete alcohol education classes. He must also pay a fine and court costs totaling $565.

Sines was charged by the Maryland State Police following a traffic stop last August along Rt. 42 north of Friendsville

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

This Monday afternoon, there was almost unheard of heat in Bittinger. It sucked every drop of energy right out of me. I don't see how anyone could live in really hot areas like the deep South, such as Texas, where these days it goes over 100 degrees for days. I guess everyone has air conditioners down there, but how can they afford the electricity to run them?

Like most parts of our country, it's a two class society. One class can afford anything and everything, and has a whole bunch of servants (illegal immigrants who work for virtually nothing). But it is better than south of the border. I guess things must be terrible in Mexico, except for a tiny number of very rich people.

Now at 6:00, it looks like we are in for a severe storm, at least judging from the really aggressive high winds that are blowing now. At least the unbearable heat is blowing away, and the first raindrops are beginning to fall.

I've seen some pretty awesome electric storms here, and some were very scary. One time, one lasted several days and featured a big ball of lightning rolling along the big power lines between my house and Rodney's house. That was an unusual sight, and one that I hope I will not see again.

Unfortunately, a thunderstorm causes my emotions to go crazy, with lots of tears. That is where I am now. And it will be even worse next week when my girls go to the beach with their father. That means an unbearable loneliness.

Let's face it, some people hope with all their heart that a horrible financial calamity will hit in August so they can blame the president. Then they can win back the White House. Then we will be governed by people who are so out of touch and indifferent to the plight of regular Americans. They would never act in the interest of medium or low income Americans because it is against their own self-interests.

Late last week, I was struck by how much light there was from the full moon, which was easily visible from my bed.

There was talk about the Pirates team of 1971. They mentioned Bob Robertson, who is a native of Mount Savage! But they said his goal was to hurt the opposing players. I doubt that. I used to have a baseball that was autographed by him. But that was among hundreds of my very important possessions that have come missing since I was in the rehabilitation center. That was after I got the worthless surgery on my ankle, which is much worse now. It is much more painful.

I lost hundreds of my most important books, the jewelry box that contained my only valuable jewelry, and a somewhat important small address book which contained all my New York City friends' phone numbers and addresses, and those of other very important people who used to be part of my life. The worst loss was the book Profiles in Courage by JFK that was signed by him. That is irreplaceable. I wanted to keep many beloved books to read them many times again.

Another terrible loss was the only copy of my key master's degree paper, which was good enough to get published, according to my professor.

Although most Americans are crying a river about private sector job losses, they are perfectly happy to cut state, county, or local employees' jobs as wasteful spending or a sign of too much government in our lives. That is nonsense. These jobs were held by public servants who play important roles in many Americans' lives. And they are taxpayers. What positive effect is there in cutting that many important jobs? They include those who fight fires, perform police rescues, teachers, and public health nurses.

When I was a kid, I went to the county health department to get my eyes examined and get my glasses, which gave me a boost in school. Finally, I could read the chalk boards.

Some people do not understand that the president of America has the hardest job in the world. It is way beyond what people would call an "empty suit" or reality TV stars, or someone who has a very limited view of America and the world.

It seems that most Americans think that only money matters at all. It's true that it's hard to live your life without some money. How would you feel if one of your children came up to get her lunch money, and you didn't have it? I sometimes had to tape together a bunch of quarters, and that did not play well with my children. It embarrassed them to use that to pay for their school lunch.

I also recognized how important appearance is to a school kid. When I was in elementary and high school, one of the most stressful things was coming up with money to pay library fines for overdue books. I sometimes looked under cushions and under the radiators, or worse, I had to ask for it from my mother, or try to get it from one of my friends, who often faced the same problem. She knew what not paying meant: you can't check out any more books from the library. She shared my feeling that it was a serious problem.

But I remember a much scarier problem regarding library books. When I was about 10 years old, I was awakened in the middle of the night by serious thunder. I [illegible] wondered if I had been dumb enough to leave the book that I was reading outside. Since the rain was coming down really hard, that meant serious trouble if I did.

At that age, my life was pretty fast paced. Just when I thought I had some free time, suddenly Cindy and Sally would show up to get me on their way to the second session of Bible School that day. I had gone to Emmanuel Lutheran Church's Bible School that morning, but now it was early evening, so I was due up the road at Glade Mennonite Church for Bible School.

That was the old white wooden church, and I loved it very much. On the way, we picked wild strawberries. That old church was quite similar to Emmanuel in those good old days. Each was a simple, white, wooden rectangular structure, with the lingering scent of many generations of worshipers and simple wood pews with somewhat old hymn books.

But that was in the mid-20th century, when Emmanuel was still using the old edition of hymn books. They were red in color, and I knew by heart every important page number. The service started on page 56. But within 50 years, many things changed, like the red books were replaced by a new green edition, and all the page numbers were changed. Even some of my favorite hymns got replaced with unfamiliar new hymns. And the music in the worship service was changed.

I wasn't happy about that change. I was truly furious when my dear old white churches got replaced with new larger brick buildings, fit for any suburb. I missed the history that used to fill the old Emmanuel. That 175-year-old building was where my parents' marriage took place, and my grandparents' and father's funerals were held. It was there that I got baptized, confirmed, and married. My brother Scott's funeral was also there.

I never felt the same way about the new fancy Emmanuel. Some people say that it's not the building that makes the church, but the congregation. Maybe that's true, but some of the most important people in my life were much more present in the old church. It was an unusual style with a square bell tower in the Romanesque style. And there were all those very old stained glass windows, somewhat faded with slightly mossy looks. I used to know the order from front to back of the pictures on each one, and who dedicated each one.

Adorable Adoptables

LOOKING FOR HOMES THIS WEEK at the Garrett County Animal Shelter are a female calico feline (above left), a stray male beagle (above right) that was picked up in downtown Friendsville, a boxer (below left) that was found at Christian Crossing in Loch Lynn, and a female pitbull mix that was wandering around Hen House Restaurant near Finzel. "None of these dogs (and many others that are brought in weekly) did not have any form of ID tag," said a GC Humane Society spokesperson. "In Maryland, your pets must have a rabies vaccination, and in Garrett County, you must have a dog license. These tags can be traced back to you, which alleviates both the dog's and your stress when your pet becomes lost! Last week's featured pair of strays were reclaimed, and several others were reclaimed or taken to rescue by HART. There are several other dogs and cats still awaiting adoption. The GCHS has received numerous calls this week about dogs left outside without shelter from the sun and without water. Under Maryland state law, you must provide food, water, shelter, and vet care for all your animals." For more information, persons may call the animal shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday. Photos courtesy of the GC Humane Society.

It is true that we have two old windows in the new church. I am happy about that. Anything other would simply be indecent. "They" said that it would cost more to repair the old building than to build a new one. Maybe that's true, but the cost is not the only important thing.

I never bonded with the new church, and I still don't feel at home in it. When I was in Milan, Italy, the big famous cathedral there was covered with scaffolds for ongoing repairs. Of course, it is impossible to build a Gothic cathedral in a modern era. Even if anyone could replace those ancient houses of worship, no one would want to do that. It would be simple insanity.

Even if it is no business of mine what kind of building houses the congregation of Glade Mennonite Church, all I know is that it does not feel as much like I'm almost home when I drive at the end of Accident-Bittinger Road just before you reach Rock Lodge Road. Instead of seeing that small, humble white church at the end of Foxtown Road, I see a large paved parking lot with a new brick church. It is just not the same, or as good as it used to be to me.

But as time has gone along, it must mean that progress comes with some big changes, even in Bittinger. I used to have lots of good times playing in the old house behind our barn in which my Glotfelty grandparents raised their family. The previous owners, a Beachy family, lost seven children in one year from an epidemic. I think it was diphtheria, which was commonly known as black throat. They are buried on the top of the hill along the edge of the woods between my house and Rodney's house. That happened sometime in the 19th century, and they not surprisingly decided to move away. That graveyard has only seven flat field stones for grave markings, as the oldest graves around here.

I think the oldest grave stones with names and dates on them are in the Glotfelty Cemetery along Rock Lodge Road on a farm that used to be the home of Martha and her daughter Lucille Glotfelty, dated around 1860 or 1870. Those graves have the last named spelled like it was in Switzerland. Gladdefelder.

Quite a few gravestones are in the very old Cherry Glade Church on Foxtown. That graveyard holds the graves of my great-grandparents, named Brenneman. That is my grandmother Emma Brenneman's (later Glotfelty) family's church.

But there is another very old cemetery on her family's home place, now a farm belonging to Richard Brenneman, my second cousin. It has one gravestone that says "Born on the Atlantic Queen." I'm not sure what date is on that one.

You often hear about some kind of study. They probably are mainly true, but not for all people. For example, I just heard that city dwellers are more likely to suffer anxiety. I never felt any kind of anxiety during my years in Manhattan. But since I came home to Bittinger, anxiety now dominates my life. It's not necessarily because life is more stressful in Bittinger for most people.

It is true for a couple of reasons. The primary reason is just the multiple disastrous events in my life beginning in 1980. And some aspects of Garrett County are difficult to cope with, like the absence of easily available public transportation. That only mattered after my brain injury in 1994. Then I was pretty seriously disabled, so I can't drive anymore. Every time I need to go somewhere, I must find someone willing or able to take me.

It is pretty anxiety-provoking to live alone and sleep alone. Neither was a problem when I was in New York City. I also had many people with lots in common with me in daily life.

I am aware that one of the most important of the brain's chemicals is dopamine, which promotes positive moods and feelings. Your level of it is partly the result of how many positive reactions you have to an individual, or in psychology terms, strokes, like what you give your pets, or positive remarks about you or your performance. Those are so rare for me now. I used to try to smile at anyone I passed or met in Manhattan, because that usually got me a smile in return.

I made a big mistake last evening. I wanted to watch President Obama's speech about his plan for the Afghanistan war. It started at 8 p.m., and I promptly fell asleep on the couch. And what a terrible night of sleep I got. I even left the light on, and the television, too.

I kind of fell asleep around 5 a.m., which was time to get up, not go to bed. So I started my day with some leftover cold coffee that I had on my couch-side table. Not the greatest start of the day, but I need caffeine as soon as possible after I get up.

When I taught at the college, my students were fully aware that I had seen and experienced much more than they probably ever would, and that experience gave quite a bit of credibility to what I said. I am sure that I had personally read more books than the total of all my class members combined. But at the same time, I was born and raised in Garrett County, not some strange place. I had quite a bit in common with them, even though I had more differences. They listened because I earned their respect as a knowledgeable, decent, fair-minded person who cared very much about their future. I cared not only about the kids who were always straight-A students, but also about those who needed help to realize their full potential.

It is hard to believe that Pittsburgh Pirate Andrew McCutchen will not get into the All-Star game. He is a potent hitter and a very dependable fielder. He is able to catch almost any ball that is even somewhat in his neighborhood of the field.

Besides those two things, he also possesses a star quality. He is simply a very special player and a wonderful addition to the Pirates squad. He is well on the way to being in the greatest modern-day players' group, which includes Clemente and Stargell. Those legendary players run the distance.

Willie Stargell was on the team for 21 years. That's a long time. It ended when he retired after his outstanding performance in the World Series of 1979. And he was impossible to replace as a player and team leader. The same thing can be said about Clemente, whose career ended with his death in 1972 after he hit his 3,000 hits.

No one could replace the Great One in my heart, a feeling shared by many Pirates fans. His legend stays alive in most baseball fans, no matter which team they have as their home team. He even has his own museum in Pittsburgh.

I heard one most likely un-

AMERICAN LEGION SUPPORTS NHS BAND UNIFORM DRIVE – The Sons of the American Legion, Grantsville Squadron, recently presented a donation to Jamie Andre, representing the Northern Garrett Marching Band, to assist in the purchase of new uniforms for the band. The drive is continuing and donations are appreciated, a spokesperson noted. Shown from left are Frank Davis, squadron vice commander, band member Cameron Newman (in the new uniform), and Andre.

THE CRUCIBLE, an American classic written by renowned author Arthur Miller, will be the next offering of the TOTL Theatre Company (Theatre on the Lake), with the show running July 20-23 at 7:30 p.m. at the Barn at RidgeView Valley in McHenry. Set in Salem, Massachusettes, in 1692, the intense drama centers on one man's journey to redemption in the eyes of his community, as well as in the eyes of his God. With the Salem witch trials brewing around him, John Proctor attempts to expose the hypocrisy and lies surrounding a group of young girls whose innocent dancing in the woods initiates a wild hysteria in the community. Unable to prevent its inevitable course, Proctor's only recourse is to put his own neck on the line by revealing information that rivets the court. Pictured is actor Leah Broderick, who portrays Elizabeth Proctor. Miller is also the author of such well-known plays as Death of a Salesman, All My Sons, and The Price, but The Crucible is his most often produced because of its thematic connection to numerous time periods in American history. Reservations may be made online at totltheatre.org and by telephone at 304-680-1002. Ticket price is $10 for all seats. TOTL is a non-profit organization.

SURVIVOR KID: A PRACTICAL GUIDE TO WILDERNESS SURVIVAL

by Denise Long

C. 2011, Chicago Review Press, $12.95; 223 Pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

There is absolutely no way you're staying inside another minute. All year long, when school's in session, you spend enough time indoors. But with summer here and the free time that comes with it, you plan on being outside as much as possible, hiking, exploring, and camping.

But what if you get lost? How will you deal with not knowing where you are? Will you know what to do, how to stay protected, where to find food, and how to survive? You will if you've read Survivor Kid: A Practical Guide to Wilderness Survival by Denise Long.

So you've found a great new trail, and you can't wait to explore it. There might be some birds or a creek you've never seen, for sure, it's gonna be an adventure.

But before you go, says Long, be responsible and tell an adult where you're going and how long you expect to be gone. That way, if you get lost, someone knows where to look for you.

Okay, so you're eager to get going. But what are you taking with you? You can't leave without planning, says Long. Take enough water to stay hydrated, some food, and a survival kit (she'll tell you how to make one), which may really mean the difference between harm and safety. It's also a good idea to know ahead of time which plants are okay to eat – just in case – and where to find water if you run out.

Now, back to that intriguing trail: Long says that anybody can mistake an animal trail for a human path, but there are ways to be sure you don't stray the wrong way. Learn how to mark your way so, if you get discombobulated, you can retrace your steps.

And speaking of animals, it's kind of thrilling to know that you're sharing the wilderness with a cougar or bear, but behind that thrill is danger. Know how to avoid encounters with predators, snakes, and insects. And, of course, you'll want to know how to build a temporary shelter to keep you out of all kinds of harm's way.

Use your head, says Long, and learn to use a compass. Build that survival kit. If you're lost, learn stop. And, overall, keep reminding yourself that you'll be okay. You're a survivor!

If you have an adventurous kid in the house – and particularly if you're an outdoorsy person, too – you know how important it is to always be prepared. Survivor Kid can help.

Author Long, who has taught survival skills to kids as young as middle school, doesn't talk down to her readers; instead, she uses real terms in a simple, direct way that's easy to understand. Long is thorough in this guide, including advice that newbies need to know and of which experienced hikers will appreciate being reminded.

Survivor Kid is meant for middle-schoolers, but I think high-school age students could use what's in here, too. If exploring is on your child's agenda this summer, this is a great book to get lost in.

Eric M. McCartney, County Executive Director
Preston County FSA Office
157 Plaza CT., Suite 13, Kingwood, WV 26537-1793

COMMITTEE NOMINATIONS MUST BE FILED BY AUGUST 1

Eric McCartney, executive director for USDA's Farm Service Agency in Preston County, reminds farmers that Monday, Aug. 1, is the deadline to submit nominations for eligible candidates from Local Administrative Area (LAA) 1 (Pleasant and Grant districts) to serve on the County FSA Committee.

To be eligible to serve on an FSA county committee, a person must participate or cooperate in a program administered by FSA, be eligible to vote in a county committee election, and reside in the Local Administrative Area in which the person is a candidate. Persons uncertain about their eligibility to vote in the election or hold office as a committee member are advised to contact the Preston County FSA Office. Affirmation of eligibility to vote must be determined in order for a vote to count in an election.

Members serve three-year terms. Nationwide, there are about 7,800 farmers and ranchers serving on FSA county committees. Committees consist of three to 11 members who are elected by eligible producers.

FSA will mail ballots to eligible voters beginning November 4. The voted ballots are due back to the county office either via mail or in person by December 5. Newly elected committee members and alternates will take office on January 2, 2012.

More information on the county committee election, including the nomination form, is also available at the Preston County FSA office, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza. Persons may telephone the FSA office at 304-329-1923 or contact by fax at 304-329-3056. Nomination forms are also available online at: http://www.fsa.usda.gov/pas/publications/elections/Default.asp.

G'ville Rebounds After Loss, Beats Cumberland, Takes Two From Romney

American Legion Grantsville Post 214 baseball team suffered a loss to Fort Cumberland Post 13, 11-0, last Thursday evening, in a game which ended early. Grantsville followed its loss with a sweep of Romney Post 91 in a double-header played on Saturday afternoon at Garrett College. Grantsville beat Romney by a margin of 11-1 and then 10-0. Then on Tuesday, in a rematch with Fort Cumberland, Grantsville was victorious, 12-5, at Garrett College.

For Cumberland, Jeff Conley and Ethan Landis homered in the one-sided match-up. Conley's two-run homer came in the second inning. He also hit a single. Teammate Mike Moyer doubled and Aaron O'Rourke singled twice. Landis hit his three-run shot over the fences in the eighth, which set into effect the mercy rule and ended the contest early.

Pat Sines doubled and singled twice for Grantsville.

Both double-header games played with Romney ended in the sixth inning after Grantsville forced the 10-run mercy rule. While its pitchers frustrated Romney's batters, Grantsville's were red hot, totaling 21 hits.

In the first of two games, Grantsville took control of the game early with seven runs in the first inning. Sines went 2-for-2 in the first, smashing a two-run double before picking up a single.

Teammate Corey Helbig had three base hits and an RBI, while Cody Rodeheaver had two hits including a two-run single in the seven-run first inning. Nathan King had a double and an RBI. Dylan Miller had two hits and an RBI.

Miller struck out four, walked three, hit two batters in giving up four hits, two to Romney's Caleb Hill with one being an RBI single.

Steven Holtschneider ended game two with Romney with a one-hit performance after dominating with nine strikeouts and only one walk. Romney's Shaun Bennett had the only hit.

Three Grantsville players picked up hits in game two. Ryan Bennett drove in three with two base hits. Rodeheaver doubled, singled, and had an RBI double, and Helbig an RBI single in Grantsville's four-run third inning.

In its second game with Cumberland in the span of a week, Grantsville was assisted in its win by Helbig, who jacked a two-run home run to highlight a six-run fourth inning. Helbig then added a single to Grantsville's five-run sixth.

Teammate Holtschneider had a three-run double in the fourth and he added two singles. Rodeheaver had an RBI and two singles, and King had a two-run base hit in the sixth. Alex Smith had an RBI single in the fourth.

Cumberland was led by two hits from Landis, including a double. Conley and Kevin Myers each had two singles.

King went the distance for Grantsville and picked up the nine-inning win, striking out two, allowing four walks, and also hitting a batter.

Zach Bradfield started for Cumberland. He was relieved by Conley in the fourth. Ryan Briner took the mound in the sixth.

Oakland Sweeps Double-Header With Powerhouse

In Pen-Mar League baseball action on Sunday, the Oakland Oaks defeated West Virginia Powerhouse in both games of a double-header held at Garrett College.

The Oaks took win number one after dominating Powerhouse offensively, 11-3. In game two, Oakland shut out and shut down West Virginia's batters with its pitching, allowing them only six hits through seven innings, before taking the win, 3-0.

The 11 runs for Oakland in game one came from 11 hits – and they came early. The Oaks began their day's scoring with a two-run bottom of the first, made it 3-0 after tacking on another run in the second inning, and laid it on thick with a seven-run third. Oakland's eleventh and final run came in the fourth inning.

Powerhouse answered back with a three-run fifth inning, but it was too little, too late. Powerhouse committed two errors and scored its three runs on five hits.

Also on Tuesday, Team One Auto Mall made it two-for-two after winning the second game of its three-game playoff series with Frostburg Legion, 12-2, scoring all of its runs over the first two innings.

Lakeview Auto downed Cork's Cars, 15-9, in their opening playoff series game at Holler Field. The tone of the game was set after Lakeview scored seven runs in the second inning.

Leading Madigan's, Scott Cooper scored three runs, knocked in two others on two singles, and had nine strikeouts. He pitched a complete game.

Dogs Edged By Barrelville, But Top Cumberland

Though mounting a two-run final-inning at-bat, the Northside Diamond Dogs came up just short, 9-8, in its Cumberland Rec. League game with Barrelville ODC last Wednesday evening (7/6). Ironically, in its next game, the Dogs held off a rally by the Cumberland Moose on Monday to hold onto a lead and win by, 9-8, at LaVale Lions Field.

The Dogs fell to Barrellville after Bobby Deneen purchased his team some insurance with an RBI single in its last at-bat.

For the Diamond Dogs, Josh Mason doubled and singled twice.

Brad Torbett hit a three-run homer and a double for Barrellville, while teammate Brandon Kendal had two singles and three RBI.

In its game with the Moose, Northside held leads of 5-0 through three innings, 6-1 after four, and led 8-4 going into the seventh, when Josh Bittinger tripled to score Beck Sherrard and up the score to 9-4.

The Moose battled back and scored four runs in its half of the seventh inning. The bases were empty, however, when Northside recorded the game's final out.

For the Dogs, Jared Fike singled and tripled with an RBI, Cody Rodeheaver belted two triples, Andrew Sisler drove in two runs, Bittinger added a single, and Sherrard finished with two base hits for two RBI.

Cumberland was led by Vinnie Foreman's two hits, including a triple. Eli and Nate Souders each singled, tripled, and had an RBI.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

A DIFFICULT WEEKEND FOR SAILING
by Dan Muss

After six weeks of good sailing conditions, I guess we were due for our summer-time days of doldrums, and that's what we had this past weekend. One forecast for Saturday said 5 mph and another said 5 to 10; what we had was, literally, 0 to 5, with 0 dominating. The breeze came up and then died, came up again ... and then died. PRO Gordy Clelton finally called the racers out for a 2 p.m. start with this faltering wind. We got the race off, but it was long and hot, and we were continually battered by motorboat wakes. (It's known here as "shake and bake.")

My son Andrew was crewing for me and, by some fluke of perception, had me over the starting line when the horn went off. We did not hear anything from the committee boat, but I saw the individual recall flag go up, and I was pretty sure it was us. But the air was so light (and he was sure we were not over), I decided not to go back and restart. In that light air it would have taken us a long time to get clear of the other boats and back to the line. But, alas, we were over – by a bunch – and were disqualified! The race committee is not required to inform boats that are over early and, while they attempted to hail us, their bull-horn was not working.

The masters were bunched going around the jibe and leeward marks, except for Gregory, who was ¼ mile ahead. But on the last windward leg to the finish, he went into the Thousand Acres shore and died there while a passel of boats, both masters and silvers, crept toward the finish line. In the end, Kemp, who had been pretty far back in the pack, won, while Gregory came in second.

Our race took over an hour for one lap around a roughly 1½-mile course, which indicates how slow we were going. At times we were absolutely dead in the water.

One bright spot in a difficult race – 11-year-old Kyrie Graham skippered the down-wind legs of the Gold Fleet race in Mark Schaefer's boat and did a great job keeping them out ahead of the rest of the fleet!

Sunday looked like a repeat of Saturday, and, after one postponement, PRO Tom Scannell canceled the race. This decision was followed by a roar of approval from the Turkey Neck Club deck.

Manta Rays Vie In Breaststroke Meet At The Y

Garrett County's youth swim team, the Manta Rays, participated in the annual Summer Swim League breaststroke meet at the Riverside YMCA in Cumberland on Saturday.

The Rays placed second overall in terms of total points against competing teams from Cumberland, Bel Air, LaVale, Frostburg, and Hardy County, W.Va., and captured a number of top-three honors in both A-flight and B-flight competition. A-flight swimmers are those who either swim year-round or have won a B-flight championship.

In individual races, the following A-flight swimmers won first place ribbons: Maria Walch, girls age 9-10, 50 yard breaststroke, with a time of 53:09; Zak Thomas, boys 13-14, 100 breast (1:23.99) and 50 freestyle (25.72); and Jackie Tidd, girls 13-14, 100 breast (1:30.90).

Manta Rays placing second were: Laurel Williams, girls 7-8, 25 breast (32.08); Sam Jones, 50 breast (39.83), Acie Friend, 50 breast (44.33), Katelin Rank, girls 11-12, 50 free (37.75), and Katy Tidd, 50 free (32.59).

Rays earning third places were: Annika Naylor, girls 13-14, 50 breast (53.45) and 50 free (36.73); Danny Nickel, boys 9-10, 25 free (22.21); and Corinne Weaver, 50 free (33.93).

In relay competition, the team consisting of Matthew Ball, Sam Jones, Zak Thomas, and Katy Tidd won first place in the mixed 13-14, 200 yard freestyle relay. Teammates Jackie Tidd, Acie Friend, Nicole Walch, and Corinne Weaver won first place in the mixed 15 and over, 200 yard freestyle relay. Winning a first place ribbon in the mixed 250 freestyle crescendo relay were Caleb Rowan, Katelin Rank, Nicole Walch, Zak Thomas, and Harley Rhodes.

Second-place ribbons were awarded to Jaclyn Jacobs, Caleb Rowan, Reid Schenk, and Laurel Williams in the mixed 8 and under, 100 free relay; Danny Nickel, Harley Rhodes, Maria Walch, and Lauren Jacobs in the mixed 9-10 200 free relay; and Katelin Rank, Piper Schenk, Emily Bowser, and Annika Naylor in the mixed 13-14, 200 free relay.

Taking third in the mixed 250 free crescendo relay were Manta Ray teammates Reid Schenk, Piper Schenk, Acie Friend, Sam Jones, and Danny Nickel.

Several swimmers chose to participate in the open event, the mixed 200 yard breaststroke. Sam Jones took second place with a time of 3:19.35, setting a record in the B-flight boys, aged 13-14 category. Matthew Ball placed third with a time of 3:31.69, breaking his 2010 record (3:51.65) in the A-flight boys, 13-14 category. Nicole Walch placed fifth (3:45.12). Maria Walch placed 11th (4:21.32), setting a Manta Ray record for A-flight girls, 9-10.

The Manta Rays will compete in the butterfly meet this Friday, July 15. For more information about the team and complete meet results, persons are invited to visit the organization's web site at www.manta-ray.org.

Wade Memorial Run, Walk Results Are Announced

There were 169 runners and 109 walkers who participated in the 11th Lisa Wade 5-K Run/1.5-Mile Fun Run/Walk and 4th annual Corey's Course on Saturday in Westernport. The races are held in memory of Lisa Wade, who was a Garrett County resident who died in a pedestrian/vehicle accident years ago. The Georges' Creek Soccer Club coordinates the event under the direction of Steve Amann and with the timing services of the Queen City Striders.

The 5-K run did not see any course records fall, but times were still among the fastest ever for both genders. On the male side, 23-year-old Dan DeWitt led all runners to the line with a time of 16:14. The Frostburg resident's pace of 5:14 per mile put him just over one minute ahead of second-place finisher Ian MacFawn, 18, LaVale, who finished in 17:20, and third place finisher Luke Smith, 17, Frostburg, who finished in 17:28.

DeWitt was well off the course record time of 15:15, set in 2008 by Jaron Hawkins of Frostburg.

Among the female runners, 36-year-old Heather Parks, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., captured first place with a time of 19:33, which placed her 13th overall. Second place went to Amy Rowan, 31, Cumberland, with a time of 20:37. Finishing third was Jennah Altobello, 26, Ridgeley, W.Va., in 21:55.

Among other Garrett County runners, Jen Sober, 38, McHenry, won the women's 35-39 age group with a time of 23:04; Sara Cosner, 23, Oakland, was 38th overall with a time of 23:10; and Don Wilkinson, 49, Oakland, placed 39th overall with a time of 23:13.

The female course record of 17:33, set by Jennifer Davis in 2010, is also safe for another year.

Among the masters runners, 58-year-old Tom Ruckert finished first among the men, recording a time of 19:00 for 11th overall, while Paula Bridges, 45, won among the women with a time of 23:55, 49th overall.

In the 1.5 Mile Fun Run/Walk, Ryan Streets, 14, Keyser, finished first overall in 9:40. Second overall and second male was Logan Kiddy, 8, of Lonaconing, with a time of 10:17.

The female participants were led by Sarah Hutton, 14, Swanton, with a time of 10:20 for 4th place overall. Cali Alkire, 20, Augusta, W.Va., finished second with a time of 10:48, placing her fifth overall.

The 4th annual Corey's Course, a 15-minute timed handicapped-friendly walking event, was also held in memory of Lisa's cousin, Corey Broadwater.

Photos and video clips of the event can be viewed online at TriStateRunnur.com

Cross Country Prog. Added At Garrett College

The Athletic Department of Garrett College will expand this fall to include a men's and women's cross country running program, according to Shawn Noel, director of athletics at Garrett.

"Is there a better place to run than in the beautiful surroundings of Garrett County?" said Noel in making the announcement.

Garrett currently offers seven intercollegiate sports: women's volleyball, men's basketball, women's basketball, baseball, men's golf, women's golf, and softball.

Men's and women's cross country will begin at GC with its inaugural team this fall.

"The addition of cross country helps strengthen the athletic program at Garrett College. It also opens up the doors to our college to recruit a particular type of student athlete that we were unable to recruit in the past," Noel said.

For more information on the cross country or any other Garrett College athletic programs, persons are invited to go online to www.garrettcollege.edu/athletics or telephone the Athletic Department at 301-387-3052.

Co-Ed Volleyball Tournament Set In Friendsville

Fred Thayer Golf Tourney Set, July 29

Golf, a game with origins harkening back to the Middle Ages, is a Scottish export, that followed Scotch immigrants to their new homes in the U.S. and around the world.

Before his death in 2006, Frederick Thayer III, a former judge for the Garrett County Circuit Court, was well-known for his love of all things Scottish, particularly the game of golf. To honor his memory, the McHenry Highland Festival sponsors an annual Fred Thayer Memorial Golf Tournament at the Thousand Acres Lakeside Golf Club. This year, the tournament will take place on Friday, July 29, with check-in at 12:30 p.m. and a shotgun start at 1:30 p.m.

The two-person/best-ball, 18-hole tournament offers "flag prizes for lassies and laddies." The hole-in-one prize is a Flying Scot sailboat and trailer donated by Flying Scot Inc. Players will be piped out to the course by Jerry McGee, pipe major emeritus of the Garrett Highlands Pipes and Drums. The sponsors of the event have expressed their gratitude to the Franklin family for the use of the golf course.

Judge Thayer was instrumental in founding the Garrett Highlands Pipes and Drums, which is both a marching band in the Scottish military tradition and a teaching band. To further interest in the bagpipes, a scholarship in Thayer's name was established in 2007. A portion of the proceeds from the event will be donated to this scholarship fund.

Entrance fees are set at $75 per individual, $130 per two-person team, and $220 per four-person team. Those interested are encouraged by the sponsors to pre-register at www.highlandfest.info/golf.html by July 26. One may also pre-register by contacting Janet Cunningham at 412-874-7121 or by completing a registration form at the golf course's pro shop.

TWO NAMED STATE SERVICE STARS – Annie Graham, a 2011 graduate of Southern High School, and Marley Kamp, a 2011 graduate of Northern High School, were recently selected as Maryland State Service Stars at a ceremony held at the Crowne Plaza Hotel in Timonium. Two students are selected from each Maryland county each year for the honor. Above left is Kamp (center) with state superintendant Dr. Nancy Grasmick, left, and director of the Youth Development branch Vanessa Diggs, right. Graham is pictured above right, center. See story for details.

Local Students Named State Service Stars

Two Garrett County students were recently honored as Maryland State Service Stars at a ceremony held at the Crowne Plaza Hotel in Timonium. Annie Graham, a 2011 graduate of Southern High School, and Marley Kamp, a 2011 graduate of Northern High School, were selected from Garrett County.

Two students are selected each year from each county in the state of Maryland to be recognized as having completed high-quality service activities. In order to qualify for the Service Star Award, a student must be enrolled in high school, exceed expectations for service learning in his/her district, have at least 100 hours of documented service through at least three different service sites, and be considered a role model for his/her peers.

Graham has accumulated 167 service hours through volunteering with Rotary, at Yough Glades Elementary School, and for the town of Oakland, West Marva District (missions and church outreach related activities), and Fairview Church. She has assisted with youth sports and 4-H activities. Her most recent experience is speaking with elementary students whose parents are currently deployed overseas. She is currently working on a garden project, where all produce coming from the garden will benefit people in need. She is the daughter of Chuck and Becky Graham, Oakland.

Kamp has accumulated 139 service hours through volunteer work with St. Ann's Mission, the Grantsville Little League, a senior citizen center, Gear Up Liaison, and St. Michael's Church. She enjoys working with the mission especially since this organization is trying to restore a historical landmark. She enjoys physical activities, such as painting and cleaning as much as she does the fundraising aspects. She is the daughter of Donald and Diane Kamp.

The team of Steve Liller, Brady Donaldson, Jack Rickman, and Gordon Wright recorded a 74 for low gross. Bill Weissgerber, Beau Noonan, Ted Raynovich, and Gordon Wright recorded a 64 to win low net.

Skins game winners were Bill Weissgerber and Mike Brantner, who was also the low gross individual winner, while Rich Seese won closest to the pin on #6.

With a score of 29, Steve Liller and Jerry House placed first in a round of two-man/best ball/9-hole/low net on Wednesday, June 22.

truthful statistic that showed that any child who attended at least one 4th of July event before 18 years of age is much more likely to become a Republican than a Democrat.

Don't almost all American children attend at least one 4th of July event during their childhood? But we don't see vastly larger numbers of Republicans than Democrats. That simply does not fit with the party affiliations of Americans.

Of course, 4th of July parades are much more common in rural or small-town areas than in big cities. And urban areas are more heavily Democratic than rural areas. It certainly does not fit with my family's experiences. During our growing years, my siblings and I not only attended many Independence Day events, but we participated in them, whether it was with the Northern High marching band or helping Daddy to parade his authentic Conestoga wagon, which had a historically correct painted blue body with red wheels, and, of course, a white cover.

Yet not a single child of Robert and Ruth Glotfelty became a Republican, and I certainly took my little girls to the Accident July 4th parade and the lake fireworks show every year, and they did not become Republicans either. In fact, the two youngest are very passionate Democrats.

I have many more Democratic close friends than Republicans, and I'm pretty sure that all my Democrat friends attended July 4th celebrations.

I was delightfully surprised to see my Claire on Friday evening for the July 4th weekend. It was sad to hear her root for Washington against my beloved Pirates, but the Bucs easily defeated them on Friday. The Pirates are playing very well of late. It may mean that they might be in the race for the pennant.

Anytime the Bittinger area gets plenty of rainfall in May, June, and even July, it will be very green, and vegetable gardens will surely be doing quite well. I'm sure peas would be fully ready to pick, and probably string beans would also be at their prime. We certainly miss Country Acres Strawberry Farm, formerly operated by Elmer Maust. Unfortunately, his family did not feel able to take it over completely after his untimely death a handful of years ago.

Another benefit of lots of rain is that my wild birds have plenty of water in the puddles in my lane to get an almost daily bath. They were quite busy Wednesday morning. It looked like at least a half a dozen – probably more – birds shared one of the largest puddles.

I was moved to tears when I opened my mail today. For once, it was not because it contained too many bills that I can't afford to pay. Instead, I got a gift certificate for Main Street Books in Frostburg. It said that it was paid for by a former student and reader of my column. What a thrill that I can go shopping for books at long last. Whoever did that, thank you so much! You made my day.

Well, the weather turned around fast. After a couple of days of very hot, steamy weather, this Friday is quite cool and very wet. The rain was pouring down this morning. That has ended, and it's still cool and misty.

Happy news! The Pirates are only one game below first place in the National Central Division. We are in the position to reach the playoffs.

Well, I must get new glasses if the Pirates are in the pennant race. I have had some trouble getting an appointment with my old friend Dr. Jim Jones to get an exam. But I got one on Aug. 2, the day I have another appointment in Oakland. I hate to make two trips to Oakland in one month. It looks like maybe this time it will work out.

If the Congress is unable to pass a debt ceiling bill, interest rates will soar immediately. Overall, all kinds of economic pain will be felt by regular Americans, including me, since I am the one who gets a bill from the Department of Education for interest on my three daughters' college loan debts. At the same time, my income is threatened. This is pretty scary.

It is pretty hot for Bittinger, but it's very sunny. So after the heavy rain, it should be good for gardens. Soon they will have fresh, wonderful vine tomatoes. This time of year, when I was still gardening on a full scale, my family ate so well. Every dinner featured a different fresh vegetable. There were sugar snap peas, peas, beans, summer squash, carrots, and sweet peppers. The possibilities seemed almost imitless.

My old yellow transparent apples will ripen very soon. That was always a big rush to can as much applesauce as possible. A somewhat ugly conflict developed in early August 1986, just before I was due to deliver my first baby. I was determined to have lots of homemade applesauce for her first meals, and Carol wanted lots of apples, too.

A woman in the latest stage of pregnancy is not mild mannered or totally rational. She is totally focused on preparing for her coming baby. A thing like enough applesauce seemed pretty important to me. That is too mild an expression for my feelings. Maybe a better word was obsessed.

Our apple tree was popular with some of my neighbors, because its apples were the best for applesauce, especially in the opinion of Ferne Beachy. But that is how a community should work. People should share their abundant crops of vegetables from their gardens and orchards. No spaghetti sauce in the world is as good as those made from garden-grown fresh tomatoes.

Ruth Beachy, Huntingdon, Pa., was a weekend visitor of Lenny and Sally Poholsky and attended the Beachy reunion at the Bittinger fire hall on Sunday.

Cindy Stanton and Sally and Torrey Poholsky visited with Mike, Lea, Blake, and Julia Pochet in Beavercreek, Ohio, and welcomed new baby Drew Daniel shortly after arriving. Cindy stayed and Sally and Torrey returned home Friday.

Four Graduate From West Virginia School Of Banking

Jonna Frazee, Tonya Myers, Jennifer Nichols, and Cindy Tehrani of Clear Mountain Bank recently graduated from the West Virginia School of Banking.

Graduates of the school complete a two-year program covering a wide ranging curriculum of specialized topics in banking, financial services, management, and communications, while graduates of the three-year program tackle an even more advanced set of subjects. Attendees are often bankers who will have the chance to be considered for key positions in banking during their careers.

Frazee, Myers, and Tehrani completed their third year and graduated from the Lloyd P. Calvert Graduate School of Banking, while Nichols graduated from the two-year program.

Frazee is branch manager of Clear Mountain Bank's Oakland office and has more than 24 years' experience in finance, lending, customer service, and management. Myers has worked for Clear Mountain Bank for 17 years and is currently branch manager of the bank's Patteson Drive Kroger office in Morgantown. Nichols is a mortgage specialist with 10 years' lending experience and is also a graduate of Fairmont State University. Tehrani serves as executive assistant and has 23 years' experience in the financial industry.

"The West Virginia School of Banking provides bankers with an opportunity to learn about the latest trends in banking, economics and the world of regulatory compliance," said Edmond Seifried, professor emeritus at Lafayette College in Pennsylvania, who has served as the dean of the school for more than 10 years. "Bankers also learn from their peers about the best practices throughout the industry. I have been associated with many schools of banking around the country, and West Virginia undoubtedly has one of the best."

The West Virginia School of Banking was started in 1944. This year's session of the school was attended by 70 students and was held in May at the University of Charleston.

This year's graduating class from the two-year program totaled 27 bankers, as well as another nine from the elective one-year Lloyd P. Calvert Graduate School of Banking program. A total of 26 banks and 27 West Virginia counties were represented at this year's school, and there were also students attending from Kentucky, Virginia and Ohio. There have been approximately 3,000 graduate bankers over the 67-year history of the West Virginia School of Banking.

Maryland Measles Patient Did Not Spread Disease

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) notified the public last month about a person with measles who could have exposed others in Maryland while infectious. While many people could have been at risk, DHMH announced Monday that no additional related cases of measles have been identified, and that Marylanders should continue to protect themselves with vaccination and vigilance.

"With measles outbreaks in nearby states, this is hardly the moment to be complacent," said Frances Phillips, deputy secretary for Public Health Services. "Every Marylander should be up-to-date on measles vaccination."

DHMH and local health departments worked with Maryland health care providers over the past month to investigate illnesses that could have been measles, including illnesses among people who were potentially exposed to the person with measles. All were promptly evaluated and had laboratory testing performed; however, none had measles.

Health department officials note that measles cases continue to be identified in other parts of the United States. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) reports that the country is experiencing a high number of measles cases this year. Recent measles outbreaks have been reported in Utah, New York, Minnesota, and Virginia.

"Maryland healthcare providers should be vigilant for possible measles cases," said Secretary Joshua M. Sharfstein. "Quick identification of measles is essential to prevent the spread of this disease."

Measles is a highly contagious viral illness. It is spread through coughing, sneezing and contact with secretions from the nose, mouth, and throat of an infected person.

Measles symptoms usually appear in two stages. In the first stage, most people have a fever of greater than 101 degrees F, runny nose, watery red eyes, and a cough. The second stage begins around the third to seventh day when a rash begins to appear on the face and spreads over the entire body.

Measles can be prevented by vaccination with the measles, mumps, and rubella (MMR) vaccine, which the DHMH says is both safe and effective. Two doses of MMR are recommended for most individuals, with the first dose given at age 12-15 months and the second prior to kindergarten entry (age 4-6 years).

Maryland last had confirmed measles cases in 2009. There were no confirmed cases identified in Maryland in 2010 or previously in 2011.

For more information on measles, persons are advised to go online to http://ideha.dhmh.maryland.gov/pdf/Measles.pdf or to http://www.cdc.gov/measles/.

"Inside Out & Upside Down on Main Street" is the theme for VBS this year. On Main Street, kids will explore stories Jesus told about everyday people in everyday situations. Classes will be offered to children age 4 to 12th grade. Bible-based lessons will be taught, and students will be challenged and involved through such activities as song time, Bible time, visual demonstration, classroom interaction, and craft-making.

Error Noted

In a recent article, a sponsor for the upcoming Garrett Chamber of Commerce's Business Before Hours event was inadvertently omitted. The article stated that the event was to be sponsored by Potomac Edison, when in fact it is also being sponsored by Clear Mountain Bank. The error is regretted.

Closer to the Shore

Wading into the waves, the surf envelopes us with its foamy coolness; it can also endanger us with its powerful undertow if we venture out too far. It's easy to wander from the safety of the shore. In the same way, we may lose sight of God as we become preoccupied with life. Before we know it, life can wear us down and leave us feeling separated from God. But He is always with us, waiting for us to seek Him. Stay close to the protection of God's love at your house of worship.

Happiness or Holiness

While it certainly is possible to be both happy and holy, and indeed many of the holiest people seem profoundly happy, consider Mother Teresa or the Dalai Lama, if given a choice between happiness and holiness, we should choose holiness. Americans are perhaps so inclined to pursue happiness that we worship it as a kind of idol. And not just Americans: Aristotle contended that happiness is the highest good, the thing which all men seek and the end of all ends, every other end pursued not for its own sake but for the sake of happiness. But before we consider Aristotle a shallow pleasure-seeker, we should realize that Aristotle's notion of happiness was much broader than ours today. As he considered happiness, or eudaimonla, to require living a good and virtuous life and to be affected by a variety of things, from one's appearance to one's reputation, and even considered that one's happiness could be affected after one's death. We Americans tend to be the shallow pleasure-seekers, thinking of happiness as nothing more than a perpetual sunny disposition or good mood. Perhaps we should return to Aristotle's more robust version of happiness, which contends that virtue must be at the center of human flourishing. To be happy requires acting virtuously and thus one cannot be truly happy without also being holy.

Blessed is the one who does not walk in step with thewicked or stand in the way that sinners take or sit in the company of mockers, but whose delight is in the law of the Lord, and who meditates on his law day and night.

Why ABC didn't show 'Brothers' more love

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: Why did ABC cancel "Brothers & Sisters"? I was a huge fan. –Marilyn Cannon Miller, Milwaukee

A: A combination of factors went into it. One was the age of the Sally Field-starring series, and whether the network felt its expense on another season would be justified by the ratings. By this point, the show had the size of audience it always was going to have, and any sudden jump in that was unlikely; even before the decision to cancel the entire show was made, conversations were under way about reducing co-star Calista Flockhart's involvement to save costs.

Also, ABC had a wealth of new drama pilots to consider for possible series slots. When it comes to such shows on that network's schedule, given all the sitcoms and unscripted series that also are on it, the last hour in the prime-time lineup generally is "drama time." There are only so many of those slots available, so ABC had to decide whether to keep an aging show or go for a new one instead ... and it did the latter.

Sally Field

Q: Please list the cast members of "The Closer" and their roles. I can't put the names to the faces. –Amy Solobay, Canonsburg, Pa.

A: We'll figure you know who Kyra Sedgwick is, but as for the other cast regulars on the soon-to-end TNT show, here goes: J.K. Simmons as Assistant Operations Chief Will Pope; Corey Reynolds as Detective Sgt. David Gabriel; Robert Gossett as Cmdr. Russell Taylor; G.W. Bailey as Detective Lt. Louie Provenza, Tony Denison as Detective Lt. Andy Flynn; and Michael Paul Chan as Detective Lt. Michael Chao.

Also: Raymond Cruz as Detective Julio Sanchez; Philip P. Keene as civilian surveillance coordinator Buzz Watson; and Jon Tenney as FBI Special Agent Fritz Howard, the husband of Deputy Chief Brenda Leigh Johnson (Sedgwick). Another cast regular in this final season of the series is Mary McDonnell as Capt. Sharon Raydor, who will be a continuing character in the "Closer" spinoff "Major Crimes," slated to premiere next summer.

Strange BUT TRUE

• It was American publisher and author William Feather who made the following sage observation: "The petty economies of the rich are just as amazing as the silly extravagances of the poor."
• The parents of one first-grade student at Hampton Day School in Bridgehampton, N.Y., once sued the school for not assigning homework to their 6-year-old son. In a victory for students everywhere, the parents lost.
• You probably know that the Chinese script is made up of ideograms: pictures that represent objects or ideas. Often, words are formed by pairing simple symbols to convey a more complex idea. For instance, the symbol for "eye" combined with the symbol for "water" creates the word "teardrop." Pair "mouth" with "bird" and you get song. And, interestingly, pairing two women together makes the symbol for "quarrel," and three means "gossip."
• Census data show that women in the South tend to live longer than their counterparts in northern states.
• You may be surprised to learn that President Abraham Lincoln's son, Robert Todd Lincoln, was on the scene of three presidential assassinations. The first time was in 1865, when he was with his father after he was shot at Ford's Theatre. In 1881, Lincoln, who was then serving as Secretary of War, arrived at Union Station shortly after President James A. Garfield had been shot. Finally, in 1901, he was at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo, N.Y., when President William McKinley was assassinated.

• On July 18, AD 64, the great fire of Rome breaks out and destroys much of the city. Despite the well-known stories, there is no evidence that Roman emperor Nero either started the fire or played the fiddle while it burned. The fiddle did not even exist at the time. Nero was actually 35 miles away in Antium when the fire broke out.
• On July 21, AD 365, a powerful earthquake off the coast of Greece causes a tsunami that devastates the city of Alexandria, Egypt. It was not until 1995 that archaeologists discovered the ruins of the old city off the coast of present-day Alexandria.
• On July 19, 1879, Doc Holliday commits his first murder, killing a man for shooting up his New Mexico saloon. Despite his formidable reputation as a deadly gunslinger, Doc Holliday only engaged in eight shootouts during his life, and it has only been verified that he killed two men.
• On July 24, 1901, William Sydney Porter, otherwise known as O. Henry, is released from prison after serving three years in jail for embezzlement from a bank in Austin, Texas. He began writing stories to support his young daughter while he was in prison.
• On July 22, 1923, John Herbert Dillinger joins the Navy in order to avoid charges of auto theft in Indiana, marking the beginning of America's most notorious criminal's downfall. • On July 20, 1972, a National Highway Traffic Administration study concludes that 1960-63 Chevrolet Corvair models are safe, contradicting charges made by consumer advocate Ralph Nader. In his 1965 book "Unsafe at Any Speed," Nader had dedicated an entire chapter to the rear-engine car.

Collecting
by Larry Cox

Q. I have a set of four 78-rpm records of General Douglas MacArthur's Farewell Address to Congress in April 1951. Would these be considered collectible? -- M.F.E., Fairbury, Ill.
A: The MacArthur recordings were issued by several companies, including RCA Victor. Although your recordings are interesting, they are not necessarily rare. I contacted several serious collectors and they seemed to agree that, in excellent condition, the set of 78s would probably sell in the $25 to $35 range.

Q: I have a copper milk can and a copper cream can, both from South America. I want to know their value. -- Nancy, Jamestown, N.C.
A: When is a copper container not just another copper container? Hint: when it has markings of the manufacturer. It would be almost impossible to place an accurate value on these two cans without more information. With that said, I contacted an expert in this field of collecting, Julian Gottlieb, president of the National Association of Milk Bottle Collectors. Gottlieg, an appraiser and dealer in dairy collectibles, has agreed to help you. His addresses are 18 Pond Place, Cos Cob, CT 06807; and gottmilk@snsn.com. The club publishes an informative newsletter, "Milk Route."

Q: I have old postcards and a number of scrapbooks that date back to the early years of the past century. How can I determine current values? -- Douglas, Unadilla, N.Y.
A: For paper collectibles, one of the best resources is The Ephemera Society of America, an organization for collectors of paper collectibles. The focus is on preservation and study of ephemera, or short-lived printed matter. This can include everything from postcards to old laundry tickets. The addresses are P.O. Box 95, Cazenovia, NY 13035; info@ephemerasociety.org; and www.ephemerasociety.org. Its excellent newsletter, "Ephemera News," is published quarterly.

BLOOMINGTON SCHOOL MAKES DONATION – With the closure of Bloomington Elementary School at the end of the 2010-11 school year, students from Bloomington will be going to Broad Ford Elementary School beginning this fall. As a result of various fundraisers supported by students, parents, other community citizens, and businesses, Bloomington School donated $1,728.30 to Broad Ford School's Accelerated Reading Program. According to school officials, this will allow all students at Broad Ford (grades kindergarten through fifth) to have access to thousands of on-line quizzes. Connie Uphold, Bloomington principal, said that Bloomington students have shown significant reading growth by using a program titled "30/Z/90" (30 minutes per day, starting at the beginning of their individualized reading zone, with 90% accuracy on reading book quizzes). Pictured from left are Dawna Ashby, new principal of Broad Ford School, Suzie Sincell, former principal of Broad Ford, and Uphold.

Maryland Schools To Share Money For Breakfasts

The Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE) announced that 228 schools in the state, including eight in Garrett County, will share $2.8 million in state funds to participate in the Maryland Meals for Achievement (MMFA) classroom breakfast program during the 2011-2012 school year.

MMFA is an innovative classroom breakfast project that was launched in 1998 in several Maryland elementary schools. Under the program, students in participating schools have the opportunity to eat school breakfast in their classrooms every morning, incorporating breakfast into their school day.

Schools with the program have an average daily breakfast participation of 70 percent, compared to schools without MMFA that have an average daily breakfast participation of 15 percent. The MMFA program is the most effective way of increasing participation in the School Breakfast Program, according to an MSDE spokesperson.

Garrett County schools that will receive funding for the program area Accident, Broad Ford, Crellin, Dennett Road, Friendsville, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, and Yough Glades elementary schools.

No student is required to pay for the meal, regardless of family income. MMFA funds are intended to help cover the cost of providing a free meal to students who would normally pay from 30 cents to $1.75 for school breakfast. However, by state law, at least 40 percent of the students enrolled in a school must be eligible for free or reduced-price meals for the school to qualify for MMFA.

The bulk of funding for the School Breakfast Program is federal, derived from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which provides cash subsidies for each meal served to students.

"Students who participate in the in-classroom breakfast program are better prepared for their academic day. They have improved concentration, fewer health issues, better classroom behavior, and score higher on standardized tests," said interim state superintendent of schools Bernard Sadusky.

Moreover, researchers at Massachusetts General Hospital and Harvard Medical School have credited MMFA with improving students' test scores, behavior, and well-being. Teachers, principals, nurses, and guidance counselors all report positive changes following the start of a classroom breakfast program in their schools.

There are ambitious efforts underway to increase breakfast participation in all Maryland schools. The School Breakfast Program is one of several nutrition programs included in the Governor's Partnership to End Childhood Hunger. This partnership seeks to eliminate childhood hunger by 2015, a goal that is consistent with President Obama's efforts.

For more information on the Maryland Meals for Achievement Program, persons are invited to telephone MSDE's School and Community Nutrition Programs Branch at 410-767-0214 or send an e-mail Brenda Schwaab at bschwaab@msde.state.md.us.

YOUNGSTERS "JOURNEY" TO SCOTLAND – The Oakland library Summer Reading Club began last Wednesday with 48 youngsters "traveling" to Scotland as part of this year's theme, "One World, Many Stories." Rosie McIntyre Versteegen (left) and John McGowan (right) introduced the children to the traditions and culture of Scotland. Versteegen, who was born and reared there, explained that her native country looks a lot like this area. She brought along the Scottish flag, a picture of a thistle (the flower of Scotland), and a tartan. "The tartan is very important," she noted. "It says which clan you are from." To demonstrate the language differences, she read the Scottish nursery rhyme "Wee Wiillie Winkie" in English and then in Scottish. McGowan, who is a member of the Garrett Highland Pipes and Drums, came dressed in his tartan kilt and brought along his bagpipes. He explained the history of the kilt and other elements of his attire. "The bagpipes," he said, "are thousands of years old. You can hear them for as many as eight miles away. Bagpipers would wake up their clans in the morning or call them to special meetings." He showed the children how the bag holds air so that the person playing the pipes does not have to pause as often for breathing. After the presentation the children enjoyed activities and crafts related to Scotland. They used Play-Doh to model Loch Ness monsters, crafted Scottish flags and castles, and tossed a large cardboard tube to resemble the caber toss, a traditional Scottish event in which participants toss large wooden poles. The Summer Reading Club continues through July at the Ruth Enlow Library and is free and open to the public. Dates and times for event all branches are available at reilb.net. For questions, persons may contact Keela Pfaff at 301-334-3966, ext. 115, or keela@reilbnet.

FRIENDS OF JENNINGS CLEAN UP RT. 46 – The first Friends from Jennings Randolph Lake Rt. 46 Clean-Up took place on June 11. Rt. 46 from Elk Garden to the Robert W. Craig Campground entrance (five miles) was thoroughly cleaned of all trash on both sides of the road. The Highway Department provided trash bags, safety vests for all participants, gloves, and mechanical pick-up devices. The collected trash amounted to eight 32-gallon bags of trash and six bags of aluminum cans, which will be recycled. After the clean-up, a barbecue was provided in the Robert W. Craig Campground for all participants. Those seeking more information or those interested in volunteering for the fall clean-up may call the lake office at 304-355-2346 and ask for Ranger Dennis. The regular monthly meeting is held at the Microtel Inn and Suites conference room at 6 p.m. every third Thursday of each month. Those interested in attending are welcome. The stretch of Rt. 46 that was cleaned was recently adopted by the group after a vote at the last meeting. Road clea-up in this area will take place each spring, summer, and fall. One of the requirements for Adopt-A-Highway programs is three highway clean-ups each year. The next large project will be a 3D Competition Archery Range. The group is seeking a partner for this project, which will be held in spring 2012. Volunteers are always needed for these projects.

Each year, Maryland Association of Realtors member board/associations select a worthy recipient to represent its association at the MAR Conference in September in Ocean City, where the MAR Realtor of the Year will be announced. The award is one of the top honors granted each year by the GCBR and recognizes a member who has been active in the organization on local, state and national levels, who exemplifies the realtor spirit and upholds the realtor code of ethics in business practices and who has made significant contributions to the local civic community. Kane has been in the real estate business for over 34 years and has served the GCBR in various capacities over the last four years. He has served on the committees of membership, orientation, education, nominating, budget and finance, and government affairs, and has served as director, vice president, president, and immediate past president of the local board. Kane has been involved in supporting Habitat for Humanity, is a member of the Task Force on Marcellus Shale Drilling in Garrett County, president of Tangtewood Property Owners' Association, and eucharistic minister and lay reader for St. Matthew's Episcopal Church. "Pat's professionalism and continued enthusiasm for the real estate industry has gained him the respect and admiration of his peers and is an excellent role model and mentor for many GCBR members," said a spokesperson. He and his wife Jane Ann live in the Oakland area. They have four daughters and one son in the Washington metropolitan area.

NAMED 2011 AFFILIATE OF THE YEAR – Local attorney Gary Sabo Jr. was recently named 2011 Affiliate of the Year by the Garrett County Board of Realtors. He was honored at the June 30 general membership meeting held at Garrett College. Sabo received his bachelor's degree from the Pennsylvania State University and his juris doctorate from the University of Pittsburgh School of Law, where he served as managing editor of the Law Review. WITH CLASSES AND EXAMS BEHIND THEM, some members of Garrett College Student Veterans Organization and their families gathered recently for a cook-out and picnic. Pictured from left are Aaron Miller, Bruce McCleland, Matthew Lundquist, Bob Paugh, Kathy Fauber of the GC Veterans Affairs Office, Rocky Gregory, Steven Friend, Chris English-Ramsay, and GC president Dr. Richard MacLennan. See story.

Garrett College Is Committed To Having Veteran-Friendly Campus

by Peggy Santamaria

Anyone speaking with Kathy Fauber about the students she works with at Garrett College will probably hear the phrase "my veterans." As a certifying official of the Veterans Affairs Office in the GC Financial Aid Department, Fauber embraces her work with military veterans returning to college and dedicates herself to helping provide a smooth transition from military life to student life. And it is a transition that can often be challenging.

One need only to enter her office to know that Fauber's job goes way beyond getting the veterans' paperwork certified properly. The wall by her desk is papered with photos of "her veterans" taken during active duty and while they are here on campus.

"These men and women deserve our respect and support for the work they have done," she said. "I am really glad that Garrett College can offer them a veteran-friendly environment."

And Garrett College is veteran-friendly. From the first glance at the college web site, one finds that veterans are provided a direct link to pertinent information on financial aid and other Veterans Affairs (VA) support systems and the on-campus association. The Garrett College Student Veterans Organization, a chapter of Student Veterans of America, provides a forum and social venue for these students who share life experiences that often differ drastically from the experiences of their classmates.

Each year, Fauber organizes a Remembrance Day on November 11 with campus-wide activities focused on veterans. This year for the first time, beginning with the fall semester, she will hold an orientation meeting for new and returning veterans on campus.

"This will give the people the opportunity to meet each other and become more comfortable at Garrett," Fauber said.

College president Dr. Richard MacLennan champions the expansion of veteran support on campus. A military veteran himself, Dr. MacLennan also attended community college during his tour of duty.

"At Garrett College we provide the opportunity for men and women of the armed services to chart a new course for their lives," he said. "But even more than that, we reach out to welcome and support them as they move forward. Our staff is sensitive to the veterans' needs, and I'm proud of them for the work they do."

Fauber speaks of the overall sense of maturity that the veterans bring to campus.

"These men and women are adult learners who have all kinds of life experiences," she said. "They know what it is to set goals, to focus, and to accomplish things. They can be a great resource for some of our younger students."

Aaron Miller, a graduate of Northern High School, served on active duty in the U.S. Army for 12 years. In addition to being posted on several bases in the United States, he served in Germany, Korea, and Kosovo, and had two tours of duty in Iraq. Today Miller is a member of the West Virginia Guard and a student at Garrett College. He also manages to work part time in the Veterans Affairs Office at the college, where he is able to see firsthand the efforts made to improve services to veterans.

"Garrett continually improves the services of the Veterans Affairs Office by doing things to make the paperwork more efficient and getting the best possible flow of information from the VA," he said.

Miller also sees the newly established Garrett College Student Veterans Organization, for which he serves as vice president, as an important addition to the quality of campus life for veterans. He explained that military service creates a camaraderie that leads to enduring relationships.

"During the years of active service, military people form really strong bonds with each other," he said. "There is a unity of mission, a sense of close family, and an understanding of the lifestyle. The new GC veterans' organization brings these men and women on campus together for mutual support."

Miller has found that the small size of classes and the personal involvement of faculty with students at Garrett greatly reduce the sense of isolation that many veterans experience on large campuses.

"The instructors here are really great," he said. "They know who you are and will work with you as an individual. Garrett College has a lot to offer veterans seeking degrees or certifications through continuing education programs."

Miller says he knows he has made the right choice by selecting GC to help him create his future.

For more information on veterans' services and opportunities at Garrett College, persons may telephone 301-387-3057, e-mail kathy.fauber@garrettcollege.edu, or go online to www.garrettcollege.edu and click on Veterans.

CHECKING ALL THE DETAILS on an application, student veteran and part-time employee of the Garrett College Veterans Affairs Office Aaron Miller confers with Kathy Fauber, certifying official of the Veterans Affairs Office. Fauber's office is typically a first stop for most veterans who enroll at Garrett College.

2010 Annual Report

Tucker Community Foundation

President's Message

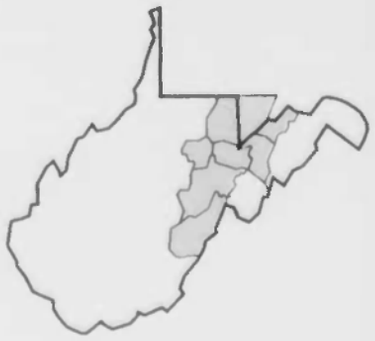
This report provides an overview of the Foundation's expanding role. Many who are familiar with our organization are unclear on what we do. The Tucker Community Foundation continues to facilitate local charitable giving and we are taking a more active role in collaborative efforts to benefit the region.

Our concept of local is defined by our donors. The Endowed Funds we manage currently provide grant and scholarship awards within an eight-county region so as we grow we are challenged to look at a broader picture. We are constantly searching for means to create additional opportunities that can benefit everyone in our service area. We applaud those who line up on the streets of Davis each September to walk or Run For It. The success of that grant program [illegible] of generous support from Race Sponsors and Match Donors who understand that the consequences of their donations are a win-win for the participant, the community and the region.

In addition to our grant and scholarship program, TCF also serves as the fiscal agent for the Warm the Children program and the Heart of the Highlands project. A recent grant initiative provided an opportunity for TCF to engage other funding parties to identify and address at-risk behaviors for local youth. The observation and tracking by a former high school teacher focused our attention on the growing problem of school and classroom absenteeism. Parents, teachers, and business leaders have joined the discussion. A public awareness campaign is being developed that could serve as a model for other communities.

Whether you are a civic leader, a business owner or employee, an educator or student, a resident or visitor – it is not just your donations – it's your voice that plants the seeds of success in our communities. Give us a call or stop by, we'd like to hear from you.

Sincerely,
David Cooper
President



Tucker Community Foundation Service Area

Our service area is determined by our donors. In 2010, the Foundation served Barbour, Grant, Mineral, Preston, Pocahontas, Randolph, and Tucker counties in West Virginia as well as Garrett County in Maryland.

Establish a fund that serves your community. Contact the Foundation office for more information.

COVER: Megan Conroy (#827) was a part of the first team to establish an Endowed Fund solely with Run For It proceeds. Her team, Fresh Canvas, created the Dutch Easton Fund to provide opportunities for creative art projects. Endowing a fund is like stocking a root cellar: it provides a measured bounty for generations to come.

OUR MISSION

Creating opportunities for the communities we serve.

OUR VISION

Tucker Community Foundation hopes to serve as a motivational model for a more productive and sound future through our commitment to our communities; to teach giving without expecting direct personal benefit

Over the next few pages you will see how the grant awards and our donors support the various categories. Prospective grant recipients can find grants or scholarships that could help and donors can see where more help is necessary.

Endowed Funds organized by area of Interest

The graph demonstrates the status of our donors' commitment. It also shows where there is opportunity for growth. The power of the Foundation lies in its potential. Each Endowed Fund begins with the devotion of a family or organization as they identify an opportunity and endeavor to make a difference.

Endowing a Fund with the Tucker Community Foundation is like building a root cellar.

It is laying the groundwork, stone by stone, of something that will be valuable to current and future generations. Once the structure is in place, you stock it each year with what you can put up—your surplus. Once enough is stored away to ensure the permanence of the fund, it begins to pay back. And like the Appalachian root cellar, the fund will far outlast its builders and weather the vagaries of the economic climate, providing a measured bounty for generations to come.

The minimum fund requirement to endow a fund ranges from $5,000 to $20,000. Once the fund is initiated, the donors have five years to build this minimum. Contact the Foundation office for more information about endowing a fund.

Charles Welder "Web" Pell

In 1997 Carl Kline and former Davis High School basketball teammates decided to start an Endowed Fund in honor of their former coach, "Web" Pell. A reception was held and a certificate announcing the C.W. Pell Fund was presented to Coach Pell giving him the option to decide how the fund was to be distributed. He chose to support the construction and maintenance of a park in Davis.

Charles Weider "Web" Pell, a native of Davis, passed away January 10, 2010 at his home in Florida. Grants from the Pell Fund have been awarded to the Mountaineer Athletic Association and the Davis Parks and Recreation Board for the Davis Riverfront Park.

A signed work of art by Garrett Easton

Dutch Easton Fund
Purpose: Creative Arts

Garrett "Dutch" Easton was born Feb. 18, 1980 in Alexandria, VA. He graduated from Osbourn Park High School in Manassas and attended the Maryland Institute College of Art for several semesters to pursue his love of graphic arts before moving to Elkins to attend Davis & Elkins College. He died in 2004, at the age of 24, from complications of a bacterial infection.

After two successful Run For It campaigns, Team Fresh Canvas was able to raise enough funds to establish the Dutch Easton Fund making it the first TCF Endowed Fund established solely with race proceeds. Dutch's brother Brent and sister-in-law Megan, his parents Joann and Calvin Easton and other friends and family members continue to donate generously, and regularly, to the fund.

Cortland Acres Association Fund
Purpose: Cortland Acres Association

Cortland Acres Association established this Agency Endowed Fund to provide perpetual funding for the organization. Located in Thomas, the organization provides many services. It is best known for excellence in short and long term in-patient care and outpatient rehabilitation services but it also offers a variety of housing choices to meet the needs of active older adults. Cortland Acres provides jobs for more than 140 employees.

Their goal is to repair and connect their existing trails to create a large integrated trail system. The Foundation receives the grant funds, disperses it according to the grant contract and the needs of the group and reports all facets of the project to the federal grant sponsor.

$12,800 provided winter clothing to 130 children

In the fall of each year, The Parsons Advocate asks readers to donate to Warm the Children, a program that provides new winter clothing to children in Tucker County who are selected through the local Department of Health and Human Resources office and Tucker County schools. The program is essentially neighbors helping neighbors. Tucker Community Foundation serves as the fiscal sponsor for the program. All of the money donated is used to buy new clothing, there are no administrative fees. This year the program received $12,800 and provided winter clothing to more than 100 homes.

Warm the Children collects donations year around. Donations can be sent to Warm the Children c/o The Parsons Advocate, PO Box 506, Parsons, WV 26287.

FEET UNDER SEATS

Partnership forms to address school attendance.

In 2009 Tom Klus, a teacher at Tucker County High School, noticed high absenteeism in his last period advanced math class. He began tracking attendance figures and when he compared his data with reportable attendance numbers there was a discrepancy. Students who were present by definition were not always in class. For a variety of reasons and at an alarming rate, their feet were not under their seats. Reportable data does not take into account school approved activities, students leaving early or arriving late, or excessive cases of students showing up for class but missing the full instruction period due to excused or unexcused interruptions and these situations were occurring in greater frequency.

There are a number of situations that quickly [illegible] absences and several involve missing more than 1 day of school. "You can learn many things, from many people, in many places and you will acquire a depth of knowledge, BUT you can't learn WV Dept of Education Curricular Outcomes that the teachers are to teach you, with a depth of knowledge – unless you are in class!", Klus stated. He had no idea his tracking of classroom attendance would elicit further action.

One third of the student body at TCHS was absent more than 15 days (reported figures) in 2009. Standardized testing demonstrated declining student achievement and declining mastery of grade level reading concepts and grade level math concepts. Data reflected an increase in the dropout rate and a decline in the graduation rate.

In 2010, a WV Grantmakers Collaborating for Youth Grant Initiative offered matching funds to member organizations that could engage additional funding partners for programs impacting youth. The Foundation's Youth & Education Committee, officials from Tucker County Board of Education, St. George Medical Clinic and Tucker County Family Resource Network met to discuss issues involving local youth. Regular school and classroom attendance was identified as the first line of defense when it came to risk factors affecting youth. Using the Klus study as evidence of a growing attendance problem in the local high school, the Feet Under Seats project was developed to stress the importance of school attendance. With funding support from each of the entities, TCF applied for and received a matching grant to address school attendance.

In the fall of 2010, representatives from Kingsford Manufacturing, school officials, LSIC members, and parents joined the discussion. The two year campaign includes a review of state and local attendance policies and implements a procedure to track true attendance versus school authorized attendance. The campaign seeks to raise public awareness through a series of newspaper articles, print ads, flyers and billboards. An in-school program is aimed at motivating and rewarding good attendance. Throughout the duration of the program, the committee will track, evaluate and report results.

The Weaner root cellar on Rolling Thunder Vegetable Preserve

The thematic images featured throughout this publication were taken over the winter 2010-11 and feature two families' cellars. In many ways, both families represent the community that TCF serves. Rowan has lived here all his life. The Weaners moved here as young adults. But both families are committed to making a life here and improving the earth beneath their feet.

Dellis Rowan lives in Randolph County in the town of Mabie, WV within a stone's throw of his homeplace. He is one of the last practicing teamsters of the area, still raising all of his produce with horsepower. He has made his life here: horselogging, working for the State road crew, and a brief stint in the mines. Rowan and his wife, Nancy, work together to put up each summer's crop.

Scott and Barb Weaner farm Rolling Thunder Vegetable Preserve in Tucker County, not far from Parsons, WV. The Weaners settled in their hollow in the 70s and raised three children here. Scott farms for a living raising vegetables, mushrooms, and poultry. Barb works in healthcare in Elkins. Their homegrown food is a means to share kinship & culture with their friends.

Accidental Fire Causes $50,000 Estimated Loss

An accidental fire determined to have been caused by an electrical problem caused an estimated $50,000 loss to a single-story wood-frame dwelling and contents near Gorman early Saturday.

Volunteers from the Gorman, Oakland, Deer Park, and Bayard fire departments were summoned to a house owned by Shawn and Danielle Aronhalt and located at 1044 White Church Steyer Road at 4:01 a.m. after one of the occupants of the house discovered the fire in the living room after being awakened by a smoke alarm.

The fire was out upon the arrival of the first units, according to a report filed by Maryland fire investigator Jamie Rodeheaver. Some 30 volunteers responded to the scene.

The Southern Rescue Squad also responded. There were no injuries reported.

According to Rodeheaver's report, the family is being assisted by the American Red Cross.

PROTEST COMPANY'S PRACTICES – A few members of Save Western Maryland stated their opinions on signs for motorists to see on their way to a ribbon-cutting ceremony for Constellation Energy's Criterion Wind Turbine Project. The event was held Tuesday morning off Eagle Rock Road. Located along an eight-mile stretch of Backbone Mountain and consisting of 28 turbines, the project become operational in December 2010. Left to right are Jeff Conner, Matia Vanderbilt, Eric Robison, Martin Moylan, Natalie Vanderbilt, and Breann Robison. One of the their signs reads "Where's Your ITP Permit?" The statement refers to the incidental take permit under the Endangered Species Act of 1973. Alleging that Constellation violated the act by not obtaining the permit, Save Western Maryland filed a lawsuit against the company last December. Members say the turbines are a threat to the Indiana bat, an endangered species. Save Western Maryland has agreed to delay a trial until 2012 to give Constellation time to obtain the permit. "Although we continue to hope that Constellation will fulfill its duties in good faith, the history of the Backbone wind plant does little to inspire confidence," the group noted in a press release. The Maryland Department of the Environment temporarily halted construction of the turbine project in March 2010 after erosion and sediment control violations were found. Photo by John McEwen. Attorney General Announces Landowner Ed Campaign On Gas Drilling Contracts

Protecting landowners in western Maryland from the high-pressure sales tactics of natural gas drilling speculators is at the center of an education campaign announced Tuesday by Attorney General Douglas F. Gansler. Speculators are seeking to obtain mineral rights in the Maryland portion of the Marcellus shale, a large rock formation stretching from upstate New York to southwestern Virginia, which contains natural gas deposits.

CitizenShale.org, an organization consisting of interested Garrett County property owners, hosted an informational session last Wednesday at Garrett College, at which there were representatives from the attorney general's office, as well as local attorneys representing the Garrett County Bar Association's pro bono committee. The purpose of the program was similar to the goal of the attorney general's new campaign: to help local residents better understand their rights and preferred objectives when signing a gas lease.

Gansler said that landowners whose properties sit above the Marcellus shale should know their legal rights and potential risks from leasing their land to energy companies interested in drilling for natural gas using the process known as hydraulic fracturing, or "fracking."

"Fracking poses significant risks to the land and the groundwater beneath it," said Gansler. "Every landowner needs to be armed with accurate knowledge of these

Fairmont Dentist, McHenry Resident Killed In Bike Wreck

A McHenry/Fairmont, WVa., man died from injuries sustained in a motorcycle accident Thursday morning on Interstate 81 in Cumberland County, Pa.

Dr. Frederick Higginbotham III, 63, was pronounced dead at the scene, according to Cumberland County chief deputy coroner Matthew Stoner.

Investigation by Pennsylvania State Police revealed that Higginbotham had been traveling north in the right lane near mile marker 56 in Silver Spring Township at approximately 8:30 a.m., when the front of a Carlisle, Pa., woman's car touched the back of his motorcycle, causing him to lose control of the bike. The crash remains under investigation by the coroner's office, as well as Pa. State Police.

An autopsy has been scheduled to officially determine the cause of Higginbotham's death.

Sheriff Reports On New 9-1-1 Center, Security Measures

Sheriff Rob Corley presented an update report on activities in his office and the detention center to the Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday afternoon. Topics included improvements to the county's dispatch center, courthouse security measures, drug related arrests, and new police uniforms.

"The 9-1-1 center is operational," Corley reported. "Everything got moved about a week and a half ago."

Local officials recently decided to consolidate the sheriff's dispatch office and county 9-1-1 center to provide better communication and emergency services. The joint center is located on the first floor of the Sheriff's Office at the courthouse.

Access to the Sheriff's Office will soon be limited for security reasons, but the general public will still be able to communicate with personnel and ask for assistance from a deputy. A buzzer will be installed outside the Third Street entrance for visitors to press. After an officer allows them access and opens the door, visitors will face another entrance with bullet-proof glass.

"There will actually be a door there – just like a bank teller's, where people can pass papers back and forth – and an intercom service," the

Governor Appoints Local Persons To Serve On Safe Drilling Commission

Governor Martin O'Malley has named the members of the Marcellus Shale Advisory Commission. As mandated by the governor's June 6, 2011, Executive Order on the Marcellus Shale Safe Drilling Initiative, the secretaries of the departments of the Environment and Natural Resources, in consultation with the advisory commission, will study issues related to natural gas exploration and production in the Marcellus shale in Maryland.

Commission members include a broad range of stakeholders and representatives from the scientific community, the gas industry, business, agriculture, environmental organizations, citizens, and government, with several of them being Garrett County residents.

Local residents who have agreed to serve are: Senator George Edwards; Garrett County commissioner James Raley; Oakland mayor Peggy Jamison; Shawn Bender, division manager at the Beitzel Corporation and president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau; and Paul Roberts, a Friendsville resident and co-owner of Deep Creek Cellars winery.

As outlined in the executive order, the Marcellus Shale Safe Drilling Initiative will assist state policymakers and regulators in determining whether and how gas production from the Marcellus shale in Maryland can be accomplished without unacceptable risks of adverse impacts to public health, safety, the environment, and natural resources.

"I am mindful of the potential benefits that could come from Maryland's Marcellus shale gas reserves," said O'Malley. "There are, however, many legitimate public health, safety, environmental, and natural resource issues concerning exploration and extraction of gas from the Marcellus shale. The commission will study the short-term, long-term, and cumulative effects of natural gas exploration and production in the Marcellus shale, best practices, and appropriate changes, if any, to the laws and regulations concerning oil and gas. We look forward to their conclusions and recommendations."

The commission will be chaired by David Vanko, Ph.D., a geologist and current dean of the Jess and Mildred Fisher College of Science and Mathematics at Towson University. Other members, besides those from Garrett County, are: Delegate Heather Mizeur; Allegany County commissioner William Valentine; Steven M. Bunker, director of conservation programs, Maryland Office of the Nature

WIND TURBINE FACILITY OFFICIALLY OPENS – Constellation Energy held a ribbon-cutting ceremony Tuesday morning off Eagle Rock Road for its Criterion Wind Project. About 50 local business owners, community leaders, and landowners attended the event. Left to right are Kevin Hughes, representative for Gov. Martin O'Malley; Don Shilobod, facility manager; Del. Wendel Beitzel; and Dale Lineweaver, Constellation Energy vice president. Hughes presented Lineweaver with a proclamation from the governor, congratulating Constellation on its achievement. The first wind facility to be built and operated in Maryland, the 70-megawatt project consists of 28 wind turbines constructed over an eight-mile stretch along Backbone Mountain. According to company officials, the facility produces renewable energy to meet the electricity needs of approximately 23,000 households. Criterion Wind began commercial operation in December 2010. The facility produces energy that is sent to electric transmission lines by Allegheny Energy. The energy is sold to Old Dominion Electric Cooperative, which entered into a 20-year agreement to purchase the electricity and renewable energy credits produced by the facility. Those attending the ribbon cutting drove past a small group protesting the project. "I don't think there's an energy source everyone likes," Lineweaver said. "Even our solar projects, some people are fighting right now." He noted that there are many positive aspects about the company's projects, including job creation. The vice president added that Constellation is trying to be a good neighbor. "We take it seriously," Lineweaver said. Photo by John Mc-Ewen. Fairmont Dentist, McHenry Resident Killed In Bike Wreck

A McHenry/Fairmont, W.Va., man died from injuries sustained in a motorcycle accident Thursday morning on Interstate 81 in Cumberland County, Pa.

Dr. Frederick Higginbotham III, 63, was pronounced dead at the scene, according to Cumberland County chief deputy coroner Matthew Stoner.

Investigation by Pennsylvania State Police revealed that Higginbotham had been traveling north in the right lane near mile marker 56 in Silver Spring Township at approximately 8:30 a.m., when the front of a Carlisle, Pa., woman's car touched the back of his motorcycle, causing him to lose control of the bike. The crash remains under investigation by the coroner's office, as well as Pa. State Police.

An autopsy has been scheduled to officially determine the cause of Higginbotham's death.

Sheriff Reports On New 9-1-1 Center, Security Measures

Sheriff Rob Corley presented an update report on activities in his office and the detention center to the Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday afternoon. Topics included improvements to the county's dispatch center, courthouse security measures, drug related arrests, and new police uniforms.

"The 9-1-1 center is operational," Corley reported. "Everything got moved about a week and a half ago."

Local officials recently decided to consolidate the sheriff's dispatch office and county 9-1-1 center to provide better communication and emergency services. The joint center is located on the first floor of the Sheriff's Office at the courthouse.

Access to the Sheriff's Office will soon be limited for security reasons, but the general public will still be able to communicate with personnel and ask for assistance from a deputy. A buzzer will be installed outside the Third Street entrance for visitors to press. After an officer allows them access and opens the door, visitors will face another entrance with bullet-proof glass.

"There will actually be a door there – just like a bank teller's, where people can pass papers back and forth – and an intercom service," the

Governor Appoints Local Persons To Serve On Safe Drilling Commission

Governor Martin O'Malley has named the members of the Marcellus Shale Advisory Commission. As mandated by the governor's June 6, 2011, Executive Order on the Marcellus Shale Safe Drilling Initiative, the secretaries of the departments of the Environment and Natural Resources, in consultation with the advisory commission, will study issues related to natural gas exploration and production in the Marcellus shale in Maryland.

Commission members include a broad range of stakeholders and representatives from the scientific community, the gas industry, business, agriculture, environmental organizations, citizens, and government, with several of them being Garrett County residents.

Local residents who have agreed to serve are: Senator George Edwards; Garrett County commissioner James Raley; Oakland mayor Peggy Jamison; Shawn Bender, division manager at the Beitzel Corporation and president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau; and Paul Roberts, a Friendsville resident and co-owner of Deep Creek Cellars winery.

As outlined in the executive order, the Marcellus Shale Safe Drilling Initiative will assist state policymakers and regulators in determining whether and how gas production from the Marcellus shale in Maryland can be accomplished without unacceptable risks of adverse impacts to public health, safety, the environment, and natural resources.

"I am mindful of the potential benefits that could come from Maryland's Marcellus shale gas reserves," said O'Malley. "There are, however, many legitimate public health, safety, environmental, and natural resource issues concerning exploration and extraction of gas from the Marcellus shale. The commission will study the short-term, long-term, and cumulative effects of natural gas exploration and production in the Marcellus shale, best practices, and appropriate changes, if any, to the laws and regulations concerning oil and gas. We look forward to their conclusions and recommendations."

The commission will be chaired by David Vanko, Ph.D., a geologist and current dean of the Jess and Mildred Fisher College of Science and Mathematics at Towson University. Other members, besides those from Garrett County, are: Delegate Heather Mizeur; Allegany County commissioner William Valentine; Steven M. Bunker, director of conservation programs, Maryland Office of the Nature

CITIZENSHALE.ORG, an organization comprising interested Garrett County property owners, hosted an informational program last Wednesday at Garrett College, where participants included lawyers from the Office of the Attorney General, as well as local attorneys representing the Garrett County Bar Association. The purpose of the program was to help local property owners better understand their rights and preferred objectives when signing a natural gas lease. Pictured seated at the tables, from left, are: attorneys Robert Paye, Miriam Sincell, and Linda Sherbin of the Garrett County Bar Association's pro bono legal committee; Erin Fitzsimmons and Jeff Darsie, representing the Maryland attorney general's office; and Paul Roberts, one of the founders of CitizenShale.org. Attorney General Douglas Gansler also announced this week the formation of a campaign to basically extend the educational efforts of CitizenShale.org to other areas of western Maryland that lie atop the natural gas-rich Marcellus shale layer. WIND TURBINE FACILITY OFFICIALLY OPENS – Constellation Energy held a ribbon-cutting ceremony Tuesday morning off Eagle Rock Road for its Criterion Wind Project. About 50 local business owners, community leaders, and landowners attended the event. Left to right are Kevin Hughes, representative for Gov. Martin O'Malley; Don Shilobod, facility manager; Del. Wendel Beitzel; and Dale Lineweaver, Constellation Energy vice president. Hughes presented Lineweaver with a proclamation from the governor, congratulating Constellation on its achievement. The first wind facility to be built and operated in Maryland, the 70-megawatt project consists of 28 wind turbines constructed over an eight-mile stretch along Backbone Mountain. According to company officials, the facility produces renewable energy to meet the electricity needs of approximately 23,000 households. Criterion Wind began commercial operation in December 2010. The facility produces energy that is sent to electric transmission lines by Allegheny Energy. The energy is sold to Old Dominion Electric Cooperative, which entered into a 20-year agreement to purchase the electricity and renewable energy credits produced by the facility. Those attending the ribbon cutting drove past a small group protesting the project. "I don't think there's an energy source everyone likes," Lineweaver said. "Even our solar projects, some people are fighting right now." He noted that there are many positive aspects about the company's projects, including job creation. The vice president added that Constellation is trying to be a good neighbor. "We take it seriously," Lineweaver said. Photo by John Mc-Ewen. Yough Assn. To Host Session On PlanMaryland

All residents of Garrett County are invited to attend a program centered on PlanMaryland and hosted by the Youghiogheny River Watershed Association (YRWA) next Tuesday, July 26, 7 p.m., in Room 224 of the Garrett College Continuing Education building.

PlanMaryland is the state's plan to guide development and growth in Maryland, and follows the "smart growth" planning that was begun in the 1990s. The plan identifies the funding and regulatory approaches that will guide Maryland development for the future, and classifies all areas of the state into priority categories.

Leading the presentation will be Richard Josephson, director of planning for the Maryland Department of Planning, Annapolis. He will present the plan's goals and implementation strategies, and then respond to questions and concerns from the audience. Josephson will tailor his presentation on what PlanMaryland means to Garrett County and other rural areas of the state.

One result of PlanMaryland will be to identify "designated places" for growth and others for conservation. These areas then will be the focus for state capital and non-capital plans, programs, and procedures that play significant roles in determining where growth, revitalization, land preservation, and resource conservation occur, and the nature and quality of the resulting communities and built or conserved environments.

One stated purpose of the plan is to: "Preserve and protect environmentally sensitive and rural lands and resources from the impact of development."

Maryland counties and towns will be expected to adopt ordinances and land-use management and preservation tools that "limit development on and around rural lands through effective land-use controls, incentives, and innovative funding mechanisms, in order to preserve large contiguous tracts of land to sustain the resources and resource-based industries."

The YRWA is a non-profit, all-volunteer, local organization that was founded in 2000 to promote, enhance, and restore the watershed for all aspects of life in the watershed, which covers approximately two-thirds of the county. One of its prime objectives is to educate the community about the watershed and the challenges and opportunities facing it.

For additional information about the association and/or next Tuesday's presentation, persons may telephone James "Smokey" Stanton, YRWA chair, at 301-334-3788 or send an e-mail to jrstanton@erols.com.

Oakland Prepares To Replace Sewer Line On 3rd Street

The town of Oakland is advising motorists that beginning Monday, July 25, at 6 p.m., traffic flow through Oakland may be interrupted on Route 219, specifically on Third Street between Alder and Green Street. This will include the area in front of Family Rental Center and Family General, as well as a portion of Banker's Alley.

The town of Oakland has contracted to have sewer line replacement work completed, which will require interruptions in the normal flow of traffic in the area. Most of the work will be done in the evening and night-time hours between 6 p.m. and 5 a.m., in an effort to minimize the inconvenience to the public.

The work is expected to take several days to complete and, according to a spokesperson, should be completed by Friday morning (July 29), weather permitting.

Those with questions may contact Oakland City Hall at 301-334-2691.

Save Western Md. Files Suit Against Constellation Energy

Save Western Maryland recently filed suit against Constellation Energy for violating the federal Endangered Species Act by installing and operating an industrial wind-powered electric plant atop Backbone Mountain.

According to the group and its research, this poses a grave threat to the endangered Indiana bat. Constellation filed an answer denying the claims. Settlement talks have led to an agreement to stay the proceedings, postponing any trial until 2012.

HAPPY SADD CLUB WALKS IN GRANTSVILLE DAYS PARADE – Several members of the Happy SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions) Club of Grantsville recently participated in the Grantsville Days Parade. A spokesperson stated that the group's participation in the event was meant to promote its core message: "There can be so many destructive decisions made throughout life, but there are alternatives to getting into trouble. Call a friend, be a friend. Parents, talk to your kids and let them know you care and are willing to listen." Pictured, from left, holding the signs they carried through the Grantsville Days Parade are: Derek Silbaugh, Tiffany Hutzel, Sabrina Slabaugh, Haley Moon, and Andy Beachy. Two-Vehicle Wreck Sends One To GC Memorial Hospital

An Oakland man was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a two-vehicle accident investigated by Garrett County sheriff's deputies late Tuesday evening

Investigation revealed that Travis Layne, 30, Kingwood, W Va., had been traveling east on Hutton Road, when his vehicle crossed the centerline and struck a westbound vehicle operated by Timothy Fike, 44, Oakland. Fike was taken by Southern Rescue Squad to GCMH for treatment. Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the 11:30 p.m. scene.

Layne was charged with failure to drive right of center.

64 CDS Arrests Made During All Good Festival

Numerous arrests were made by Garrett County sheriff's deputies during a traffic and criminal interdiction operation that coincided with the All Good Music Festival held July 13–18 in Masontown, W Va. The annual festival is reportedly known to bring quantities of controlled dangerous substances into and through Garrett County.

Five felony arrests and 59 misdemeanor arrests were made over the course of the six-day event. Officers with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force seized the following during the festival:

•July 13: 129.5 grams of marijuana, 62 grams of psilocybin mushrooms, four marijuana pipes, and three marijuana grinders;

•July 14: 152.6 grams of marijuana, 11 marijuana pipes, one marijuana grinder, and $2,797 in U.S. currency;

•July 15: 256 grams of marijuana, 211.5 grams of psilocybin mushrooms, two hits of LSD, nine prescription pills, 12 marijuana pipes, and three marijuana grinders; and

•July 18: 694.5 grams of marijuana, 62.3 grams of methamphetamine, 32 hits of LSD, 22.3 grams of hashish, 23.7 grams/two pills of MDMA, 20.3 grams of cocaine, 22.6 psilocybin mushrooms, two prescription pills, 10.6 grams of opium, 19 marijuana pipes, four marijuana grinders, digital scales, $1,349 in U.S currency, and a 2004 Mitsubishi Lancer.

Save Western Maryland consented to the stay in order to give Constellation the opportunity to comply with the law. To do this, the company must obtain an Incidental Take Permit (ITP) from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Such a permit would allow Constellation's windplant to harm endangered bats insofar as it is "incidental" to the operation.

"Presence of the bats was detected by Constellation's own acoustical surveys on the site of the windplant, and [Constellation has] repeatedly promised to obtain the proper permit," stated a spokesperson for the group. To date, Save Western Maryland cannot verify that the permit is being actively pursued.

"Although we continue to hope that Constellation will fulfill its duties in good faith, the history of the Backbone windplant does little to inspire confidence, the excavation phase was fraught with egregious environmental violations resulting in a large fine, the promise of jobs for locals did not live up to the bluster, and throughout installation of the plant, nearby residents endured a climate of hostility and intimidation," noted the spokesperson.

Man Sentenced For Stealing CSX Railroad Plates

A 37-year-old Gloucester, Ohio, man was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court on Monday to eight years in the Division of Corrections for a theft charge. Robert Gordon Cook entered an Alford plea of guilty to the charge last July, and a presentence investigation report was ordered.

Cook had failed to appear for sentencing in August, and an arrest warrant was outstanding for him until recently.

He was arrested and charged in October 2009 by Garrett County sheriff's deputies who responded to a complaint from CSX railroad personnel that steel plates were being removed from a storage location.

While responding to the complaint, a deputy observed Cook driving the vehicle that had been described in the initial report. Additional descriptions of Cook were provided by persons who had seen him loading the steel.

Deputies then checked with scrap and salvage yards and learned from one that Cook had sold over 60 tons of railroad steel from July through October 2009.

In other Circuit Court proceedings this week, Gilbert Wesley Arnett, 35, Buckhannon, W Va., admitted to violating his probation in two cases. Sentences of five and two years, to be served consecutively, were reimposed by Judge Jim Sherbin.

Arnett was sentenced in January 2008 to 10 years in the Division of Corrections, with 8½ years suspended for a first degree burglary that occurred in June 2007 at a Mtn. Lake Park residence.

In February 2008, Arnett was sentenced to three years in the Division of Corrections, with 2½ years suspended, for a theft that occurred at an Oakland residence. The 24 months to be served ran consecutively, and Arnett was placed on probation upon his release.

Arnett was released from his sentence in the Garrett County Jail in March 2009. While on probation, being supervised in West Virginia, Arnett was charged with, and later convicted of, petit larceny, obstructing an officer, and attempting to obtain a prescription by forgery.

In an unrelated case, Amber Lynn James, 28, Frostburg, was sentenced by Judge Sherbin to three years in the Division of Corrections for conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute marijuana. Eighteen months of the sentence was suspended, and James will be on probation after serving 18 months in the Garrett County Jail.

She was arrested and charged by Maryland State Police in January James was the driver of a vehicle stopped for speeding along eastbound I-68. After she and a backseat passenger, Richard Hall, were removed from the vehicle for a K-9 scan to be conducted, the front seat passenger, Deandre Kelly, fled in the vehicle and was chased by troopers. Kelly was apprehended after he wrecked the car in the Friendsville area. A large quantity of marijuana was found in the car.

Kelly and Hall were also arrested and their related cases remain pending.

One Suffers Minor Injuries As Result Of Two-Car Wreck

A two-vehicle accident Tuesday afternoon resulted in minor injuries for an Accident man. Maryland State Police and an off-duty GCSO deputy investigated the wreck that occurred at the intersection of Pysell Road and Rt. 219/Garrett Highway

It was revealed that a 1981 Ford pickup truck driven by Wilbur F Spangler, 81, Accident, had pulled out from Pysell Road and attempted to make a left turn on to Rt. 219 south, when he turned into the path of a 2005 Dodge pickup truck driven north on Rt. 219 by Joseph D. Wakefield, 25, also of Accident.

Spangler was transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated for non-life-threatening injuries.

Passengers in Wakefield's and Spangler's vehicles were not injured. Spangler was cited with failing to yield the right of way on a turn.

Energy Wars...

Three of the four photographs on the front page of this newspaper today, and at least two stories, have to do with energy production – production by wind and production by natural gas, elements that are prevalent over (wind) and under (natural gas) Garrett County. Both industries have created, and continue to generate, much controversy, with many Garrett County residents greatly concerned about the potential negative ramifications of the "harvesting" of the wind and of the natural gas from the Marcellus shale layer.

A relatively fierce war was waged to try to keep the wind turbines out of Garrett County and off our once pristine mountain ridges. With only minor concessions, the industry ultimately won that war; the turbines are here, and here to stay, much to the chagrin of the folks carrying the protest signs at this week's "wind farm ribbon-cutting," other local citizens, and visitors.

The war over whether or not to allow drilling for natural gas in the Marcellus shale wages on, with opponents of the industry winning some initial, crucial battles. Thanks to the diligent efforts of a number of concerned and involved citizens, some organizations, and a few elected officials, the permission to "frack" in Maryland is on hold for at least three more years.

Appreciation to Governor O'Malley for his executive order to at least delay drilling in the state was expressed in this column a few months ago. A footnote is added to the governor to express additional appreciation for the composition of the advisory commission he appointed this week to study the situation. The commission comprises a good balance of persons whose opinions represent both the pros and cons of the issue. It also includes a number of Garrett and Allegany county residents, as it should since the bulk of the Marcellus shale in the state lies under these two counties.

While the harvesting of natural gas may well become a significant boon to Garrett County, the next three years will allow the industry to continue to improve its technology and, it is hoped, make it far safer than it obviously is today. Pennsylvania and West Virginia were in some ways caught asleep at the switch, and the drilling companies came charging in with virtually no safeguards in place. Many areas in those states have thus paid a huge price in terms of plummeting land values, air, water, and noise pollution, damaged roads, and scenic destruction. Such a price we certainly cannot afford to pay in beautiful Garrett County, where the environment is our greatest asset.

The new advisory commission certainly has its work cut out for it; thank heavens it has been granted what should be sufficient time to make a truly positive difference.

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

It is with great sadness that I write this letter. As of July 15, I will be closing my doors (Curves in Oakland). I had hoped that with my taking a part-time job to cover my personal expenses I would be able to survive until the economy started to improve, but unfortunately, that has not been the case. Simply put, Curves no longer has the income to cover the overhead expenses.

The last 7½ years have been very good ones for me with Curves. I have made many friendships through it that have continued outside of the business. I will miss chatting about the latest news and wild rumors, and seeing the pictures from a great vacation and hearing about the funny things a grandchild did.

I am also very proud of the good things I have been able to do in the community with your help and support. When you drive by the new Dove Center building, know that you, my customers, are a very big part of helping build that safe haven for families in crisis. And you are part of the latest Habitat House or the support for a family in need of Hospice. When you see a cancer survivor, you can know you helped with our continued support of Relay for Life; that you have given a family a meal that they may have had to skip because of your contributions to the annual House of Hope Food Drive. When I have my Wounded Warrior group in, you are part of the reason they love coming to Garrett County, with all the homemade goodies. Know also that you have helped save a dog or cat by helping me support the Humane Society. Those are just a few of the things we have done together. You have all been great members of my team.

Last but not least, I could not have accomplished even half of what I do without a great staff. Nova has been my rock since I opened, and Terri has been making me proud for going on four years. Plus others like Chris, Vonda, and Debi, who have stepped back in anytime I called and needed help. And, of course, Louise, who still calls to see how everyone is doing.

I am not leaving. You can [illegible] I met at ASCI. Plus I will still be putting out my calls for volunteers. I will miss you all, and wish you all the very best.

Love,
Suzanne Nicolas

To the Editor:

Congress has until August 2 to come up with a budget. It's a simple solution! They need to add their separate fund for pensions and health insurance into the general fund, or do the same as what they did with our Social Security fund when they put it in the general fund. This was robbing Peter to pay Paul. So they must do it again.

They could also take a cut in pay because they had no business giving themselves a raise when they denied our SS increase. Why did they get an increase and we didn't? Greed!

It isn't right for them to have their own separate secure fund for pensions, and health insurance when our SS budget is stressed.

These suggestions will never happen because they would view it as cutting their own throats.

Sincerely,
Charlotte A. Harkins
Swanton

Sheriff Reports

sheriff said. "It's probably going to be pretty close to the first week or two of August that everything should be taken care of and operational down there (dispatch center)."

The county recently received grants totalling nearly $1.1 million from the state's Emergency Number Systems Board for 9-1-1 center upgrades, including electrical work, security cameras, and various other equipment pertaining to the consolidation project.

"We were down there today, and it looks fantastic," Commission chair Gregan Crawford said about the commissioners' tour of the center.

Corley also reported that the two exterior doors in the courthouse rotunda are now "off limits," even to county employees, as exits in order to provide additional security. A few years ago, the doors were made inaccessible from the outside, but persons could still use them to exit the rotunda.

"They're still available for a fire escape inside in case something happens," the sheriff said about the doors.

He added that court security personnel will monitor the doors to make sure no one "bounces" out of them.

"It's all about making the courthouse a little safer," the sheriff said about the security measures at his office and rotunda.

Corley also reported that a holding cell in the detention center had recently been repaired in anticipation of last weekend's All Good Music Festival in Masontown, W.Va. The sheriff explained that a female juvenile had kicked through the cell wall about a month ago, but a local welding company has since plated the cell with steel.

"We had roughly 15 women in there this weekend, and nobody kicked out," he said.

The sheriff said deputies arrested a total of 64 persons last weekend along I-68 in Garrett County during a traffic/criminal interdiction set up during the All Good Music Festival. He noted that all four of the county's drug detection dogs participated in the operation.

"Not only did they work, but they actually worked very well," Corley said about the K-9s. "Their success rate was incredible."

The dogs helped deputies and Garrett County Narcotics Task Force officers seize about $4,500 in cash and a vehicle, which the Sheriff's Office can keep or sell.

"So, there is a return on your investment," Corley told the commissioners about county funding used to purchase a replacement for a recently deceased K-9 named Tara.

The sheriff added that drug arrests decreased in March following Tara's death, but have increased since her replacement has been on the job.

During last weekend's interdiction, numerous vehicles were stopped for speeding violations on I-68, which resulted in occupants being arrested for possession of psilocybin mushrooms, marijuana, cocaine, Ecstasy, LSD, and various other drugs, as well as drug paraphernalia.

"It was pretty much everything," he said, adding that more than 200 people would have been arrested had the county's jail been able to hold them all.

The sheriff had the opportunity to see the festival grounds from an airplane on Sunday morning.

"It was incredible," he said about the amount of people who attended the event, noting that attendance estimates range from 25,000 to 40,000.

During the Sheriff's Office report, Corley, State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch, and the county commissioners signed a forfeiture execution agreement. The document will be forwarded to Col. Terrence Sheridan, Maryland State Police superintendent, for his signature. Updated periodically, the agreement outlines how the police agencies will handle/divvy up cash and vehicles seized during local drug arrests.

Welch said seized cash and proceeds from vehicle sales are maintained in a separate bank account, which is then used to purchase items used in drug investigations. That includes computers, cameras, vehicles, and officer training.

"It fluctuates," the state's attorney said about the account. "Some years we may only have $5,000. Some years we may have $60–$70,000 seized."

She said the current balance is about $40,000.

Following their meeting with Corley, the commissioners awarded a bid to Howard Uniform Company, Baltimore, to supply the Sheriff's Office and detention center with more than 400 shirts and pants. At $15,481.40, Howard Uniform was the lowest of six bidders. The highest bid, $21,167.88, was presented by Allegany Embroidery Uniforms Inc.

County purchasing agent Brian Bowers noted that the fiscal year 2012 budget contains appropriations for Sheriff's Office and detention center personnel uniforms in the amount of $32,000.

The commissioners' next public meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 2, at 9 a.m.

risks in order to safeguard his or her legal rights when being asked to lease mineral rights."

With the expertise of a core legal team assigned by Gansler to protect Marylanders from environmental damage and the unscrupulous sales tactics of some energy companies, the Maryland Office of the Attorney General (OAG) has produced and distributed two documents designed to inform and educate landowners about their rights. "Leasing Your Land for Natural Gas Drilling – Tips for the Landowner" and "Dormant Minerals Interest Act – Questions and Answers" are available to any landowner or interested party at the OAG web site: http://www.oag.state.md.us/.

The educational campaign is the latest action taken by Gansler to protect Maryland's environment from the risks that accompany fracking. In April, the OAG filed a notice of intent to sue Chesapeake Energy, a natural gas drilling company with more than 30 wells in the Pennsylvania portion of the Marcellus shale formation, after it released thousands of gallons of potentially hazardous "fracking" fluids into a waterway that feeds into the Susquehanna River, which flows into Maryland and the Chesapeake Bay.

Additionally, the OAG is providing legal assistance to Governor Martin O'Malley's Advisory Commission that will study the environmental and economic impact of natural gas drilling in the Marcellus shale formation in western Maryland. The governor announced his appointments to the advisory commission this week. (See separate story)

Conservancy; John Fritts, president of the Savage River Watershed Association and director of development for the Federation of American Scientists; Jeffrey Kupfer, senior advisor, Chevron Government Affairs; Dominick E. Murray, deputy secretary of the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development; Nick Weber, chair of the Mid-Atlantic Council of Trout Unlimited; and Harry Weiss, Esquire, partner at Ballard Spahr.

"The department currently has the authority in state law and regulation to place all reasonable conditions in permits necessary to provide for public safety and to protect public health, the environment, and natural resources," said Maryland Department of the Environment secretary Robert M. Summers. "What is lacking is a complete understanding of the risks inherent in deep drilling and fracking, and consensus about how to protect against those risks."

DNR secretary John Griffin added, "These issues relate not only to the hydraulic fracturing itself and its possible effect on drinking water, but also to the cumulative impact of multiple wells on natural resources and the environment, including air pollution and forest fragmentation. "Maryland's precious forests, parks, streams, and rivers must be protected."

The advisory commission's first meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday, Aug. 4, at the Lakeside Visitors Center at Rocky Gap State Park near Cumberland and will be open to public.

The departments of the Environment and Natural Resources, in consultation with the advisory commission, will conduct a three-part study and present findings and recommendations as follows:

•By Dec. 31, 2011, a presentation of findings and related recommendations regarding the desirability of legislation to establish revenue sources, such as a state-level severance tax, and the desirability of legislation to establish standards of liability for damages caused by gas exploration and production.

•By Aug. 1, 2012, recommendations for best practices for all aspects of natural gas exploration and production in the Marcellus shale in Maryland.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

Reflecting Heaven Stables

Reflecting Heaven Stables will open its new facility near Grantsville on Saturday, July 30.

The business caters to students "ranging in age from 6 to 60." Lessons are offered in hunter and equitation (flat and fences), jumper, dressage, western and trail riding.

The newly finished 85 x 180 foot building houses 15 fully matted stalls and a private boarders' tackroom with individual lockers.

The heated indoor wash stall facilitates year-round use, and outdoor wash stalls will soon be added.

For relaxation before and after riding, clients can enjoy a heated lounge, which offers a view of the 65 x 140 foot indoor arena.

The arena footing is a rubber and fiber blend. It is a low dust and low concussion mix, which is ideal for all of the riding disciplines catered to at Reflecting Heaven Stables. An outdoor riding arena is also coming soon.

On-site professional training is available from qualified instructors Jonathon and Joseph Fischetti, who also own and operate the barn.

According to the Fischettis, Reflecting Heaven Stables exists to create an enriching environment for horse and rider, illustrate classical riding techniques and modern systems of riding, generate a safe and supportive community, and demonstrate integrity and a high moral standard within the business.

A grand opening is planned for Saturday, July 30, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The facility is located at 10155 New Germany Road, Grantsville. The business phone numbers are 814-279-4952 and 814-289-7710. The e-mail address is rhstables@yahoo.com. The web site address is www.reflectingheavenstables.com.

The open house will include the following:

Free pony rides on Duke, one of RHS' favorite lesson horses. The weight limit is 140 pounds, and a hold harmless agreement must be signed.

Persons may explore the grounds, visit the lounge, walk through the stalls, test the footing in the indoor arena, walk through the pastures, and get to know the barn.

Door prizes will be sponsored by Southern States, and drawings will be held for free riding lessons.

There will be an opportunity to meet with Jonathon and Joseph Fischetti, talk to their riding students, ask questions, and meet the lesson herd.

A jumping exhibition will feature Joseph Fischetti (owner) riding Stars Go Blue, a 7-year-old thoroughbred, in a jumping demonstration over impressive 4-foot tall fences.

A lesson demonstration will feature the Fischettis teaching a lesson to student Amanda Garlitz on her horse, American Honey, a 4-year-old thoroughbred.

A Bit Above Saddlery, a mobile tack shop carrying the latest in equestrian fashion and function, will also be featured. More information can be found at www.abitabovesaddlery.com.

A natural hoof care demonstration will be presented by qualified professional John Gilbreath.

A Southern States nutritional exhibit will also be featured. RHS will offer its boarders three options from the SS Legends line: Legends Show and Pleasure, Legends Performance, and Legends Senior. Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

I'd better fully enjoy the sight of my most beautiful day lilies while they are in full bloom today. True to their name, they last only one day. They are a ruby wine shade with a center of bright yellow. But they will be finished tomorrow.

I saw a commercial this week on which a woman sobbed, "I want our country back." I think that what she means by "our country" is the white Americans who had all the advantages since our founding years. A few white plantation owners built up their fortunes by using unpaid labor of people from Africa who were rounded up and packed in the dark, dirty hold of a slave ship. They did not choose to go to America to get a piece of the American Dream, because that was not possible for slaves.

They lived in a shabby slave cabin and were forbidden to even learn to read or write, or get virtually any kind of education. Of course, their families were not able to accumulate even a seed of wealth, which should have been inherited by their children. But that is not the way things were in the ugly times of slavery, and that situation continued after the Civil War.

Suddenly, the American economy had to absorb hundreds of thousands of former slaves who did not have what was necessary to function as free citizens. Some succeeded, but sadly, many sank into deep poverty, and the systematic racist society was very reluctant to give any opportunity for them to build a decent independent life.

Yet, some former slaves did become farmers, or often tenement farmers, which meant short-term survival, but no wealth created for the family. Many migrated to the northern industrial cities, where they were forced to live in poverty-ridden ghettos. And those cities were flooded with a huge number of rural white Americans, plus many waves of immigrants. There were far too many available workers more than the industry could use, and so they paid a low wage to the lucky few who were able to get jobs.

But most jobs went to folks of European descent. If he were really lucky, a descendant of slaves might get a garbage worker job, earning a very low income, or perhaps a job as a domestic servant in an estate belonging to an industrial titan.

Take the example of New York City. There you had the posh wealthy areas like Fifth Avenue. Then a few miles north there was Harlem, which was the only possible residential area for African-Americans. And the southern part of Manhattan, the Lower East Side, was the home of immigrants. In neither area did residents earn enough money to support economic growth there.

There were many upper-class ladies who did not have any steady domestic work. So they formed Ladies Aid groups, which were the seeds of the Progressive Movement in the very late 19th century. Those fine ladies were motivated by their religious beliefs and deep guilt about how they were living compared to those in shabby tenement buildings in the slums, where 20 or more people might occupy a tiny apartment.

Even very young children had to work in sweatshops with horribly long working hours for pennies, and those fine ladies were wearing clothes made by those desperate women and children. The ladies were able to extract some money from their rich husbands to create "settlement houses," places where the most basic social services were available for people living in abject poverty, like some limited medical care, nurseries for small children of poor mothers, day care, and some very basic early childhood learning opportunities.

But they realized that it was not enough to fix the unfairness in American society, so they turned to an effort to win voting rights for American women. They suffered widespread ridicule, including claims that they did not have adequate brain power to vote. The same thing happened when they demanded access to higher education so they could fully participate in the world outside their gilded cages. They hoped to become powerful enough to change the world in a positive way.

Their first major cause was the fight against child labor, and for shorter work hours and better working conditions for children, particularly slaves. Then they spread their effort to working women, and that led to the International Garment Workers' Union, then to improvement in our education system, then replacing the tenement housing in the slums.

That's how the Progressive Movement was born, and grew to be a fight for a decent life for any people or group suffering from oppression.

As they developed self-confidence, they started engaging in serious discussions with their husbands, and even persuaded them to become more progressive themselves and learn the value of things other than wealth. Then they desired to enter public life in the city halls, town hall, and later statewide offices, because that is where there is the most power to make positive changes in American life. Their traditional role of caregiver in the home was easy to expand to care-giver or leader in the wider society, and they established many kinds of social institutions.

How exciting to learn on ESPN news that the Pirates are in first place in the National League Central Division, partly because the Brewers lost and the Pirates won on Friday evening.

I am eagerly awaiting this evening's game, and am already wearing my Clemente T-shirt. I declare that Roberto Clemente is unofficially the Patron Saint of Pittsburgh. Of course, it is a major process by the Vatican to declare someone a saint. But he had the right character, and he sacrificed his life to help people in deep need, just after he got his 3,000 hits – a rare accomplishment.

Last week, Derek Jeter of the New York Yankees was the first Yankee to reach that milestone, even though in the past they had such huge stars as Mickey Mantle and Lou Gehrig. New York City made such a big deal of it when Jeter did it.

It appears that we have some hope that we may have NFL football in the fall. It would be very sad not to have the Steelers to watch and cheer for. But the players and ownership groups have reportedly made significant progress.

Well, Lloyd and my daughters are at the beach. But I got a bit of an unhappy report from Meredith. She rushed out first thing to go into the ocean, and got a jellyfish sting on her face. Anyone who has ever experienced a jellyfish sting knows that it is very painful and results in significant swelling. That is not the right way to start a beach vacation. I vaguely remember hearing that it helps if you put vinegar on it. It may help some, and it wouldn't hurt. But when she reads this in the next Republican, it will be only a couple of days before they come home. I can't wait.

I turned on the women's World Cup final, but it did not seem all that important. I really don't enjoy watching soccer. I can't say I was terribly sad to see Japan win it, because that nation certainly needs something to cheer about.

It's interesting to think about the history of our relationship with Japan. Of course, World War II was a major crisis with them. There was the bombing of Pearl Harbor, and how we ended the war with them – the only time an atomic weapon was used. Then, during the 1960s, we were in competition with them in economic terms, especially in electronics, and the words "Made in Japan" meant trashy. I guess we are still in competition in that way. But we responded to this spring's earthquake and tsunami there quickly and extensively.

Well, it doesn't look like I'll be able to watch all of this game. It was supposed to start at 7 p.m., but it was delayed because of rain. Now it's 8:30, and a thunderstorm is going on in Pittsburgh.

I was once a feeble member of the faculty basketball team playing a student team at Garrett CC. I was pretty much out of the main action, and kind of wandering around close to the three-point line.

Of course, no student player thought it was worth the bother to guard me. That was a perfectly rational belief because I was not a very experienced basketball player. Let's face it, I was a 30-something female English professor who had delivered my first baby just a few months before.

But Dennis Gibson, the head coach of the Garrett men's varsity basketball team who once played professional basketball, saw that I was totally wide open and had an at least somewhat alert expression on my face. So he passed the ball like a bullet from across the court, and somehow I caught it.

Suddenly, I heard a yell from the bleachers. It was the voice of Tom Stein saying, "Shoot it, Joan! Shoot it!" That was very easy for someone who had awesome three-point skills as Tom Stein did to say. But me? What the hell, I didn't know what else to do with the ball, so I let it fly. Believe it or not, it was a perfect swish... nothing but net.

So the faculty won the game. We did have several well-qualified players, like Dennis, Ann Welham, the women's coach, and Beth, the athletic trainer. But me? Well, I was not up to those standards. But what the heck. No one really expected me to make that shot, so I had nothing to lose. I would never have taken that shot without that yell from Tom. Thank you, Tom.

That was what I often tried to do for my students in English. I told them to just do it, and then I showed them that I believed they could do it.

Virtually my whole life, I have been a very devoted fan of the Bucs, and I hope that I can be for the rest of my life. They are linked to so many important times in my life – elementary school, then 1971 when I was a freshman at the University of Maryland, and then eight years later when I was in Manhattan.

It is not quite hump day of what is always the hardest week of the year, when my girls go to the beach. I remember what happy times we had when Claire and Caitlin were little and we went with Lloyd's parents to Ocean City. Those were happy days. I never expected that my life could turn so ugly, so suddenly.

Sunday's altar flowers at Emmanuel were given by Lesa, Greg, and Maddy Whittemore in memory of Kitty "Meme" King.

Adorable Adoptables

IT'S THE DOG (AND CAT) DAYS OF SUMMER at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. Currently housed at the facility are a border collie (above left) that was dropped off at the shelter after hours, so not much is known about him; a male springer spaniel (above center) and a small dog (not pictured) that were picked up along Underwood Road without ID tags; a female shorthaired grey cat (above right); and a female grey/white tabby (below). "Both of the felines had kittens that went to rescue," said a GC Humane Society spokesperson. "But they were too grown up to go with their kittens. The mothers need a good home, as they are tired of being in a small cage day after day. The dog kennels and cat rooms were full this week, with no adoptions and no reclaims. Several of the dogs from last week's adoptables are still at the shelter, and some new dogs have come in, as they do weekly. The GCHS received dozens of neglect calls this week, mostly concerning pets without shade/shelter from the sun and lack of food or water. Please consider how hot it is outside and what your outdoor pets need to stay cool and healthy; it is your responsibility." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday. Photos courtesy of the Garrett County Humane Society.

Adventure Camps At GC Provide Education, Friendships, And Fun

by Peggy Santamaria

While the "big kids" are on summer break, Garrett College has been taken over by the "little kids" who are participating in the Great Garrett Adventure Camps. This series of weeklong summer camps was designed to teach and entertain the kindergarten through grade 5 group. Offered through the Continuing Education and Workforce Development (CEWD) division of GC, the summer camps program was developed by Maney Gale of the CEWD office.

With her goal of providing youngsters opportunities to learn, socialize, and have fun, Gale devised a variety of camps to run consecutively during the summer months.

"Debra Spurrier, a local mom and businesswoman, helped design the camp themes with me," Gale said. "Elizabeth Ray, who is the adventure camps director, has worked from the themes to add activities and field trips."

Ray is assisted by camp counselor Derrica Friend.

Food for Thought Camp kicked off the Great Garrett Adventure Camp series in June. Youngsters taking part learned how to plant a garden and the nutrition value of various foods, and concluded by setting up a "restaurant" at the college, at which they invited the staff to sample the foods they had prepared. Donning their kitchen gloves, the campers served fruit and vegetable salads, fresh fruit smoothies, and wraps that included all of the food groups, as they explained to their patrons.

"Adventure Camp was awesome," said 9-year-old participant Emma Rush. "I liked learning new things, from growing crops to how to run a restaurant. But the most important thing of all was learning about the new food pyramid. Playing with the other kids was fun, too."

Jason Fickes, chef at Will O' the Wisp restaurant, had shared his skills and knowledge of nutrition with the campers during the Food for Thought week.

"I liked the person who came in and cooked for us," said participant Emaleigh Gale, in referring to Fickes. "We learned about foods that are good for us."

Heading into July, the Dr. Seuss Fine Arts Camp offered campers the chance to explore the fine arts.

Campers read and talked about a dozen books by Dr. Seuss and wrote their own play, Story Book Confusions, which incorporated several of the Dr. Seuss characters.

A highlight of the week was a visit to Our Town Theatre in Oakland, which was the favorite part of the camp experience for 8-year-old Ellen Levesque.

"We got to play dress-up with all the costumes and we got to play with the puppets," she said.

Rachel Levesque, Ellen's 10-year-old sister, heartily agreed that attending camp was a great experience.

"We made a lot of friends and we did a play," she said. "My favorite part was when we made 'Whoville' out of orange balloons. The balloons were the 'dust specks' and we had to keep them in the air."

Through the Decades Camp, held July 5 – 8, boasted a "camp time machine" that took the campers on a journey through the 20th century.

"Our purpose in this session was to introduce the campers to daily life in earlier decades," Ray said, noting that the youngsters discovered a few new board games as they got the idea of what home entertainment was like before television and electronic games.

"I had played Uno before, but not Chinese Checkers," said camper Dante Broadwater. "I liked the tie-dying we did, and I learned to moonwalk."

He also described the music that they listened to back then as "funny."

Going Green at Camp was the theme of last week's session, during which campers explored some ways to protect their environment.

While selecting carrot and turnip seeds to plant in his small containers of soil, Brendle Creech, 8, explained a bit about what he was learning at camp.

"We talked about how to recycle things, and we are learning to keep the world clean," he said.

As a field trip for the Going Green week, campers visited Swallow Falls State Park to do a clean-up project.

"While they clean up, the campers collect twigs, small stones, leaves, and other things that they use when we make picture frames back at the college," Ray

In the weeks to come, the Great Garrett Adventure Camps will include Career Camp, Weird Science Camp, Dirty Jobs Camp, and Science & Technology Camp.

For more information on the adventure camps, persons may call 301-387-3086 or go online to www.garrettcollege.edu.

The Arts

Local Artist Challenges Time By Combining Old, New Technology

A NEW METHOD for long-term preservation of written documents has been introduced locally by Dmitry Ostrogorsky, who has resurrected the use of movable type and incorporates ceramics to produce virtually permanent reproductions of the written word. A youngster holds a sample of the finished product above. Ostrogorsky is pictured below with a sample of his current major undertaking, the casting of the Book of Genesis from the Gutenberg Bible. A sketch of Gutenberg is on the wall behind him.

by Peggy Santamaria

Dmitry Ostrogorsky, a local artist working on a new project to commemorate the invention of the printing press, blends new technologies with ancient ones. Creating what he calls an "unusual twist in progress," he uses a medium that has withstood the test of time – ceramics – to surpass the most advanced developments in digital technology. Ostrogorsky is creating an artifact.

"Historically, the human race has been looking for ways to preserve information on different types of media using various technologies," the Russian-born Ostrogorsky said. "Only a few examples of these attempts survive today Today we store information in a binary format on laser disks, hard drives, flash memory microchips, and other types of digital containers."

The flaw that he points to is that important information trusted to servers of social networks will be conserved only until the storage life of backups expires, while buried under immeasurable amounts of less important data.

"Modern society gives unlimited and unfounded trust to digital media, despite all its fragility," he lamented. So in an era when all information is transferred to digital form, his project Aeviternus has developed and patented a technology of printing on ceramics, which has proved its ability to withstand the passage of thousands of years.

Ostrogorsky, CEO and founder of Aeviternus.com, launched a project dedicated to the very first printed book – the Gutenberg Bible – which he refers to as a book of utmost importance for both sacred and secular culture.

With the help of kickstarter.com, a funding platform for creative projects, Aeviternus will re-create the Book of Genesis from the Gutenberg Bible using the technology invented by Johannes von Gutenberg and adapted by Ostrogorsky. The product will be a print-embedded ceramic artifact.

"This artifact will have a chance to withstand thousands of years as a testimony to the incredible achievement of humankind – printing," Ostrogorsky said.

The Gutenberg Bible Project is listed on Kickstarter com. More information about Ostrogorsky's work can be found on his web site: www.aeviternus.com.

Pastel Workshop Slated By Garrett Arts Council

The Garrett County Arts Council is currently accepting registrations for a hands-on art workshop. Pastel Painting for Beginners will be offered Aug. 24 and 25 by instructor Judith Becker, a local artist.

The two-day class is a workshop that will provide all the basics of painting with soft and semi-hard pastels on various surfaces. Students will learn about the materials, about several techniques, and will explore the way colors are applied and mixed. After several learning exercises, each participant will paint a small composition.

A resident of Terra Alta, Becker's professional work history includes teaching art in grades kindergarten through 12. After retiring from a professional career in human resources, Becker established an art group for the community of Alpine Lake. She specializes in colored pencil painting, pastels, and watercolor. She exhibits and sells her work at the Gallery Shop in Oakland and at various art events around the region. She was recently accepted as a participating artist at the Tamarack in Beckley, WVa.

The course will be held both days at the Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day. Class size is limited and registrations will be accepted until Aug. 5.

To register or obtain more information, persons may contact Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334 6580; garrettarts@earthlink.net, or stop in the office, located at 206 East Alder Street, Oakland.

Annual Barter Camp Slated By Our Town Theatre

Our Town Theatre (OTT) will host its annual Barter Camp, with two separate weeks for different age groups. Elementary school children may attend from July 25 to 29, and middle and high school students may attend Aug. 8 to 12. The camps are held at the theatre, located along Center Street in Oakland.

The camp does not cost money, but all participants are asked to bring various items each day in exchange (to barter) for the experience.

Both camps will start at 10 a.m. and end at noon each day. There will be a short performance for parents, friends, and family on July 29 and Aug. 12 at 7 p.m.

This year's theme is Africa, a spokesperson said.

"We will be learning about different cultures and customs throughout the African continent. There will be stories, activities, crafts, and music throughout the week, all pertaining to different countries in Africa," the spokesperson said. "We will also have items from Africa at the camp for the students to see and learn about."

This year, the OTT board of directors announced that the organization has partnered with the Kampala Music School (KMS) in Uganda for the camps. At the Friday night performance, a collection will be taken that will be sent to KMS.

"We will also have handmade cards from Uganda available for purchase, the proceeds of which will benefit the school," the spokesperson noted. "We hope that the money we raise will be enough to allow us to sponsor a student."

More information about KMS can be found at www.kampalamusicschool.com.

There are some spots open for the 8-10 age group, and several more for ages 11-17, the spokeperson said. Persons should contact OTT via the web site at www.ourtowntheatre.org for more information.

The list of barter items are as follows:

Elementary School

Monday: animal crackers, goldfish crackers, or juice boxes; Tuesday: "forever" postage stamps; Wednesday, Swiffer Wet Jet liquid or Wet Jet pads; Thursday, light or medium foundation makeup or eye-shadow palettes; Friday, fabric refresher spray or 13-gallon garbage bags.

Middle/High School

Food vendors will be open at 6 p.m. Seating is limited, so festival attendees may want to bring blankets or lawn chairs.

Countywide Art Studio Tour Set Next Weekend

Artists of Garrett County, in conjunction with the Garrett County Arts Council, will open their private studios next weekend for a countywide tour. Members of the public are invited to tour the working studios on Saturday and Sunday, July 30 and 31. Studios will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday and noon to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

The tour will encompass a broad section of the county and includes 24 artists at nine separate locations, according to Karen Reckner, executive director of the arts council.

Artists will provide demonstrations and artwork for sale, as well as the opportunity to talk with them about their artistic process and the business of art in the region.

The Artist Studio Tour is free. An array of work will be featured, including pottery, jewelry, fused glass, furniture, photography, wood crafts, painting, sculpture, felted wool purses, and handmade paper artwork. This is the fourth annual event.

"This is a chance for the community and our guests to really make contact with the variety of talent we have locally," Reckner said. "Some of these locations are not generally open to the public."

A brochure of the studios is available at a number of area locations, including the Gallery Shop, the Visitors Center in McHenry, Ruth Enlow libraries, and various businesses throughout the area. There will also be directional signs along the tour route to guide drivers to the sites.

DOGTAG SUMMER
by Elizaeth Partridge
C. 2011, Bloomsbury, $16.99; 229 Pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Your mother always says that you'd forget your head if it weren't attached to your body. It isn't like you mean to be so absentminded. You know that you have responsibilities, commitments, and places to be this summer. You know that. It's just that there's so much going on, and you're trying to pack a lot into your vacation.

Remembering gets hard when you're a kid who's busy.

For a girl named Tracy, though, memories could be haunting. They were distant, like she couldn't quite catch them to examine them properly. But in the new book Dogtag Summer by Elizabeth Partridge, remembering comes with a price.

Summer had finally arrived – at least that was how Stargazer thought – but then again, he was always thinking. Of all Tracy's classmates, Stargazer was the smartest one. He knew something about almost everything.

But he didn't know about the scooped-out little hole inside Tracy's heart, the place where something she couldn't quite figure out was missing.

Five years before, in 1975, she arrived in America with a sign around her neck, exhausted and dirty. She was 6 years old, but was very tiny, an orphan on a planeload of orphans. Her parents always said, "We wanted a daughter and you needed a home," as if that answered any questions Tracy might've had.

And she had plenty of them, but the past wasn't discussed in her family. All she knew was that her father was a Vietnam veteran and that she was the child of a Vietnamese woman and an American soldier.

In Vietnam – she could remember this – they called her con lai, or "half-breed." Tracy knew that she'd lived in a tiny hut near a river, and that her grandmother cared for her while her mother was working. As if the memory were 10 miles away, she remembered the sound of birds on the river and she had a nagging memory of rice and fish. She wanted to ask her father about those fleeting recollections – Were they true? But she didn't dare.

And then, while looking for some materials for a project, Tracy and Stargazer came across a box with dogtags inside. Could those tags, etched with a stranger's name, hold the answer to Tracy's memories?

Did you ever read a historical novel and wish you could talk to somebody who actually lived during the time in which it's set? If you hand your child a copy of Dogtag Summer, that kind of experience is really possible.

Award-winning author Elizabeth Partridge grabs a real-life thread from recent history and spins it into a war story told from several vantage points. I loved the conviction of all the characters – there's an authentic mix in here – and the culmination of this story is a stunner. Astute readers may have the ending figured out, but the solving won't ruin the enjoyment of this fine novel.

If you want to keep your 11-to-16-year-old in reading mode until school starts, this book might just do the trick. Dogtag Summer is one she won't likely forget.

Oaks Take Five Wins In Back-To-Back Triple Headers With Orioles

The Oakland Oaks had their way with the Cumberland Orioles this weekend in a pair of Pen-Mar League baseball triple headers played on Saturday and Sunday The Oaks, who traveled to Bel Air Field for the first series, took the first two games on Saturday (5-2, 5-4), but were edged in game three, 9-7.

In Sunday's triple header, this time at home at Garrett College, the Oaks completed the three-game sweep of the Orioles, winning 7-0, 12-0, and them 8-1, in games one, two, and three, respectively —for a lopsided Sunday run-scored ratio of 27 to 1.

In the first game, Greg Beachy scattered six hits and had 10 strikeouts in his earned win. Bill Lenhart and Billy Reams had RBI singles for the Oaks.

Cody Jeffries and Jim Taylor had RBI singles for Cumberland. Cody Donaldson allowed only five hits and fanned eight before taking the loss.

In game two, Reams smashed a home run in the first inning and then hit a double that proved to be the winning run before the game's end in the top of the seventh inning.

Zach Hare had two singles and two RBI for Cumberland.

Cumberland would earn its only win in six games in the final game of the first triple header.

In that effort, John Taylor and Seth Thompson drove in three runs apiece and Hare hit a run-scoring triple. The Orioles finished with the victory after collecting 11 hits. Taylor hit two singles and Thompson sent in his runs with a single and a ground-out. Dan Smith and Jimmy Taylor added a double and single each.

Corey Helbig drove in two runs with a home run and a single, and Reams singled twice for Oakland.

In the second triple header, Corey Burrell struck out seven in five scoreless innings as the Oaks won the first game 7-0, and Tyler Burnett tossed a four-inning no-hitter with eight strikeouts as Oakland won the next game 12-0.

Sunday's sweep was completed when Oakland's Jason Ashby allowed just one run in four innings of an 8-1 win.

Reams hit a solo home run and Burnett went 3-for-3 with a double and three RBI in the first win. Helbig added a double and a single.

Corey Jeffries had two singles for Cumberland.

In the second game (of the second triple header), Oakland mounted a nine-run second inning in a game that only went to the bottom of the fourth. Burnett allowed just two base runners and struck out eight.

Ashby hit a triple and single, Tommie Reams had an RBI double, and Justin Anderson and Burnett had two singles. Burnett knocked in three more runs.

Patrick Sines was the Oaks' leading hitter in the final game, finishing with a solo home run and two singles. Anderson had three hits, Hunter Broadwater had two hits and two RBI, Reams doubled, and Burnett had a double and two RBI, giving him eight RBI for the day.

Cody Jeffries had two singles and an RBI for the Orioles.

Oakland, now with an overall record of 15-6, will play a make-up double header with Tri-State this Saturday.

Lakers Sign Two Baseball Players From Sandusky

Garrett College head baseball coach Eric Hallenbeck announced recently the signing of Sandusky, Ohio, student athletes Tyler Mees and Michael Drake. Mees is a 2011 graduate of Perkins High School, and Drake is 2011 graduate of Sandusky High School.

Though they attended different high schools, the two young men know each other.

"They've been playing baseball together since Little League," said Hallenbeck. "Tyler is the gritty, uniform-always-dirty kid who just gets the job done, while Michael, pound for pound, will be the best player on most teams."

Drake impressed Hallenbeck with his attitude as well as his athletic abilities.

"The funny thing is that the coaches Michael has played for have said he was their best player; but you ask Michael and he would tell you it was someone else," Hallenbeck said. "That makes him a rare find. Kids today can't wait to tell you how good they are, or what they did in high school.

"Maybe I'm just built differently," he continued. "When I was a player, I never enjoyed sitting there listening to someone for 20 minutes talk about how good they are. Show me – don't tell me how good you are. This tandem up the middle should be showing plenty of people how good they are next spring."

The Lakers complete in the NJCAA Division II.

"We have one of the top amateur fields in Maryland, plus an indoor practice facility," said Hallenbeck. "Despite a very demanding schedule, we have averaged over 20 wins a year for the past nine years.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

TWO RACES IN THE MIDST OF THE DOLDRUMS
by Dan Muss

Last Saturday morning looked as windless as the previous weekend, but Accuweather was predicting a SE breeze by 1 P.M. At 11:30 A.M., the time for the half-hour horn, principle race officer (PRO) John Meredith made what I thought was a very good decision. He sent the sailors to lunch with a decision to be made after 1 p.m., with the possibility of two races, back-to-back, if the wind came up.

And come up it did out of the east with a slight southerly cast. The committee set the course in the slot, with Scots sailing a windward-leeward course twice around, and the Lasers a triangle inside the Scot course.

At the masters' start, I first thought the committee boat would be favored and I plotted my start that way, but 30 seconds before the final horn the line was square to the wind and I sped up for a reasonable start in the middle of the line. (Reasonable in this case was not 1½ boat-lengths over the line like we were last Saturday!) Halfway up the first windward leg, I wanted to tack onto port and clear Peters, who was coming on starboard. But our jib got fouled, we slowed down, and I made an emergency tack back onto starboard, but Peters had to turn to avoid us, so we bore off to do our penalty turns.

So rounding the windward offset mark at the back of the fleet we tried to do what we always do in this situation – catch the boat ahead of us. We hoisted the spinnaker on the starboard tack and then immediately jibed onto port to stay out in the middle of the slot. We jibed onto starboard halfway down and had a great run, passing five boats. But, as we approached the leeward mark, twin problems arose. The boom vang was not taut and, as I tried to lower the centerboard, the roller on the centerboard got jammed in the vang yoke so the board was only halfway down. Then, as the spinnaker was coming down, the halyard got jammed in a knotted loop (sometimes called a "donkey's a*s"). As we tried to sail to windward with half the spinnaker in the water and our centerboard only half down, my crew Andrew came back and feverishly unknotted the spinnaker halyard while I raised the board slightly so I could free the roller from the yoke and drop the board all the way down. Finally squared away, we beat up the slot, avoiding the starting line (which is now poison). The next couple of legs we sailed well and were startled to find ourselves in third place at the last beat to the finish. Gregory in first place and Anderson in second were way ahead of us, but the rest of the fleet was way behind us; I'm not sure how this all happened! Ah, sailboat racing on Deep Creek Lake.

The PRO got another shorter race off in a dying breeze; I was so tired after we unrigged, I was sure I could never have sailed that second race...but we are the Masters Fleet; we only sail one race a day!

Sunday morning was a repeat of last week, but this time PRO Dick Gregory didn't wait too long to cancel... another good decision.

I guess these summer doldrums are inevitable... but wait, I have a theory. In ancient times boats were propelled mostly by oars with a wind assist on reaches. In Greek and Roman times the rowers were mostly slaves, and the slaves were supplied by military conquest. By the 15th century the square-rigged sails could make some way to windward, but they mostly followed the prevailing wind patterns. From Europe to the New World it was the trade winds going and the Gulf Stream coming back. They were, however, so unweatherly that instead of tacking to windward they would "wear ship," which involved bearing off, jibing, and then heading up on the new tack. When they hit the section of the Atlantic Ocean between these cyclical wind patterns called the "doldrums," they would scratch the backstay, which they believed would bring wind.

Here at Deep Creek Lake we have two one-design fleets – the Flying Scot and the Laser. Neither boat has a backstay... so there you have it!

Lois J. Kahl

June 28, 1960 – June 16, 2011

Lois was first sworn into office on March 6, 2006, and served consecutive terms until her death on June 16. She chaired several committees throughout her time on council. Whether it was checking out issues concerning town streets or sidewalks, or helping to organize the town's annual Christmas celebration, Lois took her position seriously and carried her responsibilities out to completion. She loved the people she served in the community. Residents could always depend on her to get back to them with an answer and a smile. She commended people for their good work and always said "Thank you," She will be sadly missed by all who served with her and all others who knew and loved her.

Taylor allowed only four hits in his complete-game victory for Frank Arnold.

Things started to go poorly for Frank Arnold on Friday when Damien Monroe hit a two-run base hit for the Diamond Dogs in their seven-run sixth inning. The scoring spree propelled North Side over Frank Arnold after a back and forth offensive battle.

The Dogs built a 6-2 lead through two and a half innings before Frank Arnold scored four in the bottom of the third to tie it, then added a run in the fourth to take a 7-6 lead.

The Dogs solidified their control with that seven-run sixth, however, as Frank Arnold managed only two runs in the sixth inning and one run in the seventh, despite out-hitting North Side 13-10.

The Dogs' Cody Rodeheaver had two hits including a triple, Kyle Rosenberger and Beck Sherrard had RBI base hits, and Andrew Sisler doubled and singled.

Ryan Bennett had three RBI off two hits to lead Frank Arnold. Noble had three singles, while Dick had two.

Against WEPCO, the Diamond Dogs' Bittinger hit a triple and two singles before the eighth-inning tie finish. Teammate Rodeheaver tripled and Sines had an RBI single.

Ben Russell singled and doubled for WEPCO and knocked in two runs. Daniel Warnick singled and tripled, Jared Wilson and Dylan Redinger doubled, and Jordan Montgomery had an RBI single.

In its next game, at Northern High School, North Side held a 4-3 lead after four innings with Fort Ashby, but allowed its opponent six more runs in the next three innings and took a loss. Both teams had 11 hits and one error apiece.

In its Wednesday game, Frank Arnold fell to Personal Best at Femi Field.

Personal Best's Dave Rinehart pitched a complete-game six-hitter and contributed a triple at the plate to earn the win.

DNR Launches Maryland Youth Fishing Club

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has "opened its virtual doors" to a free online fishing clubhouse for anglers between the ages of 5 and 15.

"This fishing club is a fun and helpful way to instill a sense of community and environmental stewardship in young anglers and their families," said DNR Fisheries director Tom O'Connell.

The club will allow the DNR to interact with young anglers and, their mentors to promote upcoming youth events across Maryland, share fishing stories on the youth angler's log, and access dependable information on how to succeed in fishing.

"We eventually hope to learn from our young anglers what works for them in developing an appreciation for the outdoors, so we may better support them in their endeavors," said Letha Grimes, the club's coordinator.

Membership in the Maryland Youth Fishing Club is free and subject to parental approval. New members will receive a Maryland Youth Fishing Club Patch and access to helpful information from DNR and experts from partner fishing organizations across the state.

Youth may join the Maryland Youth Fishing Club by going online to dnr.maryland.gov/keepfishing. For more information, persons may also contact Letha Grimes at lgrimes@dnr.state.md.us.

The executive order also instructs the departments and the advisory commission to take advantage of other ongoing research. AARP Driving Safety Program Set For Aug. 10

St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland recently announced the return of the AARP Driver Safety program for Wednesday, Aug-ust 10, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. The one-day session will be taught by Larry McLaughlin.

"Cars have changed. So have the traffic rules, driving conditions, and the roads you travel every day," stated McLaughlin.

"Some drivers age 50 and over have never looked back since they got their licenses, but even the most experienced benefit from brushing up on their driving skills."

According to an AARP spokesperson, the program is the nation's first and largest driver-safety course designed to help drivers 50 and older live a more independent lifestyle. Since its inception in 1979, the program has taught millions of drivers. It covers defensive driving techniques, the rules of the road, and normal changes in vision, hearing, and reaction time.

The course, which may earn participants auto-insurance discounts, is open to AARP members and non-members of all ages. It is available in a classroom and in an online setting.

"You can expect to learn current rules of the road, defensive driving, and how to operate your vehicle more safely in today's increasingly challenging driving environment," added McLaughlin.

"You'll learn adjustments to accommodate common age-related changes in vision, hearing, and reaction time."

The course will cost $12 for AARP members and $14 for non-members. Those interested may contact the St. Paul's Church office at 301-334-2391.

RELIEF DONATIONS MADE TO HAITI – The donations from several local people and organizations have allowed Vine Abiding Ministries to purchase and ship a sport utility vehicle to Haiti for use in its ministry activities there. Vine Abiding Ministries has partnered with several local churches and organizations for long-term support of its relief work and ministry in Port-au-Prince and the Haitian countryside. The donated 1999 GMC Suburban will allow Vine Abiding Ministries to transport mission teams and donated items to remote areas of the country and to accompany cargo truck loads of food, clothing, medicine, and other relief supplies. Many of the supplies will be delivered to remote villages located hours away over rough roads and trails. The Nearly New Shop, a ministry of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland, has donated several tons of clothing to Vine Abiding for impoverished children and families in Haiti. The first shipment went to Haiti in October of last year, and another shipment is planned for later this year. Christian Crossing Thrift Shop has donated medical supplies, clothing, books, and a used organ for use by the church in Port-au-Prince. Volunteer from both organizations have helped to sort and pack boxes before shipping. The staff of Vine Abiding includes Pastor Dale Hipp and his wife Pam, who have been involved in ministry in Haiti for more than 20 years. They are currently engaged in a project to build a new children's home in the Santo area, about 20 miles west of Port-au-Prince. Vine Abiding Ministries continues to seek additional monetary and material donations to aid in its efforts. More information on the ministry and how people can assist can be found online at www.haitihope.net. Above is the Suburban with Pastor Hipp, Jerry Maynard of Oakland, and Paul Durham, local resident assisting Vine Abiding. Above right are supplies being packed and delivered to a rural area in Haiti last October. More than 1,000 boxes of supplies were distributed within a week of arrival in Haiti.

HELP CHILDREN LEARN FINANCIAL SKILLS

by Lynn Little,
Extension Educator, Family and Consumer Sciences
University of Maryland
Extension

From preschool age on, children and teens are learning attitudes about money. It's never too early and it's never too late to help your children (or other children you care about) build the money skills they'll need throughout their lives.

It is natural for parents to pay attention to financial skills as teens are preparing to leave home. However, children begin as toddlers to learn about money, why it is important, and how it should be used. Efforts to help children build financial skills will be most effective if they begin early.

Allow your children to observe your decisions. Families make dozens of financial decisions each week. It is not necessary (nor possible) to explain every single decision you make. It is, however, helpful for parents and others to get in a regular habit of talking with children about why they make decisions.

Examples: "I chose this more expensive sweater instead of the other one because this one is machine washable." "I bought 20 of these notebooks because they were very inexpensive and we'll use them during the year."

Try to let children observe or be involved in decisions that are appropriate to their age. Young children will be overwhelmed by complex decisions, but older children and teens need the experience of weighing the importance of various pros and cons.

It is appropriate to tell children about decisions you were unhappy with, as well as ones that pleased you. If they see that you learn from your mistakes (and your successes), they will learn to do that too. Avoid sharing information in a way that causes your child to feel guilty or insecure about the family's finances.

Give children chances to practice. From grade school on up, children benefit from opportunities to practice making financial decisions. Two types of practice are particularly helpful:

1) Managing regular income. Children can receive regular, predictable income through allowances or payment for chores. When income is predictable, children can plan ahead to meet their needs and wants, using skills similar to those they'll need as adults. Be sure there is clear understanding about what expenses the allowance or pay is intended to cover, and then let them be responsible for meeting those needs.

2) Managing special sums for special projects. Allow a certain amount of money for a particular project – such as redecorating a room, planning a birthday party, or buying back-to-school clothes. Spell out any expectations you have and stay involved enough so that you can remind the child of important considerations they might forget, but then let the child be responsible for the ultimate decisions.

Give children opportunities to observe and practice financial decision-making throughout their lives. They'll develop skills, clarify their values, and learn to see money as a tool they can control in order to have what is most important to them in life.

NORTHERN HIGH JROTC ATTENDS LEADERSHIP TRAINING CAMP – Northern High School JROTC cadets recently participated in the annual JROTC Leadership Camp (JCLC) conducted at Camp Dawson, W.Va. The cadets were selected to attend the event based on their academic achievement, physical fitness, leadership ability, and their "positive, can-do attitude." The group participated in various training events: a water survival exercise, marksmanship training, small boat operations, crossing a water obstacle using a one-rope bridge, negotiating an obstacle course, and the Leadership Reaction Course (LRC), which required cadets to rappel from a 60 foot tower and climb a 60 foot rock wall. Five NHS cadets participated. They were Alex Allman, Gerald Yutzy, Bryan Glotfelty, Zach Haer, and Jimmie Redmond. Pictured above, from left, are: Redmond, Glotfelty, Haer, Yutzy, Allman and Sgt. Major (ret.) Mel Hoffman, NHS JROTC Army Instructor. Pictured above right are cadets Allman, left, and Haer ascending the 60 foot training wall. Below is cadet Yutzy climbing the rope obstacle while Allman, left, gives encouragement. Cadet Redmond was recognized for his superior efforts and named a "top cadet" at the event.

YOUTH GROUP FINISHES MISSION IN CINCINNATI – The Divine Hope Church recently sponsored its "Inside-Out" youth group's participation in an event coordinated by Group Workcamps Foundation Week of Hope. Divine Hope Youth Group Joins Mission Trip In Cincinnati

The "Inside-Out" youth group of the Divine Hope Church, Oakland, recently completed an inner-city mission trip in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The event was coordinated by Group Workcamps Foundation Week of Hope, a youth mission based in Colorado. Eleven youth and seven adult leaders from the church traveled to Cincinnati to work at a day camp for "underprivileged children and youth in an impoverished area of the city."

The group gathered at the River of Life Church and coordinated its weeklong day-camp experience with City Gospel Mission and youth pastor Gordon Havens. Each intensive day involved a host of activities, such as play, game teaching, discussions about pertinent life issues, praise and worship time, interpersonal development, skits, and meals. The camp hosted 30 to 40 participants each day.

"Throughout the process, the mission team didn't just go in and complete tasks. They were able to experience what it would be like to liye in the community and know the community," stated a spokesperson.

"The purpose of the workcamps is to change the lives of those served and to also change the lives of those who are serving. As only two members had ever served on a mission trip previously, lives were changed, as they experienced the sacrifice and blessing of serving others."

About 26,000 youth and leaders in 27 states have or will be participating in workcamps this summer. Those from Divine Hope Church who attended the event in Cincinnati were: Abby, Jason, and Kelly Buckley; James, J.J., Regina, and Samuel Burns; Ron DeWitt; Kelsey Greer; Tiffany Longacre; Mel Menker; Lottie and Wyatt Sanders; Shirley Sharpless; Emily Tichnell; Bethany and Debby Tippen; and Skylar Warnick.

The colorful balloons appear to magically drift across the sky, but they will quickly collapse without a whoosh of hot air. Our spirits can deflate without the warmth of God's love to fill our souls. Let your Heavenly Father give you the power you need to soar above the stresses of everyday life. Worship in God's House this week and get the lift you need.

Walk Humbly With Your God

While it certainly is possible to be both happy and holy, and indeed many of the holiest people seem profoundly happy, consider Mother Teresa or the Dalai Lama, if given a choice between happiness and holiness, we should choose holiness. Americans are perhaps so inclined to pursue happiness that we worship it as a kind of idol. And not just Americans: Aristotle contended that happiness is the highest good, the thing which all men seek and the end of all ends, every other end pursued not for its own sake but for the sake of happiness. But before we consider Aristotle a shallow pleasure-seeker, we should realize that Aristotle's notion of happiness was much broader than ours today. As he considered happiness, or eudaimonia, to require living a good and virtuous life and to be affected by a variety of things, from one's appearance to one's reputation, and even considered that one's happiness could be affected after one's death. We Americans tend to be the shallow pleasure-seekers, thinking of happiness as nothing more than a perpetual sunny disposition or good mood. Perhaps we should return to Aristotle's more robust version of happiness, which contends that virtue must be at the center of human flourishing.

To be happy requires acting virtuously and thus one cannot be truly happy without also being holy.

AMC will continue to make a 'Killing'

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Mireille Enos

Q: At the beginning of 2011, AMC's "The Killing" was advertised as a 13-episode miniseries. Is it continuing into the fall, or is it over? -Sally Powell, Columbus, Ohio

A: It's continuing, which surely will come as good news to those followers who know the drama's central crime remains to be solved. Though the show – with a much-praised cast including Mireille Enos as the lead detective probing the title murder – initially was intended as a single-season offering, AMC's announcement of the renewal came shortly before the first-year finale was presented last month. A definite start date hasn't been confirmed for season two, but next spring seems likely.

Q: On "Law & Order: LA," Detective Rex Winters – played by Skeet Ulrich – was killed, yet episodes listed as "new" have been airing, and he is still alive. Why? –Shaun Ryan, Grand Junction, Colo.

A: For the benefit of those who may fear they missed a story with a resuscitation device from outer space, episodes Ulrich had filmed before the decision was made to kill off his character hadn't aired yet when the "reboot" was launched in April. After all of the later episodes had been shown, NBC decided to back up and get some use out of the previously unseen Ulrich stories. At this point, all the existing episodes of the now-canceled "LA" have been broadcast.

Q: What ever happened to the show "My Boys"? Could you tell me if or when it will return? –Bob Stengel, Hypoluxo, Fla.

A: It won't. Last fall, after four seasons, TBS decided not to continue the sitcom about a sportswriter – played by Jordana Spiro – and her close male buddies. There was some irony in that outcome for Spiro, since her contractual obligations to "My Boys" had forced her to pass up a continuing role in "Love Bites," which NBC has been airing this summer. Ultimately, she wouldn't have had a very long run with that show anyway.

Q: Is the actor who plays Tom Selleck's youngest son on "Blue Bloods" the same actor who played Jeremy on "Army Wives"? –Patty Arendt, Fort Pierce, Fla.

A: No. Will Estes plays Tom Selleck's youngest policeman offspring on the CBS series, and Richard Bryant had the role of Jeremy on the Lifetime military drama.

Q: I would like to know what happened to William Shatner's show "$..! My Dad Says." –Rene Warren, East Norwich, N.Y.

A: Despite the high hopes CBS had for the Twitter-inspired sitcom, it was canceled after one season. That season for the show ended relatively early, too, which usually isn't a good prognosis for a series getting a renewal.

Not Just for Birds

It's summer, and it's hot. Birds aren't the only fliers that need clean water. I have seen other creatures with wings, like bees and dragonflies, sipping water from birdbaths. So keep those birdbaths clean and keep that water fresh.

It was in February of that year that a cow was loaded into an airplane in St. Louis. It was milked during the flight, and the milk was parachuted to earth.

Collecting
by Larry Cox

Q: I have a large collection of cookie jars, including one depicting Marilyn Monroe made by Clay Art. I am enclosing a picture. How much do you think it is worth? -- Lucille, Spicer, Minn.
A: I checked eBay and found a dealer from Iowa offering the 2000 Millennium Marilyn Monroe cookie jar with original box for $39.95. It appears to be the same one that you have. Condition and rarity are two important factors that determine the value of a cookie jar. Those that are chipped and have faded or missing colors are often worth a fraction of ones in mint condition.
Incidentally, there are three excellent price guides you might find helpful: An Illustrated Value Guide to Cookie Jars, by Ermagene Westfall; Warman's Cookie Jars Identification and Price Guide, by Mark F. Moran; and The Complete Cookie Jar Book, by Mike Schneider

Q: I have a book by Carrie Chapman Catt published in 1917 and signed by the author. Any idea of where I can find out its value? -- Mike, Gulf Shores, Ala
A: Carrie Chapman Catt was born in 1859 and was a leader in the votes-for-women movement during the early years of the past century. She published several books, including two that were extremely popular: "The Ballot and the Bullet" and "Woman Suffrage."
You can find many of her books for sale online at www.abe.com. Go to the site, type in Catt's name and the title of your book and soon dozens of dealers and the prices of her books that are available will appear. This is the easiest way to determine the value of many older books.

Third Annual Kidney Ride Slated Sept. 24

Bicyclists from throughout the region are expected to gather Saturday, Sept. 24, to participate in the National Kidney Foundation of Maryland's (NKF-MD) third annual Western Maryland Kidney Ride along the Great Allegheny Passage.

The event will begin at Cumberland's historic Western Maryland Railway Station on Canal Street. It will traverse the picturesque mountain trail to Frostburg and travel back to Cumberland. Along the way, NKF-MD will have three rest stops with refreshments.

Up to 50 riders have the option of riding the historic Mountain Thunder steam train from Cumberland to Frostburg (with their bicycles) and then pedal back to Cumberland. On-site check-in will begin at 9 a.m. The ride will start at 10 a.m. and the train will depart at 11 a.m.

"The Kidney Ride is designed to bring attention to the importance of early detection for those at risk of kidney disease, and also raise funds to support programs for kidney patients and their families," said Kidney Ride chairperson Dr. John S. Davis, a two-time kidney transplant patient and a leading advocate for NKF-MD. "Twenty-six million Americans have kidney disease, and hundreds of them live right here in Garrett and Allegany counties."

Each rider is asked to raise a minimum amount of $100. There is no registration fee, but those taking the train will be charged $15 (payable in advance to NKF-MD). Persons may register online at www.kidneymd.org and create a personal web page. Offline donations (such as checks and matching gift forms) can be sent to Susan Scarpelli, c/o Kidney Ride, 894 Eastgate Ct., Cumberland, MD 21502.

NKF-MD hopes to surpass the $15,000 raised at last year's Western Maryland Kidney Ride. According to Dr. Davis, event proceeds directly provide for patient and community services such as free early detection and initiatives to heighten awareness of the disease; continuing education programs for kidney doctors and other caregivers; research to fight kidney disease; patient advocacy to make patients' voices heard through legislative action; and patient financial support when necessary to purchase medicine or transportation.

For more information about the Western Maryland Kidney Ride, to receive sponsor forms, and/or to learn more about NKF-MD's programs and services, persons are invited to go online to www.kidneymd.org, call 301-722-0707, or send an e-mail to renalnutrition@yahoo.com. The National Kidney Foundation of Maryland, serving central and western Maryland, the Delmarva Peninsula, and portions of West Virginia, is the area's only voluntary health agency dedicated to the prevention, treatment, and cure of kidney and urinary tract diseases.

Gang Awareness Training Slated At Garrett Coll.

The Maryland Community Crime Prevention Institute in partnership with the Maryland Crime Prevention Association and Garrett College will offer a gang awareness training session on Thursday, Aug. 4, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Room 205 of the Continuing Education Building on the McHenry campus.

The agenda will include the definition and history of street gangs, gang culture and recruitment, gangs and the media, gang indicators and identification, gangs in Maryland, and gang prevention techniques.

The training is free of charge and includes a light breakfast and lunch. Pre-registration is required and is limited to the first 50 registrants.

For additional information or to register, persons may call the college's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

CNA Training Classes Slated In September

The Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division of Garrett College will offer certified nursing assistant (CNA) training beginning on Monday, Sept. 12, in Oakland from 5:30 to 8:45 p.m.

Maryland regulations require that anyone who performs nursing tasks, delegated by a nurse for compensation, must complete an approved CNA course of study and be certified by the Maryland Board of Nursing.

Upon successful completion of this training, students will also be eligible to take an exam to become certified as a geriatric nursing assistant (GNA.)

The course is divided into two parts. In the theory classes topics will include the role and responsibility of nursing assistants, major organs and body systems, common medical terms, human growth and development, ethical and legal issues, and demonstration of various nursing assistant functions.

The second part of training is a clinical experience working under the supervision of instructors and alongside the nursing staff at the Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home in Grantsville.

Potential students must demonstrate a minimum of ninth grade language arts skills and a minimum of eighth grade math skills on literacy testing prior to registration.

Testing dates are Monday–Friday, Aug. 1–5, at 10 a.m. or 2 p.m., or other date/times by appointment.

For additional information or to schedule testing, persons may call 301-387-3087.

Southern Grad Accepts Joyce Colbert Award

Katelyn Gnegy of Oakland has recently been awarded the 2011 Joyce Colbert Scholarship Award by the Tucker Community Foundation. Gnegy is the daughter of Daniel and Mary Gnegy and a graduate of Southern High School. She plans to major in animal science at Garrett College.

The Colbert Fund was established as a memorial tribute to honor the career and contributions of Dr. Joyce Colbert, a former resident of Deer Park, who was born in 1959 in Louisville, Ky., and reared in Kentucky, Delware, and Northern Ireland.

After graduating from the school of veterinary medicine at Cornell University, Colbert moved to Garrett County in the late 1980s and established Deer Park Veterinary Services, where she practiced until her death in 2007.

The Colbert Fund is designed to foster rural veterinary resources in Tucker and Preston counties in West Virginia, and in Garrett County.

TCF scholarship awards are based on a competitive application process and are distributed in the spring of each year to students in an eight-county region. Funding is provided by income generated from endowed and unrestricted funds managed by the foundation along with pass-through donations and the Kep and Alice Smith Trust income. This year's awards ranged from $500 to $4,000.

To view a complete list of TCF scholarship awards, one may visit www.tuckerfoundation.net. Those interested in further information may contact TCF at 304-478-2930.

What is AT:LAST?

AT:LAST Inc. is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization founded in 1998 under the legal name Assistive Technology: Loans, Acquisitions, Services, and Training, Inc. It also does business as the Maryland A T Co-Op since that was its first program and remains the service most frequently accessed today.

AT:LAST Inc. was granted Minority Business Enterprise status from the Maryland Department of Transportation this past April.

While headquartered in Howard County, additional services offered through the Center for Assistive Technology in Accident are as follows:

• Provision of high quality, low-cost training opportunities in a variety of formats, both at the facility site and at private homes.

• Demonstration and the lending of a collection of AT devices and software.

• Consultations and evaluations to meet individual needs or improve service.

• Direct service sessions to students with learning disabilities.

• Advocacy assistance to families.

What is the Maryland AT Co-Op?

This program provides discounted purchasing and training to schools, agencies, organizations, and families. With initial funding and support from the Maryland Technology Assistance Program (Governor's Office for Individuals with Disabilities), the Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE Division of Special Education), and the Maryland Developmental Disabilities Council, the co-op uses the combined purchasing power of Maryland's schools to make A.T more affordable. As of May 2011, the co-op has saved participants $2.6 million on their A.T. purchases.

To visit the Garrett County location, please call for an appointment to view the collection of "around the home" items to assist with chores around the house as well as technologics to assist individuals with learning and job related tasks.

Fear of Losses May Lead to Negative Investment Behavior

Like every other investor, you prefer not to see the value of your investments drop. But at some point they will fall simply because of the ups and downs of the market. And how you respond to short-term losses can help determine if you enjoy long-term investment success.

Investors' feelings about losses can be complex. In the field of economics, an area of study is devoted to "loss aversion" — the concept that people dislike losing money so much that, given a choice, they'd prefer to avoid losses rather than take gains. For example, if you have a high degree of loss aversion, then you will find greater dissatisfaction by losing $100 than you'd get satisfaction from taking a $100 profit.

Loss aversion can lead to various forms of negative investment behavior. Here are two of the most common results:

• Seeking "risk-free" investments — When you think of investment losses, the first thing that probably comes to mind is a drop in stock prices. If you're really loss-averse, you might seek to avoid this situation by simply avoiding stocks and placing all your money in other investments. While some of these investments may seem "risk-free," you must consider factors such as inflation risk — the possibility that these investments may provide returns that don't keep up with the rate of inflation.

• Holding "losers" too long — From time to time, you will own investments that, for whatever reason, underperform. If you're highly loss-averse, though, you may have a tough time acknowledging the losing nature of these investments, so you may be tempted to hold on to them until they "bounce back." But if the investment's fundamentals change, or if the investment no longer aligns with your goals, it may be time to sell it and look for other opportunities. Conversely, you may want to hold on to quality investments whose price has dropped in the short term, because these investments may well recover.

How can you avoid these types of behavior? For starters, you'll need to recognize the symptoms of loss aversion in yourself — and then resolve to overcome them. Accept the fact that short-term losses are part of investing and that every single investment carries some type of risk.

This doesn't mean, of course, that you should do nothing to reduce your risk. One effective risk-fighting measure you can take is to diversify your holdings by investing in a variety of stocks, bonds, government securities, CDs and other investment vehicles. If you had all your holdings in only stocks or bonds, a downturn primarily affecting one of those assets could lead to a big hit for your portfolio. But by spreading your dollars among a variety of investments, you're also spreading the risk. Keep in mind, though, that diversification by itself can't guarantee a profit or protect against loss.

Investment losses, even short-term ones, aren't much fun. But by not overreacting to these losses, and by diversifying your portfolio in a way that best meets your individual needs, you can look past today's losses toward tomorrow's possibilities.

CENTENARIAN NAVIGATES THE WATERS OF DEEP CREEK LAKE – Daisy Graham, seen here proving that one is never too old to try new things, recently took her first boat ride on Deep Creek Lake. The 101½-year-old Graham not only experienced her first boat ride, but took the captain's chair and piloted the watercraft. The opportunity was afforded to Graham and others from the Diakon Adult Day Care Services at Mountain Glade by Lew Wheeler, who hosted a picnic and a day on the water at his home. Graham's family have expressed their thanks to Wheeler, the Garrett Transit Service, and the volunteers for making the event possible.

RIDING THE WIND in a Laser sailboat on Deep Creek Lake on a sunny day in mid-July is just about as good as it gets. The sailor in this photo is Carrie Dodd, and the shot was taken during the Deep Creek Yacht Club's Full-Rig Laser Regatta this past weekend, an event in which Carrie finished third. The photo was taken by Carrie's grandmother Barbara Meredith. The weather prognosticators are calling for the exceedingly warm, sunny conditions to continue on the Mountaintop for the next several days, affording opportunity for enjoyment of Garrett County's numerous outdoor recreational offerings.

Two Local POs Tentatively Set To Be Closed

Two Garrett County post offices are among the 3,653 around the country that are tentatively slated for closure, according to the financially struggling U.S. Postal Service.

The USPS, which has been losing billions of dollars as more people communicate online, said Tuesday that it is considering closing 12 percent of its post office locations and working with local businesses to fill the void.

The local POs on the list are those that currently serve Bloomington and Bittinger.

The post offices are those that have been labeled as having "low activity," which means low foot traffic, average sales of less than $50 per day, and less than two hours of work per day Most are located within five miles of another post office location, and the great majority of them bring in less than $27,500 in annual revenue.

Among Allegany County post offices on the list are those of Cresaptown, LaVale, and Cumberland Station A. The Bayard, W.Va., post office is also included.

In place of a dedicated post office, the Postal Service is proposing that pharmacies and other retailers sell stamps, flat-rate packaging, and other products, a concept it's calling the "Village Post Office."

"Today, more than 35 percent of the Postal Service's retail revenue comes from expanded access locations such as grocery stores, drug stores, office supply stores, retail chains, self-service kiosks, ATMs, and usps.com, open 24/7," said Postmaster General Patrick Donahoe. "Our customers' habits have made it clear that they no longer require a physical post office to conduct most of their postal business."

The Postal Service, which primarily makes money by selling postage, has been badly hurt as people have shifted communications to e-mail and the Internet, and as competitors such as FedEx and UPS have increased their reach. In 2010, mail volumes fell 3.5 percent, pushing the Postal Service to a record net loss of $8.5 billion. The wider losses have continued through the first two quarters of the current fiscal year.

The USPS has eliminated 110,000 jobs over the past four years, saving some $12 billion. This year, the service announced it would stop some types of contributions

Sheriff's Office Awarded School Bus Safety Grant

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office will receive $10,000 to help protect children while traveling to school, the Governor's Office of Crime Control & Prevention (GOCCP) announced on Monday.

In February of this year, a one-day study found that Maryland drivers are bypassing the stop arms on school buses at what was described as "an alarming rate." The study was conducted by the Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE) and found that on a single day, there were 7,028 violations of school bus safety laws statewide. Nearly 4,000 were oncoming drivers who ignored the stop arms, 2,665 drivers moved past a stopped bus on the bus driver's side of the vehicle, and 366 drivers passed a stopped bus on the door side.

BPW Approves Preservation Of Local Acreage

Maryland Governor Martin O'Malley announced this week Board of Public Works (BPW) approval to preserve 530 acres of Maryland landscape, including acreage in the Bear Creek area near Accident, through the Rural Legacy Program.

"By partnering with landowners to preserve Maryland's heritage and natural beauty, we are creating an actual rural legacy to be enjoyed by our children and theirs," said Governor O'Malley.

In the Bear Creek Rural Legacy Area, the Schmuck farm will permanently protect 103 acres of agricultural and forest land, and protect water quality with 1,870 feet of buffers along tributaries that feed into Bear Creek and the Youghiogheny River. The easement, which will be held by Garrett County, extinguishes 52 development rights and protects natural trout streams and interior-dwelling bird and black bear habitat.

"This is a valuable addition to Garrett County's Bear Creek Rural Legacy project because of its proximity to Deep Creek Lake's growth area, the size of the property, its proximity to other protected lands, its water quality protection values,

One Rec Project In Garrett Gets BPW Approval

Governor Martin O'Malley announced this week Board of Public Works (BPW) approval of recreational projects in four counties, including one in Garrett, through local-side Program Open Space and the Community Parks and Playgrounds Program.

The town of Oakland will receive $4,500 to upgrade parts of the flooring on the basketball court, replace a portion of the gym floor, and restripe and refinish the entire gymnasium floor at the Oakland Community Center (former armory).

The BPW has approved funding for 982 recreational projects, including Community Parks & Playgrounds, totaling more than $288 million through local-side Program Open Space since 2007. Since 1969, Program Open Space has provided funding for acquisition of 355,283 acres for open space and recreation ar-

TOTL Theatre Company To Stage Garrett County Premier Of Musical

TOTL (Theatre on the Lake) Theatre Company, under the direction of Lynn Broderick, is currently in the final stage of rehearsal for the Garrett County premiere of an original musical titled Mabel's Story.

Conceived and written by Broderick, the musical is the inspiring story of Garrett County native Mabel Lorraine Brenneman, who was diagnosed with breast cancer at the age of 15. Broderick and Brenneman met at Preston High School during the school year in 2003.

"Mabel was a student in my Drama 1 class, and her sister Ellen was in Stagecraft," said Broderick. "It was actually Ellen who broke the news to me about Mabel."

Although Mabel made it through her class, it was not until her senior year that she registered for Broderick's advanced drama class. It was during an assignment for that class that Broderick connected the subject matter of an improvisation to Mabel's year of chemotherapy.

"I remember going up to her after the performance," Broderick said. "She was sitting on the edge of the stage and we were about to begin the critique. I said to her, 'This really happened to you, didn't it.'"

Her affirmative response led to more questions and, by the following day, Broderick said she had decided that Mabel's story needed to be told.

"I asked to see her after class and told her I wanted to write a play, maybe a musical, about her," said Broderick. "I asked her if she would be willing to be interviewed by me so I could get biographical information on her life.

AFTER MAKING OVER 330 RIFLES during his 92 years of living, Bob Brenneman of Swanton has decided to "retire" from that particular hobby, and is pictured above holding gun #333. Brenneman said that it was in his early years that he became interested in how guns worked, from the butt to the end of the barrel, so he became a gunsmith. The quality of his work is well-known among gun owners in the area. When a reporter asked Brenneman what Garrett County was like when he was growing up, he said that when he was "coming of age" there was nothing wrong with a boy grabbing his .22 caliber rifle and heading for the woods. At times it was a necessity, he said, because even a youngster with a small-caliber gun could put meat on the table. "Once outside, a young man could find a mix of wilderness that he could literally get lost in," he said. "There were rhododendron growths where a man even on horseback could get lost. And there were tree canopies so thick that a squirrel could travel several miles without touching the ground." "I just can't stand up for very long anymore," he said almost apologetically, adding, "My muscles just can't take it." He said that he is going to miss the work, "but it's just as important to know when to quit as it was to know when to start." Brenneman and his wife Margarita have been married for 64 years. MABEL'S STORY, an original musical conceived and written by Theatre on the Lake (TOTL) director Lynn Broderick, will be performed several times next week at the Barn at Ridgeview Valley, McHenry. The story is based on the life of Mabel Lorraine Brenneman, a native of Garrett County, who was diagnosed with breast cancer at the age of 15 and while she was a student in Broderick's drama class at Preston High School. After writing the dialogue and lyrics, Broderick called upon her daughter Leah, a 2004 graduate of the Shenandoah Conservatory of Music, to compose the melodies for her lyrics. A pensive Leah is pictured above studying the several journals that her mother wrote while she interviewed Mabel for the play. The mother-daughter team spent nearly eight months on the project. Performances are scheduled for Aug. 2-6. See story for more information.

Law enforcement agencies working to reduce these numbers will receive assistance from GOCCP Forty six agencies from the Ocean City Police Department to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office will receive a total of $548,411 to help make the trip to school safer for Maryland's children. The agencies are receiving the funds through the Maryland School Bus Safety Enforcement Fund.

The Maryland State Police received the most funding, $160,000, while the Pocomoke City Police Department received the least amount, $2,000.

The overall goal of the program is to reduce the number of vehicles illegally passing school buses while those buses are loading and unloading children. The funds can be used for police overtime to enforce the school bus safety laws or driver education activities such as broadcast or print public service announcements. To make the most of the funds available, winning agencies are encouraged to form partnerships with other agencies and community groups.

MSDE coordinated the February survey with school transportation directors in all 24 Maryland school systems. It is considered a snapshot of illegal activity on the roads. More than 4,712 school bus drivers took part in the survey, representing 65 percent of the school bus drivers in the state, according to GOCCP

Clerks, mechanics, drivers, and other members of the American Postal Workers Union have agreed to wage freezes, higher health care costs, and other contract concessions.

The Postal Service is also asking lawmakers for permission to cut Saturday mail delivery, which it says could save another $3.1 billion per year. The Postal Regulatory Commission, an independent oversight agency, has estimated that the savings would be about half that much.

will consist of a wristband, souffle cup, spoon and five voting tickets for adults or three voting tickets for children.

After sampling the array of chilies, voters will be asked to drop a ticket in their favorite cooks' bowls. The cook with the most tickets at the end of the event will be declared the People's Choice winner.

A portion of the sampling-kit proceeds will go to support the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. According to a spokesperson, GLAF is not only the largest advocate of performing arts and arts education in Garrett County, but also serves the entire tri-state region.

"GLAF's primary purpose is to improve the quality and increase the scope of performing arts for local residents and visitors to Garrett County. GLAF considers high-quality performing arts to consist of nationally or regionally recognized professional artists in the fields of dance, music, and theater," jointly stated Judy Prather and Betty Ellington, GLAF fundraiser chairwomen.

"GLAF arts education is focused on enhancing the appreciation and understanding of the performing and visual arts for elementary through high school students.

"Wisp Resort has supported GLAF as one of our major sponsors for years and continues to offer us opportunities to grow our programming. GLAF's goals for the Deep Creek Chili Splash are to provide a fun family-friendly event, inform the general public of GLAF's mission and raise funds to continue and enhance our organization."

DJ Jonny Rock will be the master of ceremonies at the Chili Splash. Rock will direct numerous crowd contests, including the Hot Pepper Eating Contest and the Splash Contest. Local musicians the Lake Effect and Mountaintop Dixieland Jazz will perform at the event from noon to 3 p.m. and from 3 to 5 p.m., respectively. The groups are billed as family friendly.

Those interested in entering the chili cook-off contest may call 301-387-4000 for registration details.

It's Not Brain Surgery...

The American public is, in general, completely fed up with Congress and the administration, as the virtual collapse of our nation's credit and overall financial stability is evidently just around the corner. The rapidly growing level of panic among Americans is understandable, and the ire toward our elected officials grows in direct correlation with that level of angst.

While we scream "Do something!" at Congress and the president, it should be recognized that the problem we face today did not just sneak up on us. It has been growing for at least a couple of decades, and probably longer. It is certainly not the fault of just those currently in office.

While it may seem like an over simplification, the gist of this dilemma is that for far too long the federal government has been spending way more money than it takes in; spending money it literally does not have. Every single family in the country knows that this is a bad practice, one that can be orchestrated in the short term, but will spiral out of control if continued. A family that spends all of its income and then repeatedly borrows money that is spent and not paid back for years is a family that will end up in bankruptcy. It really is that simple.

Making matters even worse is that a certain percentage of the spending by the federal government is either a total waste (remember the $1,000 hammers purchased by the Department of Defense a number of years ago?), or it is squandered on various pet projects of specific lawmakers.

A family that spends beyond its means must either cut its spending, generate more income with, say, a second job, or do both. Therein lies the solution for the government, and therein lies the specific problem in Congress, as Democrats are typically more in favor of generating more income (via tax hikes) and Republicans generally prefer to cut spending (and thus sacrifice some desired programs). Each of those pills is hard to swallow for all of us, and particularly for politicians.

Fortunately, it seems that both sides of the aisle are conceding that some tax increases and significant spending cuts are going to be necessary in order to avoid a financial catastrophe.

This is not brain surgery or nuclear physics. Both sides are going to have to compromise, and they better do so quickly.

To the Editor:

To members of the Oakland Health & Racquet Club, it is with great regret that we found ourselves in a position where we had no choice but to close the facility. We sincerely apologize to all of our members, as we tried everything possible to prevent this from happening, but we were unsuccessful.

We hope that you will believe us when we say we are truly heartbroken at having to do this. There have been so many friendships that have developed over the years, and we are going to miss all of you. Again, we did not want for this to happen, and we hope that everyone will find a way to forgive us for closing the way we were forced to as we certainly did not want to end our service to you in this manner.

We have stopped all automatic payment processing, and are in the process of contacting all members who will be due refunds. Please address concerns or questions to us at delproperty@gmail com and we will respond as promptly as possible.

Thank you for the many years that you have shared your lives with us. We will miss you all.

Sincerely,
Stan and Connie

To the Editor:

"What you don't know can't hurt you." This familiar saying is sometimes true, but not always. Our governor's executive order to delay Marcellus shale drilling for at least three years while an appointed commission looks at scientific data and the risks as well as the benefits is welcome and timely. The potential for quick cash needs to be weighed against the potential for unsafe drinking water, devastation of our farms, invasion of rural legacy, and our vulnerability to energy giants whose power far outweighs that of most of us local residents.

In spite of testimonials and documentaries of drilling-related disasters in other communities, some of our elected officials continue to deny any harmful effects. The energy giants claim that drilling is safe. Some people decry the drilling delay as a partisan ploy or stance. Others maintain that everyone should have a right to do with his property what he wishes, regardless of the effect on others.

Several years ago, in a healthier economy, many landowners were ready to have drilling on their property. Fortunately, with time and with reports from landowners in other states, we began to realize that the energy industry had told us only part of the story. As the debate continues, some blame "liberals" for "stopping progress," thus side-stepping the imperative notion of stewardship of our environment. What shall we profit in great riches if we destroy our land? What good is money if we inject our land with toxins, or if we sacrifice natural resources in our beloved Garrett County? What good is money if energy giants are not held accountable when landowners or their neighbors suffer ill consequences of that drilling?

Scientific research is sorely needed and regulations specific to Marcellus shale drilling are paramount. This is not a partisan issue. This is an ethical responsibility. The governor has risen above the din of political gibberish and has appointed a commission to identify potential risks and safe drilling practices. These next three years will give us more information and will hold the energy industry more accountable.

Serving on the governor's commission is a serious responsibility requiring scientific inquiry and careful data collection. Let us support the committee and lay aside political agendas that sidetrack us from learning what is needed to ensure safe drilling. What we don't know can hurt us.

To the Editor:

I must object to the twisted history in Joan Sussman's last column. She seems to actually believe that "white Americans who had all the advantages in our founding years" built this country by "using the unpaid labor of people from Africa" as part of our "systematic racist society," and no more need be said about it.

Perhaps Joan does not know that the wagon trains taking settlers West carried with them few, if any, slaves; that slavery was always considered wrong by most Americans from the earliest days of settlement of this country; and that very few people actually owned slaves, and most of those were large landowners in the South.

She may have missed class the day they discussed the great waves of Dutch, Germans, English, Scots, Irish, Scandinavians, and other "whites" who emigrated to America in the 1600s, 1700s and 1800s, not to oppress others or to own slaves, but to escape oppression in their own countries, and for religious and economic freedom unheard of anywhere else in the world.

She must have forgotten that many of the original 13 colonies were specifically founded on the principle of religious and economic freedom, and always prohibited slavery. She evidently does remember that a great Civil War was fought in part to resolve the slavery issue. But of course even then her focus is only on the "oppression," and the basic evil that she seems to believe is at the heart of America, and especially of "whites."

Reverse racism is just as bad as any other kind.

To the Editor:

It seems that our prolific weekly contributor from Bittinger has no qualms about spreading untruths and painting anyone who doesn't agree with the direction our country is heading as a racist, white supremist. To depict everyone like this as wishing to return to the days of slavery and wishing to take away the rights of women to vote is sheer lunacy.

But, unfortunately, it is the favorite tactic of the left-wing mainstream media anytime they encounter a situation which does not fit into their template of a so-called progressive agenda. No God-fearing, pure-hearted person can look at today's open display and flaunting of lifestyles, which are an abomination in the eyes of God, and declare it to be progressive. It is the exact opposite. It is regressive.

But of course if you refuse to accept the Word of God as truth, and if you are determined to continue on in your hedonistic lifestyle, then you will dismiss this as meaningless drivel.

Now, back to the issue at hand. Is it really so hard to admit that when people say they want their country back, what they're really longing for is a return to the days of personal responsibility, instead of expecting the government to baby them from cradle to grave?

I believe the entitlement society that has been created by our government (and by design, I might add) is the single greatest detriment to the continued health and stability of our nation.

When the general populace learns and becomes conditioned to the fact that the government will bail them out of every little misfortune in life, many people learn how to milk that cow for all it's worth. My daughter-in-law can attest to this from the first-hand experience she gets in her job. That's why fraud and graft are rampant at all levels of bureaucracy.

It seems we refuse to learn as a nation, and more fundamentally as a people, that the headlong rush toward a socialist and increasingly hedonistic society will doom us to the same fate experienced by other nations gone before us.

God is on His throne, and He told us thousands of years ago exactly the kind of mess we would be in today, and here we are.

But the good news is as the sign in front of a local church recently proclaimed, "God Always Wins!"

A Summer's Journey With the Man-Children

Wow... It has been quite a while since I have written a column about family life. I didn't think much time had passed, but I last wrote on that topic about two years ago, and that column came after a hiatus of at least a year before that... So it has been a while. Nice to be back, I must say, even for just a sentence or seven.

I used to write fairly regularly about adventures in parenting, as my husband and I managed to produce three boys within four years, and our lives were turned upside down, sideways, and backward. These three offspring were oblivious to the columns in those days, nodding both politely and a little befuddled when someone out in the world complimented them on some feat I had mentioned, or asked them about some inside joke that I had, well... made less "inside." However, they are now 19 (Rob), 16 (Alex), and 15 (Michael), and behold and lo, they sometimes read the paper. So I must be careful about how I yammer on about them, and about our lives, because there are girlfriends involved these days, and lifelong guy friends who love to rib the heck out of each other. So I'll be careful, boys. Kinda.

One of my favorite inspirations has always been our family vacations. We have been fortunate enough, or perhaps foolhardy enough, to take a little trip nearly every summer, with all five of us squashed into a hotel room somewhere exciting, after having long sweaty journeys with a few unintended diversions (i.e., getting lost). This year we went to our nation's capital (the hottest place on the planet, I might add) and then on to North Carolina's Outer Banks. All of this in a span of six days. Not your most leisurely of vacations...

Back in the dark ages, I used to figure out our route by studying the road atlas. I was the Navigator. Nowadays, however, because of technology, and because I can't see the stinking atlas nearly as well, the drive isn't totally up to me. We have Jane, our British GPS. She tells us "in 500 yards, go right, then, go straight on" in a voice like Dame Judy Dench. Jane is awesome. When she's right, that is. Once in a while, Jane gets confused. And then we have the urge to pitch her out the window, "straight on to the motorway," to used her clipped British vernacular. And of course, when we veer off for a gasoline or Skittles break, she goes bananas. Well, bananas for British Jane. "At the first opportunity, make a U-turn," she says. "Go right. Go right," she insists. And the boys say, "Chillax, Jane." She becomes the sixth person in the car, minus the teenage boy behaviors about which I won't elaborate since I already promised.

In the olden days, back when the boys were still buckled into booster seats and a double check had to be made to make sure they were all wearing shoes (got to Sidling Hill once to realize 3-year-old Alex was not), the main arguments were who had to sit in the very back of the van, and

SHA Warns Drivers Of Excessive Heat, Offers Safety Tips

Tomorrow, forecasters are predicting heat indices reaching near 100 degrees. The State Highway Administration (SHA) is alerting motorists to take precautions and perform routine checks on their vehicles to ensure vital systems have no visible damage and all fluids are at appropriate levels.

In excessive heat, a small problem with a hose or belt can become a major issue-particularly if there is congestion on the roadway. During excessive heat days, SHA crews on the road are extra vigilant to spot stranded motorists and assist in any way possible.

Valuable fluids

• Motor Oil – Follow manufacturers' recommendations on the weight of the oil, as well as that the existing oil is filled to the appropriate level and is clean.

• Antifreeze – Ensure that the cooling reservoirs in all vehicles are at appropriate levels.

• Windshield Wiper Fluid – Keep the windshield wiper fluid levels topped to help with visibility on the roads.

SHA recommends that motorists park in shady areas if possible or use windshield sun blockers to keep temperatures low inside vehicles. Do not ever leave children or pets alone in a vehicle.

Upon entering a vehicle, open the door and windows to allow trapped heat to escape. Once in the vehicle it is important to keep in mind that vehicle air conditioning systems take time to begin cooling.

It is equally important for motorists and their passengers to drink plenty of water during moderate to long trips to avoid becoming dehydrated.

Ridesharing or Mass Transit Use

When the National Weather Service issues excessive heat warnings, drivers should consider ridesharing to reduce the amount of vehicle emissions which lead to bad air quality

Ridesharing also helps reduce fuel consumption and congestion. Motorists are also urged to fuel vehicles after the hottest part of the day, preferably in the evening hours.

Using public transportation is also an important tool to reduce vehicle emissions and stay cool.

Citizens interested in mass transportation are urged to log onto www.mta.maryland.gov or the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority at www.wmata.com.

SHA is keeping a watchful eye on its crews and suggests that pedestrians and cyclists keep some of these tips in mind:

Safety Tips for Workers

• Stay hydrated – drink plenty of water, approximately one cup every 15-20 minutes.

• Eat regular light meals and avoid heavy large meals during hot weather

• Wear tinted safety glasses to reduce eye strain and headaches.

• Use sun protection (30 SPF or greater) and apply it once every two hours.

• Learn to recognize the signs and symptoms of heat-induced illnesses.

• Train staff about heat-related illnesses.

• Perform heaviest work during the coolest part of the day

• Use the buddy system by working in pairs.

• Wear light, loose-fitting clothing.

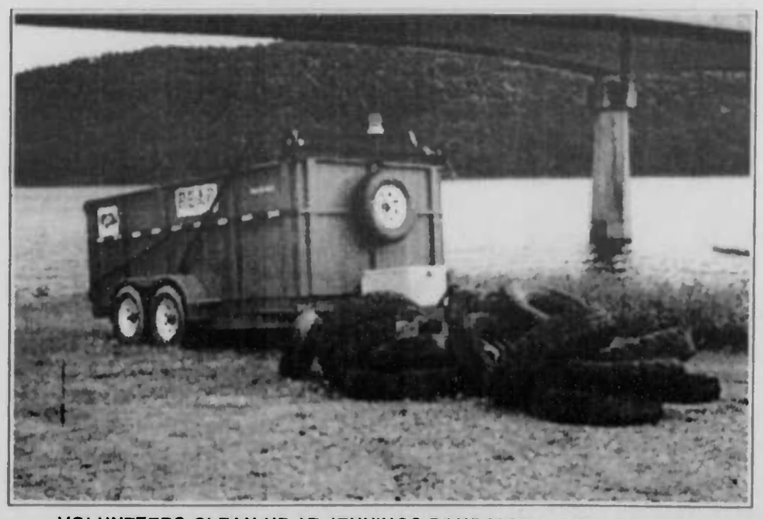
• Take frequent breaks in cool, shaded areas to allow body temperature to cool down.

• Avoid beverages that contain caffeine. These beverages often contain high amounts of sugar that may lead to dehydration.

• Replace lost potassium by consuming potassium-rich foods such as orange or grapefruit juice, bananas, apricots, cantaloupe, honeydew melons, and raisins.

Taking a few extra minutes to make sure vehicles are in proper working order can go a long way and reduce the chances for a mechanical breakdown on the highway

For the latest information on road conditions and to plan routes accordingly to avoid congestion, log onto www.roads.maryland.gov and click the CHART icon. CHART offers live traffic conditions and access to live traffic cameras. Citizens can also follow SHA on Twitter @MDSHA.



VOLUNTEERS CLEAN UP AT JENNINGS RANDOLPH LAKE – About 58 people joined together late last month for a clean-up day at Jennings Randolph Lake, a body of water that lies partly in Garrett County and partly in West Virginia. The Trinity Lutheran Church (of Keyser, W.Va.) youth group sponsored the effort, and accounted for almost half the volunteers. Others taking part included members of the Fort Ashby Cub Scouts and the Friends of Jennings Randolph Lake organization, about a third of whom are Garrett Countians. The workers filled a 20'x12'x6' dumpster (1,440 cubic feet) with trash gathered along the shoreline, and collected 19 tires. The West Virginia Environmental Protection Agency provided gloves, trash bags, and the dumpster for the event, and the Army Corps of Engineers' pontoon boat was used to drop off small groups of volunteers at various points around the lake. The boat returned later to pick up the workers as well as the trash they had collected. Several volunteers also used their own boats to gather trash, a spokesperson noted. The 58 volunteers put in about four hours each on the project, for a total of 232 volunteer hours. "Their dedication and perseverance made the project a great success," the spokesperson said. After the clean-up, the volunteers met at a campground shelter for a cook-out.

NEARLY FOUR DOZEN people attended the 35th annual Bolyard reunion the weekend of July 16-17 in Berkeley Springs, W.Va., and at Cacapon State Park. Those who attended are the descendants (and families) of Raymond C. and Alta (Teets) Bolyard, who were residents of Aurora. Attendees represented four generations and traveled from nine states: West Virginia, Ohio, Florida, Vermont, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Minnesota, and Georgia. The oldest and youngest present, pictured above, were 91-year-old Keith R. Bolyard Sr. of Lima, Ohio, and his great-grandson Carter Mattox Bolyard (5 weeks) of Findlay, Ohio.

and the protection offered to the existing natural habitat," said Chad Fike, agricultural preservation administrator for Garrett County

The Bear Creek Rural Legacy Area encompasses approximately 31,437 acres, 18 percent of which are now protected.

Maryland's Rural Legacy Program provides funding to preserve large tracts of forestry and agricultural land and natural resources, and for environmental protection, while sustaining land for natural resource-based industries. Enacted by the General Assembly in 1997, the program has to date provided over $267 million to protect 72,384 acres of farmland, forests, and natural areas

The 11-member Rural Legacy Advisory Committee and the Rural Legacy Board, which comprises Maryland's Agriculture, Natural Resources, and Planning secretaries, reviews grant applications annually. For additional information, persons are invited to go online to http://www.dnr.maryland.gov/land/rurallegacy/.

The three member Board of Public Works is composed of Governor O'Malley (chair), state treasurer Nancy Kopp, and state comptroller Peter Franchot. The BPW is authorized by the General Assembly to approve major construction and consultation contracts, equipment purchases, property transactions, and other procurement transactions.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

That is probably a kind of climate change/global warming now that we are feeling extremely unnaturally hot temperatures. But some believe in brushing off unpleasant facts that do not fit neatly in their limited viewpoints. Oftentimes, they are even from learned scientists.

Consider the widespread use of all kinds of pesticides to control all kinds of natural nuisances, like weeds, insects, and pests, based on the unwise belief that if a big trusted corporation sells it, it must be safe, which is pure nonsense. But the widespread use of common pesticides like DDT during the 1950s might have caused thousands of death from cancer.

A rare combination of both poet and scientist in one person, Rachel Carson, was the author of the truly great book titled Silent Spring, a book so compelling that it was one of the major causes of the environmental movement in the 1960s, and led to the first Earth Day in 1970.

When I got the assignment to develop a course for GCC students in the natural resources program, they said that it should present the essentials and tell the history of humankind's relationship with the environment in a three-credit form, which is a very difficult task. But I was fairly prepared to do it, because of numerous books I read about many subjects. I was always quite interested in ancient history, and even pre-history. So I gave the students an outline about early human life on Earth from the science point of view, as well as looking at what the Bible says about humankind's relationship with Earth and other views on it.

I thought about two outstanding rock music songs. "Crown of Creation" by Jefferson Airplane pretty much summed up the Bible's perspective, and another one was "Dust in the Wind," by Kansas. Each gave a different viewpoint of humans, and an excellent starting point for discussion about human beings' position in the overall world. (Discussions are the heart and soul of courses.)

Besides what the Garden of Eden story says about mankind's place in the world, all the rest of creation was created for human dominion. But God also told Adam that he must care for creation – or "husband" it. That second aspect seems unnoticed by most people.

Killing union organizers is much harder to get away with in the USA, but our nation has plenty of that in our past. It happened in the coal country in the Appalachian Mountains in West Virginia and Kentucky, and during the 19th century, even in Pittsburgh.

Even during my childhood, I remember a leader of the Teamsters Union was murdered in our region. Strange to say, his body was found at a horse farm near Washington, Pa., where I once competed in a high-level horse trial and rode two horses among the top three finishers. It was an extremely difficult cross-country course.

As I went to start it, I heard the announcer say that number 53 had fallen at fence #7, which was a difficult obstacle. It had a very steep hill that qualified as a slide, where a horse needed to extend its front legs straight out. Then its hind legs had to slide down. Halfway down, they put a fence that was maybe two feet, six inches. That is a very small fence on flat ground, but on a steep down slope it is a very difficult matter.

I think half a dozen competitors fell at that fence. And those were experienced competitors, not beginners. I am not surprised that Joey took it in his stride, but my mount was a retired race horse, and he was very inexperienced. But since I went over it with Joey, I knew how it had to be done. I only decided to enter him because that trial involved the highest prize money I was ever able to compete for. It was $300 for first place, $200 for second, and $100 for third. That was big money to me at 18 years old.

Last weekend, something pretty strange happened when some kind of Republican leadership had a meetmg up in Farmington, Pa., at Nemocolin Lodge Resort. My daughter went there again to see my nephew's band Lake Effect. It was simply a coincidence that they played there, but Speaker of the House John Boehner was front and center in the audience.

You can deny as much as you want that this widespread heat wave over most of America is exactly what the experts warned us about climate change and global warming. Our oceans are equally heating up at an alarming rate, which is shown by the abnormal number of sharks in northern shoreline waters. And floating off the shore from New York City is a big chunk of ice from Greenland as big as Manhattan Island. If you think all this means that we will have easier winters, you are dead wrong. The amount of water evaporating from the ocean will wait in the upper atmosphere, then fall in massive snow falls.

But our suffering is very minor compared to what people are experiencing in Africa. Their heat wave and draught have caused a full-blown, widespread famine. And it is very bad for the little ones there because they don't have either food or water.

Christ said, "Whatever you do to the least ones, you also do to me." All of our problems are worldwide problems, and America can't solve everything on its own.

In my good old days, I was working and controlling my spending. Now that control has been passed on to my brother Barry. He is pretty much in total synch with cut, cap and balancing, and never spending above your income. That is sensible, perhaps, but sometimes something comes up that needs an instant response. It is always hard times for me in the last 10 days of each month. And now I don't know whether I can expect the largest part of my income, my Social Security disability check, to come August 3.

Anyway, prior to 1994 when my life turned upside down, I sponsored a little girl through Christian Children's Fund. She was from Ethiopia, and I remember the terrible pictures of children when the horrible famine hit the horn of Africa. I was happier when I got a photo of her after I sent an extra $10 for a Christmas present, and she chose to buy her first pair of shoes.

It is beyond worth the effort to read it. It allows you to see what courage really means. Please share your copy with your friends, because it is one of the the most important books anyone can read. And please pray for Morris Dees and his family and co-workers, because they have become the prime targets of hate groups.

Rev. Dr. Ralph Dunkin, bishop of the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod, was the worship leader in all three churches of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish on Sunday. In the afternoon, Bishop Dunkin presided over the installation of Rev. Regina Beard as pastor of the Red House/Aurora Parish.

The annual Bittinger Parish picnic will be held at the 4-H Center at 10 a.m. this Sunday, July 31. Everyone is welcome to attend the worship service and stay for the picnic and fellowship.

At least partly because of my support, she did not look like many others in those horrible famine photographs. She looked quite similar to my own little girls, with some flesh on her bones and a radiating smile. That made me happy. Now she is probably a young mother with children of her own, and perhaps she can't provide them with food or water. That makes me cry. I'm sure she believes that I will send help to her. But it is not in my budget. I am sorry.

It's nice to see our president at a town meeting at the University of Maryland. Some simply don't think government can play a positive role in Americans' lives. That is against their ideology, even if it has been proven false many times in the past. Three million dollars would pay the salary of thousands of local, county, and state public workers. They are teachers, police, firemen, social workers, and others.

Those who believe public workers are only mindless paper pushers are very wrong. I can easily think of several dozen in the Bittinger area who work in government jobs, like public health nurses, prison guards, director of emergency services, many teachers and teachers' assistants, forest rangers, highway workers, and college professors. Life in Garrett County wouldn't be good without them.

It is horrible to hear that Walter Reed Hospital, our leading military hospital, is closing down because there is no money to keep it open. It is the place that confirmed what caused yellow fever, which killed hundreds during the building of the Panama Canal.

I need a glimmer of hope that it is possible in America for different religions and ethnic backgrounds to work together in peace. Members of the Lutheran church came together with other Christians, Jews, and Muslims to serve the needy in Hernando County by making a hot meal on Sunday for about 100 people. They also provided assistance.

One member of the board of directors said, "In the midst of our differences, we became family, learning that people should lose themselves in service to others over and over again." That is so far different from the enormous hate that so often motivates.

While Governor Rick Perry is telling everyone to pray for America, I guess for financial stability, it seems more important for God to please quiet the massive hate that now pursues our nation. Sometimes that hate comes from churches. How very sad. That is very far from what God wants for his children.

At last the terrible heat seems to have let up. It was almost unbearable. It now feels almost like normal summer weather. We also got some occasional rainfall, enough to keep our grass green, unlike downstate, as I heard from my brother Barry.

If the idea of social justice arises some powerful emotions, you must read one of the most inspirational books I have ever read, A Lawyer's Journey by Morris Dees, founder of the Southern Poverty Law Center which provides free legal help to victims of hate crimes. All you need to do to get a copy is send at least $20 to Southern Poverty Law Center, 400 Washington Ave., Montgomery, AL 36104.

Alpine Program To Offer Variety Of Entertainment

TOM NEVIN

Several community programs will be offered through the Alpine Learning Program over the next few weeks. The first is a photography presentation on Tuesday, Aug. 2, at 7:30 p.m.

Tom Nevin, an award-winning photographer, will be speaking on photography design and composition. He will explain how to set up a photo environment and compose a picture, as well as how to use these techniques to one's best advantage when taking photos. He will use a slideshow to give examples of these techniques using some of his own photos.

Nevin has successfully developed his expertise in photographic techniques for use in scientific photography, photo development, and photo printing. He supervised the Howard University Scientific Photo Laboratory for eight years, was a member of the National Institutes of Health Photo Club, and has taken photographs in over 65 countries. He has also won over 50 local and international competitions, and has had photographs published in Photographic Forum Magazine, Islands Magazine, Gourmet Magazine, and National Geographic Traveler Magazine. His artistic web site is www.tommynevin.com.

Cello Fury will give a musical performance on Saturday, Aug. 6, at 7:30 p.m. Cello Fury is a group of three young cellists who play a fusion of classical and rock music, which is gaining national attention. Cellists Simon Cummings, Ben Nunoz, and Nicole Myers will present a live performance with discussion of their style and instruments.

There will be a $10 fee for this special event, which is not covered by the season pass. Tickets must be purchased in advance at the front desk of the Alpine Lake Lodge, or tickets can be held by sending a check made out to Alpine Learning Program with one's name and phone number to Alpine Learning Program, 2369 W. Alpine Drive, Terra Alta, WV 26764.

Dr. Lisa Weihman will present "A War of Her Own: Irish Women Warriors of the Easter Rising" on Tuesday, Aug. 9, at 7:30 p.m. She will discuss women's participation in the 1916 Easter Rising, the failed "poet's revolution" that led to Irish independence from British rule. During the Easter Rising, over 200 women fought beside men in the weeklong struggle. One woman, Constance Gore-Booth Markievicz, later became the first woman elected to the British Parliament.

To see the full listing of programs for August through October with descriptions, persons should go to www.alpinelake.com and look for the Alpine Learning Program link on the home page in the scrolling news box.

The ALP programs are primarily scheduled for Tuesday evenings from July to October and are open to the public for a $3 fee per program, which is payable at the door. Workshops with limited enrollment listed in the schedule on the web site are only opened up to the public the last week before the event based on space available.

Most programs are held in the Rhododendron Room at Alpine Lake Lodge, 700 W. Alpine Drive, Terra Alta, off Rt. 7 just east of Terra Alta and 20 minutes west of Oakland, Md. For more information, persons may call 304-789-5927 or 304-789-6022.

TERRA ALTA

LIBRARY

The Summer Reading Program, in which several children were involved, has come to an end. A recognition day will be held on Friday, Aug. 5, for those who participated.

Terra Alta CEOS has been at the library over the summer on the first and third Wednesdays of each month with a story and a craft. Nancy Hoffman, Margie Dixon, Una Kisamore, Sandy LaRue, and Betty Smith have taken turns leading the project.

One Summer by David Baldacci has been given by Pat Auvil in memory of Karen Spiker. My Name is Mary Sutter by Robin Oliveira, and 1,001 Hunting Tips by Lamar Underwood was given by Tom, Brenda, and Travis Teets in memory of John Ferris.

Others donating puzzles, books, VCR tapes, and other materials have been Peggy Everly, Anika Lantz, Rose Dougherty, Paula Shrout, Tammy Bolyard, Jane Arnold, Nan Peters, Helen Brandon, Doug and Pat Auvil, Diana Galliday, Patty Pennington, Elizabeth Sypolt, Nancy Glass, Hildegard May, and Cecilia Bland.

An unfinished quilt was donated by Loretta Wotring. Several quilters added their stitches, and Winnie Wilhelm finished the border. This is now on display at the library with raffle tickets. The drawing will be held on Friday, Aug. 5.

Ira visited the library and enjoyed being read to by several children. Ira is a therapeutic Rottweiler who visits nursing homes, hospitals, and libraries. He brought his friend Bullet, a Chinese crested, with him. Bill and Betsy Harper, Oakland, are the owners of both animals. The Harpers presented all in attendance with a laminated book marker stating that Ira and Bullet had been to the Terra Alta Library. A variety of books were chosen by the children to entertain their guests.

WVU Project To Examine Use Of Biochar In Mine Site Reclamation

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. – These days, the riddle isn't "Why did the chicken cross the road?" Instead, it's "What do we do with the waste they leave behind?"

A team of West Virginia University researchers and poultry producers might have the answer.

Josh Frye, a poultry farmer in Wardensville, W.Va., has been using chicken manure as fuel to heat his poultry houses. The byproduct of that process, called biochar, has proven to be a highly prized fertilizer that also helps return carbon to the soil instead of releasing it into the atmosphere.

WVU's Environmental Research Center, in partnership with Frye and the International Biochar Initiative, has received a grant from the Blue Moon Fund to see if biochar has another potential benefit: restoring soils at sites disturbed by coal extraction.

The ultimate goal, according to project manager Walter Veselka, is "to help facilitate a poultry-based biochar market that can be used to restore and remediate abandoned mined land soils, while concurrently reducing nutrient inputs into to application, creating meaningful tangible results associated with a name and a face.

"This has the potential to make positive economic changes in the daily lives of many West Virginians, while improving ecological stewardship for all," Veselka said.

The project will begin in the laboratory, with Louis McDonald, a professor of environmental soil chemistry and soil fertility in WVU's Davis College of Agriculture, Natural Resources and Design, establishing a scientific baseline on biochar's potential impacts on soils. This will be followed by determination of just how much carbon biochar can lock in the soil instead of releasing it in the form of greenhouse gases.

Then field tests on plots of abandoned mine land will begin, led by Jeff Skousen, a professor of soil science in the Davis College and the WVU Extension Service's land reclamation and acid mine drainage specialist.

Nutritionally revitalized mined lands could become future economic opportunities in the form of biofuels such as switchgrass, and could help alleviate the reclamation liability of these former mined lands. Doing so even on a limited scale will create a stable and consistent demand for poultry biochar by industry.

The goal of WVU's Environmental Research Center, which was established in 2009, is to provide a center of excellence that effectively informs policy and promotes economic development focused on a sustainable and productive natural environment.

According to a spokesperson, the Blue Moon Fund works to build human and natural resilience to a changing and warming world. The fund uses natural, social, and financial capital to implement new models in high-biodiversity regions around the world. It is currently focused the Chesapeake Bay."

Poultry is one of West Virginia's top agricultural commodities, and the industry has struggled to come to terms with the impact of waste on the bay's water quality. WVU researchers have spent decades developing means of mitigating the impact of coal extraction on soils and landscapes.

"We view this as an opportunity to create positive, environmental, synergies between two of West Virginia's most environmentally maligned industries – poultry farming and coal extraction," said Veselka, a wildlife biologist at the Environmental Research Center.

"This has a real possibility of improving environmental conditions on multiple fronts, not only in the bay watershed by reducing nutrient inputs, but also by increasing the rate of reforestation and environmental regeneration on abandoned minelands, as well as the value provided by the carbon sequestered in the ground as a biochar amendment rather than lost to the atmosphere as a greenhouse gas," he added.

Frye initially obtained the gasification system to heat his poultry houses as part of a Natural Resources Conservation Service grant in 2006 to Coaltec Energy USA Inc. On the advice of Tom Basden, WVU Extension Service nutrient management specialist, Frye explored modifying the technology to produce nutrient-rich biochar instead of just ash. Frye has been supplementing his poultry production income with fertilizer sales. He's also generated a great deal of interest in replicating his system, and he has been profiled by media outlets, including USA Today.

By working with Frye, a local West Virginia farmer, the ERC is not simply completing an academic exercise, but will be able to see the entire supply chain, from biochar creation on mission-impact investing opportunities as they relate to climate change and the carbon economy

Deadline Noted For Local FSA Co. Committee

Area farmers, ranchers, and landowners are reminded to nominate farmer and rancher candidates to serve on their local Farm Service Agency (FSA) county committee by the Aug. 1 deadline.

Elected county committee members serve a three-year term and are responsible for making decisions on FSA disaster, conservation, commodity, and price support programs, as well as other important federal farm program issues.

"County committee members are a valuable asset because they are local producers who participate in FSA programs themselves and have a direct connection to farmers and ranchers in the community," said Michael R. Kozier, Garrett County USDA FSA executive director. "I would like to see a high level of participation in this year's nomination and election process."

Producers may nominate themselves or others as candidates. Organizations that represent minority and women farmers and ranchers may also nominate candidates.

Nominees must participate in a program administered by FSA, be eligible to vote in a county committee election, and reside in the local administrative area (LAA) in which the person is a candidate.

To become a nominee, eligible individuals must sign form FSA-669A. The form, along with more information about county committee elections, is available online at www.fsa.usda.gov/elections.

"It is important that the county committee reflects the demographics and agricultural interests of the community these individuals represent," Kozier said. "I strongly encourage all producers, including women, minority, and beginning farmers and ranchers, to participate in the nomination and election process."

County committees comprise three to five members elected by local producers. All newly elected county committee members and alternates will take office on Jan. 2, 2012.

Nomination forms must be postmarked or received in the local USDA Service Center by close of business on Aug. 1.

For more information about county committees, persons may contact the Garrett County FSA office at 301-334-6954 or visit www.fsa.usda.gov

Grain Farmers Urged To Cast Ballot Friday

Maryland grain farmers are encouraged to make their vote count in the Maryland Grain Checkoff Program referendum this Friday, July 29. This 20-year-old program administered by the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board (MGPUB) is designed to fund market development, research, and education projects focused on improving local farm profitability.

"The checkoff program is a way we can help ourselves like no one else can," said Marion Wilson, grain farmer from Queen Anne's County and MGPUB president. "The MGPUB has been working to improve growing conditions, conduct research, and provide sound science answers to environmental issues, and expand the uses of grain. New product development helps stabilize the grain market and increase demand, so the profitability of Maryland grain farmers improves."

Under state law, checkoff programs are required to conduct a referendum every five years to reaffirm support. If passed by a majority of those voting who are eligible to vote, the Maryland Grain Checkoff Program will continue for an additional five years from October 1, 2011. An assessment of one-half of one percent (0.5%) is collected on the net value of each bushel of grain sold. The checkoff is deducted at the first point of sale on all grain, with the exception of soybeans, which is under a national checkoff program.

"I encourage farmers to vote yes for the Maryland Grain Checkoff Program," says Steve Ernst, Washington County farmer and Maryland Grain Producers Association past president. "It's the only program that addresses our local issues with immediate action for real results, and it is local farmers making those decisions. Individuals who are not interested in supporting the checkoff can receive a full or partial refund from the MGPUB. Let your voice count in supporting our Maryland grain industry to see it prosper and grow."

To be eligible to vote in the referendum, a person must be financially engaged in the growing of grain as a landowner, tenant, or sharecropper. The referendum will be held from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. this Friday, July 29, at county Extension offices. Absentee ballots are available from the MGPUB office by e-mail (lynnehoot@aol.com) or telephone (410-956-5771).

Horse Industry Grants Available; Deadline Noted

The Maryland Horse Industry Board (MHIB) will be accepting grant applications for non-profit research, educational, and promotional equine activities, beginning August 1. The board intends to award more than $20,000 in grants that support or develop new opportunities for Maryland's horse industry. Applications must be received by September 30.

"The horse industry is a critical component of Maryland's economy. There are more than 79,000 horses in Maryland, and more than 28,000 citizens are employed in the equine industry," said Agriculture Secretary Buddy Hance. "The Maryland Horse Industry Board works very hard to stimulate growth and opportunity in Maryland's equestrian community. This grant program is one way it helps spur needed innovation and encourage those most committed to the industry."

Funding for the MHIB and its grants come from the Maryland Feed Fund, which collects $6 on every ton of horse feed sold in Maryland. It is an effective model, Hance said, for how industry groups can help themselves, without relying on taxpayer dollars. Since the fund was established in 2002, MHIB has awarded nearly $200,000 in grants to more than 175 projects throughout Maryland.

Organizations eligible for MHIB grants include non-profit organizations, clubs and associations, businesses, farms and stables, government entities, schools and educational institutions. Projects will be evaluated for their value to the industry, degree of industry promotion, size and scope of activity, financial need, potential for matching funds, and the benefits and quality of the written presentation. The board recommends that grant requests not exceed $10,000. The largest grant awarded to date was $8,000; the average grant amount is about $1,200.

Grant recipients will be announced on or before Dec. 1, 2011. Funding will be available after January 1, 2012. Projects must be completed by June 30, 2012. An application and more complete grant guidelines can be found online at www.mda.state.md.us/horseboard/grants.html.

The Maryland Horse Industry Board was established in 1998 to promote and develop the equine industry in Maryland. For more information about MHIB or the Feed Fund, persons are invited to visit www.mda.state.md.us/horseboard online, call Ross Peddicord, executive director, at 410-841-5798, or send him an e-mail at peddicrd@mda.state.md.us.

Farm Service Agency Reports

USDA ANNOUNCES LAST CALL TO FILE AGI FORMS WITH IRS

Preston County USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) executive director Eric McCartney reminds producers that they must submit an Adjusted Gross Income (AGI) verification consent form (CCC-927 or CCC-928) to the IRS as soon as possible in order to maintain eligibility for 2009 and 2010 program benefits.

The consent form authorizes IRS to verify for FSA whether or not a payment recipient's AGI meets the eligibility requirements for FSA programs. The form became a requirement for payment eligibility beginning with the 2009 crop year; however, many program participants have not yet submitted this form for 2009 and 2010 program benefits.

"Producers who fail to file these forms before Sept. 2011 will receive a notice from the national office stating that the producer is ineligible for 2009 and/or 2010 payments," said McCartney. "The producer will be responsible for fully refunding all payments received under programs subject to AGI limitations."

IRS requires written consent from all individuals or legal entities before verification of the average AGI can be provided to USDA. Individuals must submit form CCC-927 and legal entities must submit form CCC-928.

McCartney further clarifies that these consent forms are required for payments received from the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), as well as those received through FSA. Completed forms must be returned to the IRS.

For more information on AGI eligibility requirements or the AGI verification process, persons are invited to visit the Preston County FSA office, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, or telephone 304-329-1923.

Our Town Theatre Launches New, Improved Web Site

Our Town Theatre, Oakland's community theatre for 14 years, has announced the launch of a new and improved web site, located at www.ourtowntheatre.org. The new web site is easy to navigate, a spokesperson said, and contains new interactive features.

Theater-goers and OTT members can use the site to view current showings and events, see pictures of past events, learn about opportunities for volunteering, and make reservations. The leadership of the theatre plans to begin publishing an "e-newsletter" in the fall, which will be a vehicle for announcing auditions and details about upcoming performances, among other information. There is also a special section for children's programs, the spokesperson said.

"The beauty of the new site is that we put it up ourselves and we can easily and regularly update it. Because it was hard to use, our old site tended to be neglected," the spokesperson said.

Featured on the site now is information about the New York-based Improv comedy group, Face Off Unlimited (www.faceoffunlimited.com), which is bringing its show Whole 'Nother Level to the theatre on Aug. 26. The group consists of Joe Tex, Jay Painter, and Garrett Countian Alexander L. Hill, son of Richard and Melodee Hill of Oakland.

More details may be found at the web site, and more information will be published as this event nears.

Harmonious Blacksmith To Be Next MPA Show

Music at Penn Alps will present Harmonious Blacksmith on Saturday, July 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps, Grantsville.

Harmonious Blacksmith will present an eclectic blend of baroque and Renaissance music, a spokesperson said. The name of the group is derived from Handel's harpsichord variations, and also alludes to the discovery of acoustics by Pythagoras, who, observing a blacksmith at the forge, noticed the difference between pitches of small and large hammers against the anvil.

Justin Godoy, recorder player and composer, performs regularly with leading period ensembles, including the Boston Early Music Festival Orchestra, Hesperus, Tempesta di Mare, La Donna Musicale, and Ignoti dei Opera. As a winner of the Frank Huntington Beebe Grant, Godoy spent two years performing, teaching, and studying in Holland. While there, he immersed himself in the study of Italian diminutions, eventually teaching the topic at the Utrecht Conservatory. He studied recorder with Heiko ter Schegget, Saskia Coolen, and Gwyn Roberts, and composition with Nicholas Maw.

Conductor and harpsichordist Joseph Gascho has a varied career as a baroque keyboardist, performing as a soloist and collaborative artist; conducting opera, orchestra and choir; editing and arranging scores, and teaching and lecturing. He has won numerous grants and prizes, including first prize in the 2002 Jurow International Harpsichord Competition, and this year, the Pomeroy Prize from the University of Maryland. Recent performing highlights include a world premiere recording of a newly discovered aria by J.S. Bach for National Public Radio, a production of Purcell's Dido and Aeneas in Aix-en-Provence, France, conducting Vivaldi's Gloria at the Magnolia Baroque Festival, and performing his own transcriptions of works by Bach and Charpentier. He teaches at George Washington University and the University of Maryland.

William Simms, lute, theorbo, and guitar, holds degrees from Peabody Conservatory (master of music) and College of Wooster (bachelor of music). He performs on guitar, baroque guitar, lute and theorbo. He appears regularly with Opera Lafayette, Modern Musick, and Olde Friends Concert Artists. He is also a founding member of the baroque ensemble La Rocinante. In demand as a continuo player, he has performed numerous operas and oratorios, including performances with the Cleveland Opera and New York State Baroque. Simms serves on the faculties of Mt. St. Mary's College; Hood College, where he is founder and director of the Hood College Early Music Ensemble; and the Interlochen Center for the Arts. He has recorded for the Dorian, Centaur, and Electra labels.

The concert will include music from Spain and Italy, works by Antonio Vivaldi, Domenico Scarlatti, and the great Spanish guitar virtuoso, Santiago de Murcia, among others.

Ticket prices are $12 for adults. Students and children under 19 years of age are admitted free of charge. As seating is limited, it is recommended that guests arrive no later than 7:20 p.m.

Music at Penn Alps is supported in part by grants from the Naylor Family Trust, administered by the Community Trust Foundation of Western Maryland. This Saturday's performance by Harmonious Blacksmith is being sponsored by Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty.

BANDS TO PERFORM DURING FRIENDSVILLE DAYS – Musical entertainment will be featured during the 31st annual Friendsville Days. The Crazy Cowboy Band (above) from Pennsylvania will perform on Friday, Aug. 5, beginning at 7 p.m. at Friendsville Community Park, and Lonesome Highway, a bluegrass band from West Virginia, will be on the park stage on Saturday, Aug. 6, from 3 to 5 p.m. And back by popular demand to Friendsville Days, Girlz in Black Hats (below) from Pittsburgh, Pa., will perform at 7 p.m. on Saturday evening. The Girlz play a mix of contemporary and classic country, with a little old-fashioned rock 'n' roll. "They have a built-in charm that audiences quickly draw to, and no matter wha' the age of the listener, young to old, they connect instantly," said one reviewer. "From the upbeat fiddle classic of 'The Devil Went Down to Georgia' to the charm of 'Unchained Melody' – and all points in between – the Girlz in Black Hats band is a real crowd pleaser."

I also told her that the play would have to have elements of fiction in it to help shape the story. She agreed, and in October of 2006, we began."

Rhonda Jenkins, Mabel's freshman English teacher, had her students keep journals, and Mabel had kept her ninth grade year of writings.

"Those were invaluable to me as a playwright," said Broderick.

It took until March of 2007 to complete the interview process. The opening scenes of the play had begun taking shape during the long winter.

"I remember reading sections to her as I completed them, and many times I would look up from the script and she would be in tears," Broderick said. "She couldn't understand why I wanted to do this – to write about her – and I told her that writing drama was the best way I knew to tell people how much her life had made a difference in mine."

As the process continued, Broderick realized some things could be said effectively only through music, and so she asked her daughter Leah, a 2004 graduate of the Shenandoah Conservatory of Music, to compose the melodies for her lyrics.

The two worked feverishly for nearly eight months. In the middle of that year, the second season for TOTL came and went, but not without enlisting the company's help in singing the newly composed songs.

"That was quite an afternoon, and it fueled our resolve to have a staging of the musical in 2008," Broderick said.

In April of 2008, the play opened at Preston High School with 45 student actors. Many friends and colleagues of both Brodericks saw that production and offered advice to them that Lynn describes as "invaluable."

In the three years since that first production, Lynn and Leah have restructured nearly the entire first act, adding three new scenes and songs.

"Act I traces the time prior to 2003 when Mabel was growing up," said Lynn. "We focused on the people and events that strengthened and inspired her. Her Pap was on the top of the list, and often accompanied her to chemo treatments in Morgantown. Her coaches, teachers, and close friends are all depicted in the scenes in Act I.

"Act II begins with her ninth grade year, her diagnosis, and subsequent treatment. Again, the people Mabel met

by Lorene Cary

C. 2011, Atria, $24; 306 Pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

You never got Grandma's recipe book. You didn't get Grandpa's favorite pocketknife either, and that little knick-knack you loved – a china reminder of childhood – went to a cousin who cherished it too.

But that's okay. While you never inherited tangible things from your grandparents – no favored bowl or lucky coin – they left you better legacies: strength, knowledge, and a sense of who you are.

For 50 years, Selma Needham kept a farm for her great-grandson Rayne. She knew he would care for it, just as his great-grandad had. But in the new novel If Sons, Then Heirs by Lorene Cary, the passing-down may never come to pass.

Jewell Thompson was sorry for a lot of things in her life. Most of all, she was sorry that, all those years ago, she'd put her 7-year-old son on a train by himself and sent him to North Carolina for her folks to raise.

Jewell was a bad mother then. She wished she could make it up to her boy, now a man.

Alonzo Freeman Rayne never had a bad childhood, though he always wondered why his mother sent him to the farm. When he looked back, though, he had a pretty good bringing-up. Grandpa Bobo gave him discipline. Uncle Jones gave him understanding and guidance. And his great-grandma Selma gave him the love he never got from his mother.

No, Rayne couldn't complain about how he was raised. The responsibility he learned, and the work ethic he got, led him to college in Philadelphia and owning his own business. It led him to a good woman, Lillie, and her son, Khalil.

Oh, how Rayne loved that boy. And since the feeling was mutual and Rayne was heading south to visit Nana Selma anyhow, he asked Lillie if Khalil could go along. It might do the child good to spend time with the old woman who raised Rayne.

But things in North Carolina weren't as Rayne remembered. There was much work to be done, and Selma's health wasn't what it was. Though it was his great-granddaddy's beloved land, Rayne hoped to sell it so that Selma could live comfortably somewhere else, somewhere safe.

She'd been "holding" the farm for 50 years. But the farm may never have been hers to hold...

If Sons, Then Heirs is like a lingering, warm summer day just before a storm arrives: You'll want to savor every minute of it, even though you know it won't last long and it won't always be pleasant.

Author Cary weaves a story of several generations of family held together by love and a determination to remember where they came from, and she does it by moving easily from era to era, bygone times to the present and back. That allows you to completely immerse yourself into this engrossing novel, its characters, and their lives.

This is not a book to read casually. You'll want to pay attention to the details, because they are what makes If Sons, Then Heirs a recipe for a great summer read.

A Summer's Journey...

who got to play with what action figures along the way. Now we mostly argue about who is going to drive the van. Two of the three boys have their driver's licenses, much to the growth of far more gray hair for me than can be covered up, so there were a number of cheery, man-boy offers to drive. Since I am a complete nervous mess most of the time (because life is so stinking fragile and I have gone and had all these kids), I did ask that most of the driving be done by the one who makes me the least nervous, and that's John. (I think John might interject here with something like, "If your gasping and clenched teeth are your 'least nervous,' you seriously need some meds...")

As for the very back seat, the boys do still quibble about that. They are now all quite long-legged and man-sized. Although there is usually some kibitzing, Alex generally climbs into the back. This springs from a deep-seated terror that grips his soul when either Rob or Michael show any signs of car-sickness. Alex has never suffered from that much, minus the occasional headache, but Rob and Michael have run the gamut with it. Alex simply cannot stand even the mention of the word "vomit" (sorry, Alex). So he generally insists that he take the farthest seat back, all in a concentrated effort to avoid any such horrendous event. Granted, neither Rob nor Michael has actually been made ill for years now, but the stinging memories remain for Alex, so he takes the back, and routinely inquires about his brothers' health. Then they say, "omg, Alex, we're not going to throw up!" and he yells "SHUT UP! Don't even say it!!" And that's how it goes.

In the olden days, the boys were unencumbered by much personal responsibility when we headed off, basking in the sunny, school-less, expansive universe of summer. Nowadays, life is different. Alex, about to be a high school senior, is reading literature all summer to keep up with honors classes, and Robert, via the enchanted world of technology, is taking English 2 online from Garrett College. So there were laptops and books and deadlines throughout. And on top of that, Rob had a WVU drumline camp coming up that weekend, so we were both pressed to get home a day early, and we were granted the extra gift of Rob practicing at every opportunity. I apologize now to the hapless folks who roomed nearby. (I can just imagine: "What the heck is that noise over there? What are they doing?? Gah!!") Not nearly the same as 10 or 15 years ago, when the boys' biggest responsibilities were to simply keep John and me in sight at all times, and to remember their "guys" (action figures) when leaving a restaurant or hotel. That was about it. Ramifications then: loss of guys. Ramifications now: too lengthy to go into, and scary, considering college tuitions and class rank and all that hoopla. Yeesh.

So it was DC for a few days, then Kill Devil Hills, N.C. I like to force some learnin' on the kids first, and then we all just flop into the sea and ride waves. Of course in addition to the ocean, there was also the Wright Brothers Museum in N.C., another education destination. That one inspired Alex all week to yell at opportune moments "Wright, brother??!" to his sibs. (And then for whatever absurd reason, he would flap his arms and shout "Caw, caw!" like Gob Bluth imitating a chicken in Arrested Development, for those who know the show. Our kids are weird.) In DC, where the heat was just excruciating to us mountaintop people, we visited Smithsonian museums and the Newseum, which was amazing. (I got mesmerized by the 9/11 exhibit, though, and had to be coaxed out, tears on my face. Michael said, "Come on, Mom. This is a big bunch of sad. Let's go.") But that place made me feel that what we do here at The Republican does mean something, and does make a positive difference sometimes, and that was a good thing. We also visited Madame Tussaud's Wax Museum, and saw every single U.S. president, with the proper build, hair, and eye color. That was just wild. You can walk right up to them, and if you stand at the proper angle, your eyes actually meet. As Rob noted, all five of us had a "Whoa!" moment doing that. Some of those men were just tiny, by the way. Seriously.

Then it was off to the beach, where we were happy to see the ocean still doing its thing. The five of us are idiots for playing in the surf, and we can do it for hours. No boring lying on the sand for us – we make use of those waves! And we did just that. Funny thing about that sea, though – it gave us a curve ball every single day. First day: warm and pleasant, but full of seaweed, wrapping around our feet and legs, making us yell out "ewww!" and jump around like we were covered in spiders. Day two: frigidly cold! Wow! We are hardy with cold water, but man, that took some guts. With the freezing water came clarity, however. We could see all the way to the bottom, four and five feet down. And there were little fish everywhere, schools of them shooting around en masse. Every now and then they would leap completely up in the air, which we discovered would precede a larger shadow moving underneath. Yikes. That was the day of the dolphins, too – the best gift, in my mind. Probably 20 of them, just 25 feet from us, making those signature arcs in the air and splashing back down. Excellent fun! Final day: water temp back to tolerable, but oh my, the jellyfish. There were dead jellyfish everywhere. Those clear, gelatinous disks all over the beach, all through the water. It looked like a ship full of breast implants had crashed just offshore. And guess what? Some of them still had a little sting left. Ow. That finally forced us out, and we went to visit the "Wright, brothers?" museum in the interim. When we returned that evening, the jellyfish had moved on. Crazy.

On our last night, we walked the beach in the dark and lit some enormous sparklers (with great effort, I might add, because of that constant beach wind). They sparkled and shot out ashes at us, and shone a light on those sideways scurrying sand crabs that always look a little ticked off. We said our goodbyes to the sea and to our vacation of 2011. It was a good one, even inspiring me to write again. The opportunities for these family vacations for us are surely dwindling, as the boys are becoming men, and will head off on their own adventures someday sooner than will seem possible. Ah, but the memories remain, and I cherish them. Except for the getting lost parts, and the jellyfish bites. I'll try to forget those. Until next summer...

TOP SMS BAND STUDENTS HONORED – Troy Deckman and Elaine Marple were both presented with the Director's Award for Band at Southern Middle School for the 2010-2011 school year. Director Nell T. Krebs presents the award to his top performing band students who show the most interest in band and music. Krebs has taught Troy and Elaine for three years. He said they both have gone "above and beyond" in band, and have also assisted with younger students. Both have played various instruments while at the middle school. Elaine plays trumpet and flute and Troy plays multiple percussion instruments. Both have been in the band since their 4th grade year, and both are now members of the Southern Garrett High School Marching Band. They plan to participate in the Southern stage band and concert band as well. Elaine is the daughter of Aurelia and David Marple, and Troy is the son of Tracey and Wade Deckman, all of Oakland. The two honorees are pictured with Krebs.

Maryland Sells $512.4 Million In GO Bonds

Maryland State Treasurer Nancy K. Kopp announced that the Board of Public Works (BPW), comprising Governor Martin O'Malley, Comptroller Peter Franchot and Treasurer Kopp, completed this week the successful sale of $512,415,000 of General Obligation bonds in four series, including the direct retail sale of $71.7 million of Series A bonds which sold on July 25 exclusively to retail investors and with first priority to Maryland citizens.

Competitive sales for Series B, Series C, and Series D also occurred at Wednesday's meeting. The state received bids for the $418,270,000 of Tax-Exempt Bonds (Series B), the $15,900,000 Taxable Qualified Zone Academy Bonds (Series C), and the $6,515,000 of Taxable Qualified Energy Conservation Bonds (Series D). The Series C and Series D Bonds are eligible for direct federal subsidies that will reduce the interest cost below a comparable tax-exempt bond.

The direct retail sale of Series A bonds, conducted through a group of underwriters led by M&T Securities Inc. carried a true interest rate of 1.99%. The premium was $5,689,634.

In the competitive sales, $418.3 million in tax-exempt Series B bonds sold at a true interest cost of 3.08%; the winning bidder was Bank of America Merrill Lynch and the premium was $52,685,635. Series C taxable bonds in the amount of $15.9 million sold at a true interest cost of 4.24%; the winner bidder was Wells Fargo Bank, National Association and the discount was $158,841. Series D taxable bonds in the amount of $6.5 million sold at a true interest cost of 4.23%; the winner bidder was J.P. Morgan Securities LLC, and the discount was $23,259. There were 7 or more bidders on each of Series B, C, and D.

All three major bond rating agencies – Standard & Poor's Ratings Services, Moody's Investors Service and Fitch Ratings – reaffirmed the state's AAA bond rating with a stable outlook on July 13.

Maryland is one of only eight states to currently hold the AAA rating, the highest possible rating, from all three bond rating agencies.

The Maryland State Treasurer's Office expects to conduct another bond sale in late February 2012.

upon that journey were instrumental in her determination to survive and graduate with her class. Their voices carried her through the darkest moments.

"Mabel never wanted to be characterized as a hero," Broderick continued. "She did, though, want to be a 'voice' herself, to be a person who spoke out about cancer prevention, to be a person whom others could rely on to understand how they felt if they did have cancer, and especially to be empathetic to children and parents of children who are going through the chemo process."

In 2008, Mabel changed her college major from journalism to nursing and hopes to work with cancer patients. She will graduate from Fairmont State University in December.

"It would be a wonderful night out for mothers and daughters, to experience the joy of what Mabel accomplished, not alone, but within the humbling warmth of those who loved her," added Broderick.

Following each performance, TOTL will be making a donation to Cindy's Fund, a local non-profit organization that helps finance cancer prevention programs and assists persons undergoing treatment for cancer.

TOTL's production of Mabel's Story will be presented August 2-6 at the Barn at Ridgeview Valley near McHenry. All shows will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tickets may be purchased online at www.totltheatre.org or by calling the box office at 304-680-1002.

Madigan's Tops Cork's For Division, Tied With Cresaptown In Title Series

Tristan Nazelrod went 3-for-4 while Brian Wildman and Scott Cooper combined on a two-hitter to lift Madigan's Auto past Cork's Cars, 7-4, to win the American League West Division title in Hot Stove League baseball Saturday at Broadford Park.

Following the win, on Monday, Madigan's Auto suffered a loss to the Cresaptown Eagles at Hamilton Field, 11-6, after the Eagles put up an eight-run sixth inning to take the lead and win the opening game of the American League championship.

Madigan's evened the series in game two on Wednesday with a seventh-inning rally that resulted in a 9-8 victory. The winning run came off the bat of Bernie Sislo, who singled home the winning run.

In the matchup with Cork's Cars, Nazelrod hit a double and two singles and scored three times to lead Madigan's, which erased early 1-0, 2-1, and 3-2 deficits. Keaton Taylor hit a big two-run double late in the game and Cooper had an RBI single.

Hagerstown Grad Signs Letter Of Intent With GC

Eric Hallenbeck, head baseball coach at Garrett College, announced recently that Dylan May, a graduate of South Hagerstown High School, has signed a letter of intent to play for the Garrett Lakers this fall.

Hallenbeck said that he believes the 6'4", 230-pound right-hander will likely log a lot of innings on the mound, either in the rotation or in relief.

"Dylan has a lot of raw ability," said Hallenbeck. "He is a big kid with a live arm. Coaches can't teach that. If we can work on a couple of mechanical things and get him stronger, he will throw a ton of innings for us."

Hallenbeck happens to be a graduate of South Hagerstown's arch rival North Hagerstown, but jokingly says that he "won't hold that against" May.

"That rivalry still runs deep with me," he said, "but if Dylan wins some games as a Laker, I think I'll be able to look past the fact that he was once a Rebel!"

HUSKY SIGNS WITH WEST LIBERTY – Northern High School graduate Matt Thomas recently signed a letter of intent/scholarship to continue his academic studies and wrestling career at West Liberty (W.Va.) University. He plans to major in sports management and will likely be wrestling in the 141/149-pound division for the Hilltoppers. Thomas was a four-year varsity starter for the Huskies who compiled an overall record of 87 wins and 24 defeats. He was a two-time Maryland state place winner, finishing fifth as a junior and third this past spring as a senior. "Matt worked hard and dedicated himself to the sport, and it showed his senior year," said NHS head coach Bob Moranduzzo. As a senior, Thomas was ranked among the top 10 in Maryland in the 140-pound division, according to Maryland State Wrestling Association. He was also named a MWCA All-Star and recorded a pinfall in the annual All-Star showcase in Baltimore. An honor roll student, he was also named Student Athlete of the Month in March by the Cumberland Times-News. "I decided to attend WLU because of the outstanding programs of study, its wrestling program, and the coaches," said Thomas, who noted his appreciation to his past coaches, principals, teachers, family, friends, and Mr. and Mrs. Del Carpenter for their support. Pictured above, from left, seated, are Thomas' mother Jennifer Arnold, Thomas, and his father Tim Thomas. Standing, same order, are assistant coach Jordan Brenneman, Coach Moranduzzo, NHS principal Gary Reichenbecher, and assistant principal Paul Edwards.

G'Ville's Hope For Title Dashed With One Out To Finish

The hope for a second-half district title and a post season slipped past American Legion Grantsville Post 214 baseball team Thursday when a final-inning scoring drive by opponent Fort Cumberland Post 13 ended the outing at 8-7.

The loss was a tough one for Grantsville, which had a one-run lead and one out to go in the bottom of the ninth when a Fort Cumberland rally saw Mike Moyer knock in Aaron Lehman on a single for the winning run after Conner O'Rourke brought home Jeff Conley on a single to tie the game at 7-7.

For more information, persons may contact Todd Schneider at 301-689-3945 or Gary Bennett at 301-687-1033.

Prior to the botched save, Grantsville had posted a two-run ninth inning rally of its own, as Pat Sines led off with a home run to tie it as 6-6, followed by singles from Steven Holtschneider and Corey Helbig. After a base-loading walk for Andy Umbel, Logan Stewart swatted a one-run single. The scoring drive ended on the same hit, however, as Helbig was thrown out at home plate to end the at-bat.

The game's final inning started well for Grantsville, as a fielder's choice and a pop-up got Post 214 two quick outs. The two-out Cumberland rally that followed, however, would end Grantsville's regular season with an overall record of 19-14.

Besides the solo-home run from Sines, Post 214 got a two-run homer from Helbig in the sixth and three singles from Holtschneider Stewart finished with two singles, while Mason Dick added a double.

Diamond Dogs Suffer Loss To Casselman, 9-2

The North Side Diamond Dogs fell short in their Thursday road game with Casselman Valley, losing 9-2.

Dillon Mast had three hits for the Dogs, while teammate Scott Bittinger doubled.

For Casselman, Brandon Miller hit a home run and finished with three hits and four runs batted in. Casselman also had hits from Matt McKenzie, who had three singles, and Ryan Miller, who had two singles. Justin Donaldson singled, as did Ryan Vogt.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

REGATTAS!
by Dan Muss

Yes, regattas; a bunch of them. Last weekend the southern end of Deep Creek Lake was covered with sails. The Women's and the Laser Invitational regattas were held, with Dave Mahan as PRO (principal race officer). Sailing with them was a separate regatta for junior Scot sailors (six boats). The Women's Regatta was divided into championship (six boats) and challenger (three boats) fleets, and the Lasers were divided into two sections, full-rig (16 boats) and, on a separate course, junior sailors in the smaller radial rig (16 boats). Josh Bullock was PRO for the junior Lasers. The full-rig Lasers' course was set inside the Flying Scot course.

I was at home nursing a cold, so the action will be related by several participants.

by Stephanie Mahan

Melanie Dunham was back to defend her title in the championship fleet. Denise Swensen from Selby Bay, with crews Terry Nilson and Bonnie Urban, winners of last year's challenger fleet, moved up to test their skills in the championship fleet this year

Saturday was sunny and warm, with winds ranging from about 8 to 14 mph. In the first race, championship fleet competitors Stephanie Mahan with 12-year-old daughter Hannah Lothrop were first to the windward mark. Despite not flying the spinnaker, they held off Melanie Dunham and her regular crew, husband Bill Dunham, winning the race.

Competition in the junior fleet was focused on fun with competitors brandishing super soakers to douse unsuspecting opponents. Kathryn Bennett finished first in the race.

In the second race on Saturday, Melanie Dunham managed to hold off the rest of the championship fleet, as the first four Scots finished within a few boat lengths of each other. Meanwhile, avoiding the starting problems that plagued them in the first race, Jenifer Meehan and crew coasted in to win the challenger fleet. Junior fleet skipper Kathryn Bennett broke away from the rest of her fleet for her second win of the day.

Sunday dawned rainy and windy, with thunder and lightning lasting until just about race time. Thankfully, the rain and thunder cleared just in time for the racers to hit the course again with light and shifty winds. Once again, Melanie Dunham jumped into the lead right away and held it to win the race and the regatta. Challenger skipper Jenifer Meehan held the lead the entire race, while Emily Meehan and Debbie McCombs duked it out for second place, with Debbie finally pulling away to grab second. The third junior race was a dog-fight between Ben Podlich and Kathryn Bennett, with Ben edging out Kathryn, Thomas Yonke, Kiki Graham, and the rest of the pack to win the race and clinch third overall.

by Debbie McCombs

Dorothy Tuel and I both serve as crew in our regular sailing "jobs," and the heat seemed to have had an effect on our ability to switch our hats to the change in tasks we had as skipper and crew. One very important task is lowering the centerboard for the upwind leg after completing the downwind leg of the race. Since neither one of us lowers the board in our other "job," it took us 'til Sunday's final race to put lowering the centerboard on our radar. Despite our nemesis – the centerboard – we had a great time, even when we watched the rest of the fleet sail away from us while we scratched our heads and wondered why.

by Sue Wolffe

In the full-rig Laser regatta, the PRO provided triangle courses with a windward mark finish and with marks close enough to shore to provide some interesting and challenging racing in the light air. Six races made up the regatta, with racing so close competitors had to wait for the official results to learn the trophy winners. Darrell Van Hutten locked up first place after facing heavy competition from the Deep Creek Sailing School instructors, local competitors, and several off-lake sailors.

Sixteen junior fleet Laser sailors raced nine races in separate courses in the vicinity of the Turkey Neck Yacht Club. Lively discussions were held by the junior fleet sailors on racing rules and tactics. The fleet has some amazing young sailors, including first-place winner Jon Benhart, who will be giving the more experienced sailors in the Laser fleet a run for their money shortly.

by Andrew Muss

Four of the participants in the full-rig Laser regatta were off-lake participants, including last year's winner Andy Shoemaker, who had come to defend his title. The racing was characterized by a remarkable flux of position changes, which seemed to occur constantly. One would experience the thrill of catching a favorable wind-shift while sailing upwind and passing five or 10 boats, only to have the reverse happen moments later, watching helplessly as multiple boats passed you. Ah, the experiential vicissitudes of sailing on Deep Creek Lake!

With only two minutes to go before the first start, Darrell Van Hutten displayed true sportsmanship when he altered his pre-race preparation routine to help a fellow sailor with a sail-related problem. With less than a minute to go before the start, Darrell gathered his thoughts and coolly went on to win the race. Andy Shoemaker fought it out with Darrell in the second race and won it in the end. In the third race, Ryan Schubert sprang out of the gates and led from beginning to end. When the dust settled and the races were finished, Van Hutten won the regatta, edging out last year's champ Shoemaker. In third place was Carrie Dodd, who sailed a very consistent and solid regatta.

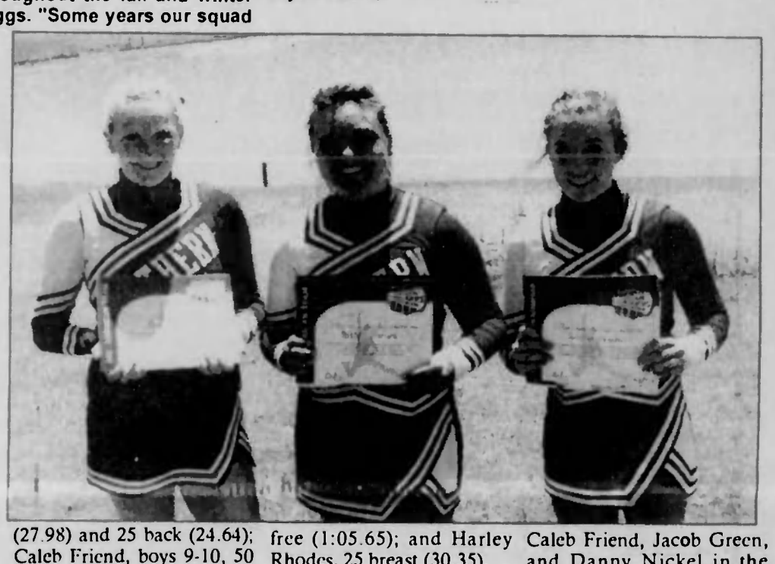
SHS CHEERERS HEAD TO NATIONAL TOURNEY – The Southern High School varsity cheerleaders recently received an invitation from the National Cheerleaders Association to participate in its national competition in Dallas, Texas, in December. The team received the invitation from an NCA representative on the final day of its summer training camp, held recently at the North Glade Inn. Three Southern cheerleaders earned all-American honors from the NCA and are pictured below from left to right: Olivia Gaither, Patricia Sherrard, and Jennifer Feaster. Feaster, a senior, is a four-time all-American. This is also the second such honor for both Gaither and Sherrard, both seniors. NCA, which sponsored the camp, is the oldest and largest cheerleading organization of its kind in the country. According to head coach Harry Biggs, Southern coaches received in-depth training from the NCA staff, while the cheerleaders were given instruction in several key areas, such as chanting, cheers, dancing, and stunting. "What we learned at this camp will be used throughout the fall and winter sports seasons," stated Biggs. "Some years our squad has cheered at as many as 50 to 60 different sporting events. NCA camp helps us to better prepare in order to meet the demands of our busy schedule, and although the invitation to such a fine competition is a great honor for our group, our main purpose is to support the athletic programs at Southern High." Serving as assistant coach is Biggs' wife Angie. The couple have coached the squad for 12 years. They are assisted by Marci Biggs and Hana Smith, who are both former NCA all-American Southern cheerleaders. The entire squad and coaching staff have expressed their thanks to Fred and Tammy Fulk, owners of the North Glade Inn, as well as to Garrett College. Pictured above in the front row, from left, are: Wagaman (NCA head instructor), Jennifer Feaster, Patty Sherrard, Haylee Bolyard, Hannah Wiltison, Olivia Gaither, Georgette Goralski, and Brianna Rauenzahn (NCA instructor). In the back row are: Julie Keefer, Angie Biggs, Trista Dawson, Chanda Beckman, Lakyn Barnard, Katie Sisio, Mattia Schrock, Morgan Sanders, and Taylor Ashby.



Taking second place in B-flight competition were: Acie Friend, 50 free (29.05); Katy Tidd, girls 13-14, 50 free (31.71); Katelin Rank, 50 free (36.11) and 100 free (1:23.05); Danny Nickel, 25 free (19.36) and 50 free (47.09); Harley Rhodes, boys 9-10, 25 fly (29.37); Ava Ashby, girls 9-10, 25 fly (27.61); Corinne Weaver, 100 free (1:18.18); Annika Naylor, girls 13-14, 100 free (1:21.25) and 50 breast (54.45); Caleb Rowan, 50 free (44.08); and Laurel Williams, 25 breast (30.27).

Yoder Named Dean Of Continuing Education, Workforce Development

by Peggy Santamaria

Julie Yoder loves her job. Her enthusiasm for her work and dedication to the people she serves combined to earn her the recently bestowed title of dean of Continuing Education and Workforce Development at Garrett College (CEWD).

"I really love what I do, and I can't imagine doing anything else," she said.

Yoder had served as interim dean of CEWD since the previous dean, Lowell Bender, retired in 2009. But her tenure at Garrett College extends back more than 16 years. A graduate of Frostburg State University, Yoder went to work for Garrett as job placement coordinator. Over the years her job title has changed several times and her responsibilities have steadily increased.

Today, Yoder oversees the programming and operations of CEWD training sessions on the McHenry campus, the Northern Outreach Center in Grantsville, the Southern Outreach Center in Oakland, and the Career Training Technology Center in Accident, as well as for the Community Aquatic & Recreation Complex scheduled to open in the fall.

Through all the modifications and changes in Yoder's work venue, the focus has remained on the adult learner.

"It is very rewarding to see students come through our programs. I have seen adults take the ABE (Adult Basic Education) to get their Maryland high school diploma (GED), go on for certification training for work, and later choose to earn a college degree," she said, adding, "We offer people a ladder of opportunity."

For many years Yoder has partnered with businesses throughout the county, as well as with county government officials, in order to stay informed about the direction of employment growth and the educational needs of local employers.

Through CEWD, business owners can offer specialized trainings for their employees. State and local agencies can set up training to assure that their workers have knowledge of the most current governing regulations, Yoder said.

"We also provide the trainings for emergency medical personnel for both Garrett and Allegany counties," she added.

Going through a partial list of educational opportunities offered through Yoder's department, it is not surprising to learn that during fiscal year 2010 the CEWD division of Garrett College educated 3,705 (unduplicated) students.

The CEWD course schedule has always offered a wide variety of personal interest classes ranging from oil painting to Pilates. Currently, Yoder said, she and the CEWD staff are emphasizing short-term trainings leading to workforce credentials.

"We are currently offering 10 training opportunities, and we're planning to grow," she noted.

Yoder said she is "very fortunate" to work with a staff of "creative, self-motivated people" who are the outreach center coordinators and the main campus program directors and coordinator. These people network with the community to learn about educational needs of business owners, as well as those of individuals, according to Yoder.

"They also seek out the most qualified instructors for the courses," she said.

"It is really great to be part of this whole effort to respond to the educational needs of our community and provide the best opportunities for all area residents," she said.

For more information on educational opportunities through the Continuing Education/Workforce Development division of Garrett College, persons may call 301-387-3070 or go online to www.garrettcollege.edu.

GC Commissioners Recognize Barn Quilt Association, Festival

The Board of Commissioners of Garrett County recently issued a proclamation citing the week of Aug. 1–7 to be Barn Quilt Week. This announcement coincides with the Barn Quilt Association of Garrett County Inc.'s second annual Barn Quilt Festival to be held on Sunday, Aug. 7.

During a public meeting last week, Commission chairman Gregan Crawford read the proclamation, which states the commissioners recognize the positive impact the association has had on showcasing the quality of life in Garrett County.

The proclamation noted that the group's Barn Quilt Tour has created a family-oriented activity, made Garrett County a part of a nationwide project, and has the potential to provide an economic impact for county businesses.

The commissioners recognized the association's mission to preserve and celebrate the county's agriculture, history, and Appalachian roots.

The group works with property owners/supporters to place painted quilt designs on barns and has created a self-guided driving tour of those barns throughout Garrett County. Currently, 13 barns are a part of the trail. Several more will be added in the next few weeks.

The Barn Quilt Tour is featured in the current issue of Maryland Life magazine and was recently included in the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development electronic newsletter, which is circulated to the business community statewide.

In June, a film crew from Maryland Public Television traveled to Garrett County to film footage for an upcoming documentary on historic Maryland barns. MPT interviewed some of the property owners and association board members, and filmed the entire Barn Quilt Tour.

The Barn Quilt Festival will be held on Sunday, Aug. 7, from 1 to 7 p.m. at Ridgeview Valley, located along Gravelly Run Road, near McHenry. A special feature of the day will be performances by Russ and Barb Childers, Appalachian storytellers and musicians. Through song and legend, the couple will entertain the audience with their tale "The Story Quilt." They will perform beginning at 1:30 p.m.

At approximately 2:30 p.m., a short program will be held. Current barn owners and quilt block sponsors will be recognized. A new 8-foot-by-8-foot barn quilt square will be unveiled and will become a part of the Barn Quilt Tour.

The old farmhouse at Ridgeview will be the site of an heirloom quilt display. On display will be some the actual quilts that have inspired the painted barn quilts that are featured in the driving tour.

BARN QUILT WEEK PROCLAIMED – The Garrett County commissioners recently proclaimed Aug. 1–7 as Barn Quilt Week and recognized the Barn Quilt Association's mission to preserve and celebrate the county's agriculture, history, and Appalachian roots. The group works with property owners and supporters to place painted quilt designs on barns. See story. Pictured above is the association's newest quilt patch, "Amish Dahlia," located along Rt. 495 just north of Bittinger. Below, left to right, at the proclamation signing are Commissioner Bob Gatto, BQA member Beverley Williams, Commissioner Gregan Crawford, BQA board members Karen Reckner and Cheryl DeBerry, and Commissioner Jim Raley. Not pictured is BQA board member Joyce Bishoff. Photos courtesy of the Barn Quilt Association.

Several art and craft vendors will be set up on the lawn of the farmhouse. Local photography, wood crafts, fabric and fiber arts, jewelry, and more will be available. The owners of Sunnyside Wools will bring along some of their farm animals as part of a fiber arts exhibit.

Activities for the whole family will run throughout the day. There will be an on-site scavenger hunt, and both adults and children can try their hands at creating their own quilt designs. Children's activities will also include the creation of Appalachian style instruments that they can use to accompany the guest musicians in a live performance.

Food vendors will be on hand with a variety of sandwiches, chicken, fudge, ice cream, and kettle corn.

An auction will be held as a fundraiser for the Barn Quilt Association. Some of the numerous items up for bids include quilted wall hangings, original paintings and photography, golf packages, crystal, and tickets for carriage rides, the local corn maze, and a dog sledding tour.

Admission to the festival is free; however, donations will be accepted.

Maps of the Barn Quilt Tour are available online at www.garrettbarnquilts.org, at the county Visitors Center in McHenry, or by calling 877-577-2276.

Association members encourage festival goers to take the driving tour as part of their festival experience. Maps and additional information will also be available at the festival.

Meeting Set

The MDE – Abandoned Mine Lands Division expects work to begin in the watershed this fall, as early as October. Representatives of the Abandoned Mine Lands Division will present the watershed restoration plan in a brief PowerPoint presentation. Representatives of MDE from the EPA 319 grant program in Baltimore will participate and be available to answer questions.

The Casselman River flows north from its headwaters near Savage River State Forest to the Pennsylvania state line, and lies within the Monongahela River Watershed, a part of the Ohio River drainage basin. The Casselman is a high quality mountain stream noted for its populations of brook trout, stonecats, and hellbenders in the less impaired parts. The tributaries of the Casselman Watershed have shown significant reductions in the native brook trout population as a result of acid mine drainage from abandoned mine discharges, as well as episodic atmospheric deposition.

The Casselman River Watershed Remediation Plan consists of several phases, including identifying sources and major discharges, generating a list of impaired stream segments, developing a database of segments, prioritizing impaired streams, and developing solutions to correct the impairments.

Stanton said that the meeting will center on sharing and discussing solutions that will be implemented. Some solutions include removal of some vegetation and trees in order to construct and install in-ground alkalinity producing systems that will neutralize the acidity of selected streams and waterways in the North and South Branches of the Casselman River.

Information on the meeting can be obtained by calling Stanton at 301-334-3788. Information on the remediation plan can be obtained from the Abandoned Mine Land Division, 160 South Water Street, Frostburg, MD 21532; 301-689-1465.

Maryland Park Service To Host Lifeguard Event

State park lifeguards from across Maryland will compete in the Maryland Park Service (MPS) Lifeguard Competition Tuesday, Aug. 9, beginning at 1 p.m. at Deep Creek Lake State Park.

"The Maryland Park Service employs some of the most dedicated, talented young adults as lifeguards at state park beaches, lakes, and pools," said MPS superintendent Nita Settina. "This competition showcases the skills that those guards utilize every day to ensure the safety of our visitors."

Lifeguards from Deep Creek Lake, Herrington Manor, New Germany, Greenbrier, Sandy Point, Gunpowder Falls, Rocky Gap, Dan's Mountain, Point Lookout, Cunningham Falls, Pocomoke River, and Assateague state parks are expected to compete in the event. Challenges will include a 300-yard swim, a rescue race, beach flags, the "Iron Guard" relay, and the "Ultimate Challenge" obstacle course, in which lifeguards will compete for individual and team prizes.

Children and spectators will also have an opportunity to compete for prizes in a variety of water-safety activities featuring "PFD Panda," the Department of Natural Resources' water safety mascot.

Sponsors for the event include the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation, Adventure Sports Center International, Canoe on the Run, Garrett 8 Cinemas, Lakeside Creamery, Archie's Barbeque, Wisp Resort, Marine Rescue Products, and Friends of Maryland State Parks. The event is free of charge, and spectators are encouraged to attend.

According to a recent study, conducted in partnership with the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development, the Maryland Office of Tourism Development, and the Maryland Association of Destination Marketing Organizations, Maryland state parks have an estimated annual economic benefit of more than $650 million. In 2010, visitors directly spent more than $567 million locally – $25.56 locally for every dollar the state invests in state parks – during their visits. Nearly 95 percent of visitors reported having had their expectations met or exceeded during their visits to the state parks.

GC Health Dept. To Continue Smoking Cessation Classes

Garrett County Health Department has announced that it will be able to continue providing tobacco cessation services to county residents. Funding for the Cessation Program is part of the settlement between the states and U.S. tobacco companies. Each state receives a portion of the settlement to provide cessation and tobacco education programs for its residents.

"The health department has been offering tobacco cessation services for over 10 years, and we are obviously pleased that we can provide those services again," said health education director Kendra McLaughlin.

Success rates for Garrett County participants that complete the program are higher than the national average. The program requires a three-month, six-month, and an annual follow-up to determine the quit rates.

"The program has really come a long way," said Michael Wilburn, cessation program facilitator. "I remember when we just used nicotine patches as a cessation aid. Now we have Chantix, which seems to work well for our clients."

Chantix works differently than nicotine patches and gum by targeting the nicotine receptors in the brain, attaching to them, and blocking nicotine from reaching them. It is believed that Chantix also activates these receptors, causing a reduced releasc of dopamine, which is produced naturally in the brain and acts as a reward mechanism.

"Basically it prevents the brain from producing dopamine, making the smoking habit less rewarding," said Wilburn. "Chantix has recently received some negative press, but recent studies show that the benefits of Chantix outweigh the risks. The biggest complaint of our clients using Chantix is an upset stomach, and that usually passes with time."

Classes meet once a week for 10 weeks. Each session lasts about 45 minutes to an hour People WHO enroll and attend at least eight of the 10 meetings are eligible to receive financial assistance with cessation aids. Meetings are informal and meant to be a support system for participants.

"I think people feel better about their quitting efforts when they realize their peers are experiencing many of the same problems they are facing," Wilburn said.

To help reduce the traveling costs, classes are scheduled in different communities in the county. The schedule is as follows:

•GCHD, Oakland, Sept 14 to Nov 23, at 5:30 p.m.

•GCHD, Outreach Center, Grantsville, Oct 18 to Dec. 20, at 5:30 p.m.

•Class at Friendsville rescue squad building to be determined by interest.

A class started on July 25 and is being held every Monday at 5:30 p.m. Those interested in this class or any of the classes should contact Mike Wilburn at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111, or via e-mail at mwilburn@dhmh.state.md.us.

DNR Photo Contest Enters Final Month

First-place winners in each category will receive a Maryland State Park Passport, a two-year subscription to The Maryland Natural Resource magazine, and two copies of the 2011 DNR calendar. Second-place winners will receive a one-year subscription to the magazine and a calendar.

All qualifying photographs must be taken in Maryland. Photographers may submit up to three entries for a $10 entry fee, and an additional $3 for each entry beyond three. Photos cannot be more than two years old or previously published. Non-residents may participate, as long as the photos were taken in Maryland. Winners will be announced online Sept 12, 2011.

RITA THOMAS

Garrett College will offer a Zumba® fitness course at the Grantville Senior Center on Thursdays, Sept. 8–Nov. 10, from 6 to 7 p.m. The class will be suitable for all ages, according to instructor Rita Thomas.

Zumba®, which has been referred to as "exercise in disguise," fuses Latin rhythms with simple movements. The routines feature interval training sessions in which fast and slow rhythms and resistance training are combined to tone and sculpt the body while burning fat.

"I love teaching Zumba classes. The reason is simple: Every class feels like a party," Thomas said, adding that students need not know how to dance in order to enjoy the class.

Thomas, certified to teach Zumba Basic I and II and Zumba Toning, has been an instructor since April 2010. She is a ZIN (Zumba Instructor Network) member. She also holds a master's degree in education.

For additional information, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

To register for this course, persons may contact the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

On vacation there is so much to see and do that it is easy to forget about worship. What an opportunity to visit a new house of God, whether it is a monumental cathedral or a small historic sanctuary. Stop in for a while and spend some time with Him. Let serenity spread through your spirit. Sing praises to the Lord, for He is with you wherever you are...He is the Creator of the splendor that we enjoy on vacation and each day. May God bless you with His protection as you travel on your way.

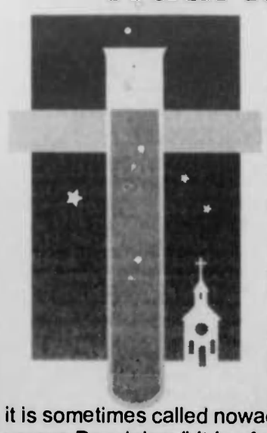
Truth Is One



There is no conflict between genuine religion and genuine science. Both aim to arrive at the truth, though often in different ways, and regarding different areas of life. It is almost always a mistake to place science and religion in antagonistic opposition, as do those engaged in the creationism versus evolution debate, or as it is sometimes called nowadays, "intelligent design versus Darwinism," it is of course true that a literal interpretation of the two creation accounts in Genesis (1:1-2.3 and 2:4-25) doesn't square well with Darwin's version of how life evolved on this planet. But we need not interpret these passages literally to be good and faithful adherents of religion. And there is nothing inconsistent in believing in evolution and believing in a God who created a universe where evolution functions to allow species to adapt to their environment. In fact, the more we know about science, the more awed and amazed we are likely to be at the wonders of creation. Religious texts like the Bible provide us with deep and abiding truths about our existential and cosmic condition, and our relationship to God. Science provides us with progressively better information about how the world works and what it was like in the past. Science and religion need not be antagonistic to each other, and indeed, if truth is one, science and religion must work together to give us a complete picture of the universe and our place in it.

A wise man will hear and increase in learning.

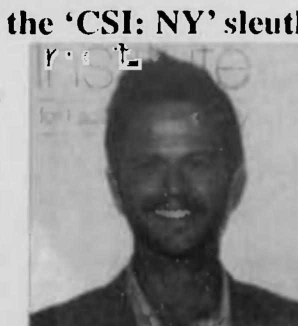
Investigating one of the 'CSI: NY' sleuths

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it



Carmine Giovinazzo

Q: What can you tell me about Carmine Giovinazzo of "CSI: NY"? Is he married? Is he from New York? (He certainly sounds like it.) Has he ever done anything besides "CSI: NY"? –Laura Doenlas, Fresh Meadows, N.Y.

A: Giovinazzo has a famous spouse, Vanessa Marcil Giovinazzo ... alias Brenda on the ABC daytime serial "General Hospital." They wed last July. The actor is indeed a New York native, having been born and raised on Staten Island. As with most actors who land series roles, yes, he did a number of other projects before getting the part of Detective Danny Messer, with which he goes into Season 8 this fall on CBS.

In fact, Giovinazzo has a notable first and a notable last among his credits. He played the first victim in the television version of "Buffy the Vampire Slayer," and he portrayed the last victim in the recently deceased Peter Falk's series of "Columbo" TV movies (specifically, in "Columbo Likes the Nightlife"). Giovinazzo also was in the cast of the now-defunct UPN's somewhat infamous series "Shasta McNasty," and his feature film credits include "Black Hawk Down" and "For Love of the Game."

Incidentally, before getting "CSI: NY," Giovinazzo guest starred on the parent "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation" as a street racer by the name of Thumpy G, so the franchise's chiefs clearly felt the actor played effectively on either side of the law. Also, Giovinazzo wrote an episode for the sixth season of "CSI: NY."

Q: "Army Wives" on Lifetime seemed to be over sooner this year than it was in previous seasons. Can you tell me when this past season started and ended? –Judy Vollrath, Racine, Wis.

A: It began March 6 and ended June 12, encompassing 13 episodes ... which, you're correct, was shorter than previous seasons that averaged just under 20 episodes. The best advice is simply to enjoy it for as much as there is of it, since next year, the show's sixth and final season also will be 13 episodes long.

Q: I have enjoyed watching "HawthoRNe" and have enjoyed Suleka Mathew's character, Bobbie. Is she a paraplegic? –Karl Orth, Aurora, Colo.

A: We assume you're asking if the actress is, and the answer is no. Bobbie's prosthetic leg is for dramatic purposes as part of the character's back story on the TNT medical drama.

Q: What happened to Martha MacCallum on Fox News Channel with Bill Hemmer in the morning? –Jim Weiss, Fort Atkinson, Wis.

A: She's still very much on the network. Lately, she has been substituting for "America Live" host Megyn Kelly, who is on maternity leave, but she should be back with Hemmer on "America's Newsroom" when that stint ends.

Strange BUT TRUE

• It was 20th-century U.S. Attorney General and Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson who made the following sage observation: "The price of freedom of religion or of speech or of the press is that we must put up with, and even pay for, a good deal of rubbish."
• It's common knowledge that Microsoft founder Bill Gates is regularly ranked as one of the world's wealthiest people, but you might not realize that the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation is the world's wealthiest charitable organization, with an endowment of $36.7 billion.
• If you're planning a trip to Iowa anytime soon, you might want to schedule a stop in the town of Walcott. There you can visit the Iowa 80 Truckstop, the world's largest. With a whopping 220 acres, the truck stop is 1.5 times the size of Disneyland.
• In a traditional Hungarian wedding ceremony, the bride wears a headdress made of woven wheat, thought to help ensure the couple's fertility.
• The longest mountain range on Earth is located underwater -- in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean, to be specific. It's nearly 25,000 miles long, and the only part of it that's above water is the nation of Iceland.
• If you are an American of a certain age, you almost certainly spent time watching the 1960s sitcom "I Dream of Jeannie." The iconic bottle where the genie lived wasn't actually created for the show; the set dressers used a Jim Beam holiday decanter from 1964.

• On Aug. 4, 1892, Andrew and Abby Borden are found hacked to death in their Fall River, Mass., home. Daughter Lizzie, later immortalized in a famous rhyme, was arrested and charged with the double homicide. Taken with her Christian persona, the all-male jury acquitted her. Today, the house where the Borden murders occurred is a bed and breakfast.
• On Aug. 5, 1914, the world's first electric traffic signal is put into place on the corner of Euclid Avenue and East 105th Street in Cleveland. It consisted of four pairs of red and green lights that served as stop-go indicators, each mounted on a corner post.
• On Aug. 6, 1928, Andy Warhol, one of the most influential artists of the latter part of the 20th century, is born in Pennsylvania. He took literally the advice of an art teacher who said he should paint the things he liked. He liked ordinary things, such as comic strips, canned soup and soft drinks, and so he painted them.
• On Aug. 2, 1939, Wes Craven, the man responsible for terrorizing millions of moviegoers with his "Nightmare on Elm Street" series, is born in Cleveland. Craven began his directing career with 1972's "The Last House on the Left," a violent teen horror film.
• On Aug. 7, 1947, Kon-Tiki, a balsa wood raft captained by Norwegian anthropologist Thor Heyerdahl, completes a 4,300-mile, 101-day journey from Peru to Raroia in the Tuamotu Archipelago, near Tahiti. Heyerdahl wanted to prove his theory that prehistoric South Americans could have colonized the Polynesian islands by drifting on ocean currents.
• On Aug. 3, 1958, the U.S. nuclear submarine Nautilus accomplishes the first undersea voyage to the geographic North Pole. USS Nautilus, the world's first nuclear submarine, dived at Point Barrow, Alaska, and traveled nearly 1,000 miles under the Arctic ice cap to reach the top of the world.
• On Aug. 1, 1966, Charles Whitman takes a stockpile of guns and ammunition to the observatory platform atop a 300-foot tower at the University of Texas and proceeds to shoot 46 people, killing 14 and wounding 31.

Q: I have an Ernest Borel wristwatch with a spiral design movement. It is from the 1940s or earlier. Is it worth anything as far as selling it is concerned? -- Ellen, Sun City, Ariz.
A: The Ernest Borel watch company was founded in 1859. Some of the more interesting watches manufactured by Borel were the work of Adamir Debrot, a designer who was responsible for many of its innovative technical solutions and original time pieces throughout the 1940s, '50s and '60s. I suspect that the watch you have is one of Debrot's designs. I also think the watch you have is what was marketed as a "Cocktail Watch," which featured a kaleidoscope dial.
That particular dial featured five different patterns, namely flower, sun, arrows, star and wheel. The "Cocktail" was launched in 1953 and soon became one of the most popular designs marketed by the Ernest Borel company. As with most collections, the value of a vintage watch depends on three major factors: rarity, condition and desirability. I contacted several dealers who specialize in vintage watches, and they seem to agree that your watch would retail in the $150 to $350 range.

Q: I have a player piano roll cabinet that has been in my family home for more than half a century. How much do you think it's worth? -- Martha, Ephrata, Pa.
A: Your question is much like asking how much a car is worth. If it is a 1985 Yugo, not so much. On the other hand, if it is a 1934 Packard Roadster, break out the champagne and celebrate your good fortune. Incidentally, the running joke about the Yugo went something like this: Why does a Yugo have a defroster on the rear window? To keep your hands warm while you push it.
Getting back to your question, what is the condition of your cabinet? Is it made of cherry, oak or mahogany? What is its size, and does it have an interesting design? Most player piano cabinets seem to sell in the $75 to $150 range.

Not Just for Birds

It's summer, and it's hot. Birds aren't the only fliers that need clean water. I have seen other creatures with wings, like bees and dragonflies, sipping water from birdbaths. So keep those birdbaths clean and keep that water fresh.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

AUGUST SUN – As August begins, the sun appears in front of the stars of Cancer, drifting a degree a day eastward relative to the stars. The sun moves into the star group Leo in late hours of Aug. 10, where it stays until the early morning hours of Sept. 17. (These dates correspond to the actual star group boundaries, not the dates of the astrological signs.) The star group Virgo can be seen low in the western dusk. On the other side of the sun is the star group Gemini, appearing in the eastern dawn sky. In early August, sunrises in Garrett County are at about 6:20 a.m. while sunsets are at about 8:25 p.m. (14.1 hours of daylight). Around the end of August, Garrett County's sunrises are at about 6:50 a.m. and sunsets occur at about 7:53 p.m. (13 hours of daylight). So during August, the brighter stars are last seen at around 5:30 a.m. (early dawn) and then reappear at about 9:15 p.m. (late dusk).

AUGUST MOON – On the next to last day of July, the moon will swing from the morning to the evening side of the sun (new moon). On Aug. 2, a narrow crescent moon can be seen low in the 9:15 p.m. western dusk. On the next evening, the crescent moon can be seen to left of the planet Saturn. The evening moon appears half full on the evenings of Aug. 5 and 6, offering the best views of its craters and mountain ranges through binoculars or a telescope. The evening moon grows to full on Aug. 13. Unfortunately, the early morning hours of Aug. 13 mark the peak of the Perseid meteor shower, spoiled by the nearly full moon. The Aug. 13 full moon is similar to September's harvest moon, providing extra evening moonlight for the next four nights. On the nights of Aug. 19 and 20, the moon appears near the bright planet Jupiter. when the two objects can be seen low in the east in the last hour of the evening. On Aug. 21, the moon will appear half full in the southern dawn sky. On Aug. 25, the crescent moon will appear to the right of the planet Mars in the 5:30 a.m. southeastern sky. On Aug. 27, the crescent moon will appear above and to the right of the planet Mercury in the 5:30 a.m. southeastern sky. In the last hour of Aug. 28, the moon will swing from the morning to the evening side of the sun. On Aug. 31, the crescent moon will again appear to the left of the planet Saturn low in the 8:30 p.m. western dusk.

AUGUST PLANETS – The five nearest planets are easily seen by eye during the year, four of them shining steadily in contrast to the twinkling stars. (Mercury, only seen close to the horizon, may flicker as heat currents move in front of it.) Saturn can be seen low in the early evening western sky. Well above Saturn is the bright golden star Arcturus. In August, the very bright planet Jupiter is prominent in the southern dawn sky. Below and to the left of Jupiter is the planet Mars. Venus passes in back of the sun in mid August and will not be easy to view for another six weeks. At the end of August, Mercury can be seen low in the eastern dawn.

AUGUST STARS – The Big Dipper is about halfway up in the north-northwest. The two bottom stars of the scoop point rightward to the North Star, a modest star about half-way up in the north. Follow the Big Dipper's handle outward to the bright golden star Arcturus. Further along this same arch is the white-blue star Spica. In the bright white-blue star Vega in the south is the brightest star of the Summer Triangle, passing nearly overhead. On dark, moonless nights, the Milky Way can be seen as dull glow running across the eastern side of the Summer Triangle.

AUGUST PROGRAMS – The Frostburg State Planetarium's Sunday public programs will resume Sept. 11. To receive a Planetarium schedule (or bookmark), persons may telephone 301-687-7799 and give name and mailing address. This bookmark includes a small FSU map showing the Planetarium and the nearby parking areas. Persons may also access the Planetarium section of the Frostburg State web site at www.frostburg.edu/planetarium.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for those who like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards.

READING CLUB "GOES TO GREECE" – The Summer Reading Club at the Accident Library has upwards of 60 children attending each week. Rebecca Beahm, who lived in Athens for 10 years and was there during the 2004 Olympics, recently treated the group to a "trip" to Greece. She greeted the children in Greek and invited them "aboard the plane" to share an adventure in a faraway land. Holding up the globe, she pointed out their destination. When they "landed" in Athens, she told them, "We're going to take a little journey. Here's a ticket for the bus. There are things to see in Athens today." Beahm told the children about the Parthenon, the Greek music, and the food, which she described as wonderful. "They eat fruits, vegetables, and homemade bread every day, and often have fish. And it's so hot in the summertime," she said, "that they eat a lot of watermelon because it's refreshing." She showed the group a story book written in Greek, The Little Tin Soldier, and noted that she knew the artist there who created the illustrations in the book. After the presentation, the children looked at a table of other items Beahm had brought from Greece and then had a treat of watermelon and loukoumi, a Greek candy made by Beahm. Their craft activities were making a mosaic pencil holder and a Greek comedy mask. Summer Reading Club continues through July at the Ruth Enlow Library and is free and open to the public. The theme this year is "One World, Many Stories." Dates and times for events at all branches are available on the web site at www.rellb.net. For questions about programs at the Accident branch, persons may contact Jessica Zimmerman at 301-746-8792 or via e-mail at jessl@rellb.net.

Remembering our Fellow Council Member

Lois J. Kahl

June 28, 1960 – June 16, 2011

Lois was first sworn into office on March 6, 2006, and served consecutive terms until her death on June 16. She chaired several committees throughout her time on council. Whether it was checking out issues concerning town streets or sidewalks, or helping to organize the town's annual Christmas celebration, Lois took her position seriously and carried her responsibilities out to completion. She loved the people she served in the community. Residents could always depend on her to get back to them with an answer and a smile. She commended people for their good work and always said "Thank you." She will be sadly missed by all who served with her and all others who knew and loved her

YOUNGSTERS LEARN HOLIDAY TRADITIONS – Two groups of Summer Reading Club participants recently attended a presentation at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland by Pat Shelton, director of the Overlook Judy Center. In her presentation Shelton asked the children to imagine boarding a plane flying around the world to experience the holiday celebrations of different cultures. The 108 children who attended sang songs, made holiday decorations, played games, and learned numerous traditions. See story for more details.

Young "Travelers" Learn Worldwide Holiday Traditions

Pat Shelton, director of the Overlook Judy Center, recently gave presentations to two groups of Summer Reading Club participants (108 children total) at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. The presentations centered on holiday traditions from several different countries.

"Today you're going to use your imagination and we are going to fly around the world," began the presentations, before Shelton "transported the young travelers" to Mexico, Australia, Japan, and Poland with customized words to the tune of "Jingle Bells."

About Australia, the children learned that Christmas is in the summer and often celebrated at the beach.

"And Santa," said Shelton, "might arrive on a surfboard or a boat." The children danced the Kangaroo Pokey and then "boarded the plane to Mexico," where they heard about La Posada, the nine-day procession to re-enact Mary and Joseph's search for shelter.

While learning about Poland, they sang a song about eating kielbasa and learned about the tradition of making Pysanky, the art of elaborately decorating eggs.

The "last stop" before heading back to the United States was Japan, where Shelton taught the children a song to the tune of "Are You Sleeping?" using Japanese numerals.

After the presentation, the children participated in kangaroo races, where they put on an apron with a pouch for the baby and then hopped. They made Japanese koinobori (windsocks in the shape of carp), which stand for strength and courage and are hung outside the house on Children's Day in Japan. They also decorated hard-boiled eggs in the tradition of Pysanky.

Summer Reading Club concludes tomorrow with its last program at the Ruth Enlow Library in Kitzmiller. Those interested may visit the library's web site at www relib.net.

BOE Member's First Book Sees National Release

Garrett County resident and Board of Education mainstay Rodney Durst recently released his first book, The Wisdom of Fools.

In the work, which is currently available on major retail web sites as well as from downtown Oakland's Book Mark'et, Durst gives his take on the current condition of the American school system, discussing subjects such as prayer in school, evolution, and the "decline of the American family," founding his arguments in scripture and his experiences as an elected member of the Garrett County BOE.

"In an age of political correctness and the fear of offending others, Durst speaks out on a subject that is near to his heart," stated a spokesperson.

"He gives a clear and precise view of what's wrong with America's schools and maintains that the aim of the government is to spawn a generation of humanistic, socialistic, and atheist youth."

Despite laws prohibiting litigation that supports one religion over the other, Durst believes the government has manipulated public school curricula to support a new type of religion he calls "the wisdom of fools—a religion that believes there is no creator and, therefore, no reason to consider morality."

Released by Tate Publishing and Enterprises, the book is available from bookstores nationwide, direct from the publisher at tatepublishing.com/bookstore, or by visiting barnes&noble.com, borders.com, or www.amazon.com.

Durst, who has recently had book signings in Morgantown, W Va., and Hagers-town, is available for lectures and discussions. He can be reached at rldurst.com or at rdurst32@hotmail.com.

WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION
Garrett County

Application for State Discharge Permit 08-DP-1046, NPDES Permit MD0051497:

The Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., Department of Public Utilities, 2008 Maryland Highway, Suite 2, Mt. Lake Park, Maryland 21550, applied for renewal of the permit to discharge an average of 900,000 gallons per day (gpd) of municipal wastewater from the Trout Run Wastewater Treatment Plant (WWTP), located at 1156 Norris Welch Road, Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland 21550, to the Little Youghiogheny River which is designated Use III-P waters protected for the growth and propagation of natural trout and public water supply.

The Department proposes to reissue the discharge permit with the following effluent limitations for existing Outfall 001 for an annual average wastewater flow of 0.9 million gallons per day (mgd): 1) During the period of June 1 through October 31 the allowable wastewater release rate, BOD_5, total suspended solids (TSS), and total Kjeldahl nitrogen (TKN) loading rates shall be dependent upon the Little Youghiogheny River stream flow and the following effluent concentrations: BOD_5, 30 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 45 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; TSS, 30 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 45 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; TKN, 15 mg/l maximum monthly anthmetic mean, 23 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; 2) During the period of November 1 through May 31 the BOD_5, and TSS loading rates are based on a wastewater flow of 0.9 mgd and the following effluent concentrations: BOD_5, 30 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 45 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; TSS, 90 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 3) During the period of January 1 through December 31 the following limits shall be in effect: E. coli, 126 MPN/100 ml maximum monthly geometric mean value, dissolved oxygen 6.0 mg/l minimum daily average, 5.0 mg/l minimum at any time; pH maintained between 6.5 and 8.5; and the discharge of wastewater containing chlorine or chlorine compounds is prohibited; 4) Total Recoverable Copper limits become effective three years after the effective date of the permit that are dependent upon the Little Youghiogheny River stream flow and WWTP wastewater flow during the period of June 1 through October 31 and, during the period of November 1 through May 31, are based on 0.9 mgd wastewater flow and 9.7 ug/l daily average.

The Little Youghiogheny River is on the 303(d) list as impaired waters for total suspended solids, nitrogenous and carbonaceous BOD, fecal coliform, and combination benthic/fishes bioassessments. The State established a Total Maximum Daily Load (TMDL) for nitrogenous and carbonaceous BOD which was approved by the EPA Region III on January 29, 2001. A TMDL for sediment was approved by the EPA on February 7, 2007, and a TMDL for fecal bacteria was approved by the EPA on December 3, 2009. The BOD_5, TSS, TKN, and E. coli limits are in conformance with these TMDLs. When a TMDL for benthic/fishes bioassessments is completed, limits may be imposed, after the public participation process, to incorporate any TMDL requirements.

CHILDREN HELP OTHERS AT TRISTATE FEST – The TriState Festival, Auction, and Cruise-In was a two-day event hosted by volunteers of local Mennonite churches in the new exhibit hall at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The festival's Kids' Activity Center engaged many local children with an auction, hayrides, and the opportunity to create comforters for those without warm blankets, as well as other activities which instructed on helping the less fortunate. For adults, there were Pleasant Valley Dream Rides, the Mountain Top Cruisers Car Show, shopping, and homemade donuts. "This could be a bumper year for the TriState event, with all net proceeds being forwarded to the Mennonite Central Committee, the relief and development arm of the Mennonite and Brethren churches," noted Dale Miller, festival treasurer. The TriState committee has expressed its thanks to all who supported the event through volunteer work, donations, and attendance. Pictured above, Kevin Dodge Garrett College professor, explains to children that their dollars spent at the auction will go to meet the needs of others, much like "a mother bird taking care of her chicks." From the family of
Michael Nair

He loved the concern shown to him by Pastor Scott Rush. The special prayers, love and help from the members of the Brookside Church of the Brethren.

Time spent with special friends Chad Green, Patty Arbigast, Liz Daniels and Debbie Strawser gave him strength.

The Aurora Fire Dept. and Military grave site services were very special and appreciated.

There aren't enough words to express the love shown by the church members and our friends for the food, calls, prayers, flowers and financial support. Everything was greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
Patsy Nair, Mother
Children of Mike

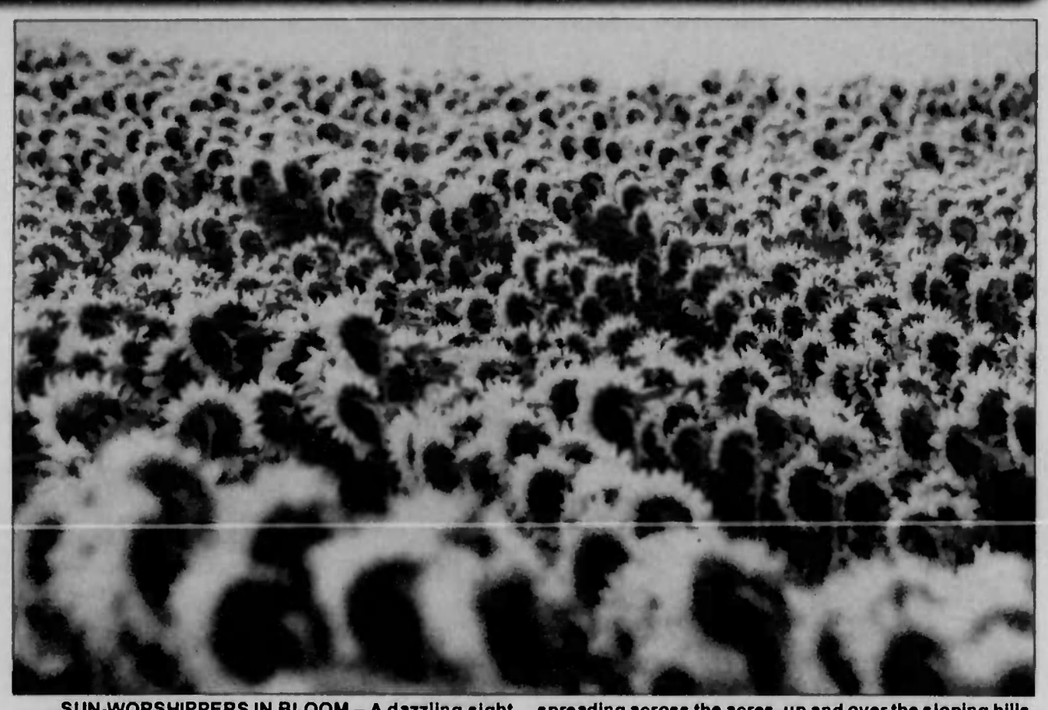
Friendsville Man Sentenced For Drug Possession

A 22-year-old Friendsville man pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court this week to possession of marijuana. Related charges against Nicholas Alan DeWitt were dismissed upon his plea.

Judge Jim Sherbin then sentenced him to three months in the Garrett County Jail, with two months suspended. Following his release, DeWitt will be on probation for one year and will be required to pay court costs of $185.

He was arrested and charged by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in February. The car in which he was a passenger was stopped for a traffic violation. Passengers were removed from the vehicle for a search, and deputies observed DeWitt toss a bag to the ground. When retrieved, the bag was found to contain two smoking pipes and a knife that contained traces of marijuana, the state's attorney noted.



SUN-WORSHIPPERS IN BLOOM – A dazzling sight can be found along the west side of Rt. 219 in Pleasant Valley right now, as thousands of sunflowers have opened their wide faces and turned to the sun. The August warmth seems embodied in the waves of gold, spreading across the acres, up and over the sloping hills. It's but one of so many lovely sights on the mountaintop at this time of the year, as farmers' hard work comes to fruition, and the Earth brings forth its bounty. Photo by Fabian Green.

Garrettland Inc. Fills All 36 Liberty Mews Units In First Month

In the same month that Oakland mayor Peggy Jamison announced the completion of Garrett County Community Action's, new Liberty Mews town homes, all 36 units were filled with new residents through the efforts of the management company Garrettland Inc. A grand opening and dedication was held today at the pavilion of the Glades Community Park.

"Garretland Inc. is noted for its excellence in keeping the 560 units it manages looking great for a lifetime," stated Cindy Sharon, GCCAC director of real estate development.

"Keeping properties beautiful is as important as building them beautifully."

Devlin Inc., which also built the Liberty Square apartment complex adjacent to Liberty Mews, served as the general contractor on the project. During construction, Devlin Inc. was required to work closely with the Low Income Housing Tax Credit Program.

"Douglas Devlin, who designed and supervised the construction for Liberty Mews, raised the bar for workforce housing in the state of Maryland," said Sharon.

The town homes are designed to mimic old world English mews, with appointed private porches and second-level terraces that face a cobblestone laden village courtyard and "carriage" garages.

While the exteriors feature traditional carriage-style lanterns and stone and wood exterior covering, the interiors are characterized by brightly colored great rooms with atrium arched windows and French doors with laminate-wood plank flooring and the modern energy-conserving appliances and lighting.

The Maryland Energy Administration provided funds to assist with the purchase of the Energy Star appliances in the homes. According to a spokesperson, affordable utilities are just as critical as an affordable house payment.

In addition to being Garrett County's first Energy Star rated housing units, the town homes are the country's first lease-to-purchase LIHTC workforce units.

Financing for the development was provided by First United Bank and Trust, the state of Maryland, and the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta.

Liberty Mews LP is the developer, owner and operator of the facility. It is a limited partnership created by the GCCAC for the purpose of developing and managing the project.

"Our mission is to improve the quality of life for Garrett County residents by empowering people in

THE WINNING CONTINUES for archer and Garrett County native Jesse Broadwater, now a resident of Jennerstown, Pa., who returned from a highly successful stint in Yankton, S.D., this week. His trip resulted in two USA Archery National Championship titles, a new world record, a gold medal, and the Easton Award, which is presented to the compound archer placing highest in the USAA National Indoor, USAA National Field, and USAA National Target Championships. To top it all off, he also won a brand new Ford Mustang. The car is the third that Broadwater has won from the National Field Archery Association (NFAA). Hoyt reported that Broadwater has achieved the most successful two weeks ever for any pro shooter. Following his silver-medal performance at the World Championships in Torino, Italy, at the end of July, he traveled to South Dakota, where he took first place in the USAA Field Nationals, first place in the NFAA Field Nationals, first place in the USAA (NAA) Target Nationals, first place in the Hoyt World Open (with a $10,000 prize), and then won the World Outdoor Archery Festival Car Shoot-Off against dozens of pro and amateur shooters. He was also named National Archery Association shooter of the year.

First Whitewater State Championship Slated At Adventure Sports Center Int.

Competitors from around the region will compete in the first ever Maryland Canoe and Kayak State Championships at the Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI), home to the world's only mountaintop whitewater course, on Saturday, Aug. 13, from 4 to 6 p.m.

The championship is part of the 2011 Maryland Canoe and Kayak Series produced by the Bethesda Center of Excellence. BCE is marketed as the nation's premier slalom canoe/kayak training center and is home to two-time Olympic silver medalist Dana Chladek. Chladek is the BCE head coach and will field a team of "young up and coming athletes" at the event.

The state championships will be a first glimpse of whitewater competition at ASCI since it was awarded the International Canoe Federation's 2014 Canoe Slalom World Championships. ASCI won out over bids from Austria and Poland at the April meeting of the ICF held in Paris.

"Deep Creek 2014," the official title of the ICF 2014 Canoe Slalom World Championships, is scheduled for September 17 through 21. The event will also mark the 25th anniversary of the highly successful 1989 Canoe Slalom World Championships held on the Savage River in Garrett County.

Canoe slalom refers to 'decked' or 'covered' whitewater boats which race a series of gates strategically placed over rapids. The four official Olympic disciplines are: single men and women's kayak (where athletes sit in the boat and use a double bladed paddle) and single and double canoe (where athletes kneel in the boat and use a single bladed paddle).

Maryland has historically fielded the nation's most successful slalom athletes, including world champions Jon Lugbill, Davey Hearn, Fritz and Lecky Haller, Cathy Hearn, Dana Chladek and Olympic gold medalist Joe Jacobi. Bill Endicott, who is heralded as the most successful canoe coach in U.S. history, is also based in Maryland. The Maryland State Championships will be the first and only state-level whitewater competition in the country.

The championships will take place on the upper section of the ASCI whitewater course. Each run will last around 100 seconds, and athletes will be required to navigate 20 gates while covering 300 meters of rapids.

The gates are sets of poles hung over the river from a wooden crossbar, which create a meter-wide obstacle through which athletes will paddle. At least six of the gates will require athletes to WORLD'S BEST TO COMPETE AT ASCI – The Adventure Sports Center International, home of the world's only mountaintop whitewater course, is set to host Maryland's first Canoe and Kayak Championships on Saturday, Aug. 13. Competitors from around the region are expected to compete in that event. The state championship is a precursor to the upcoming Deep Creek 2014, the official name given to the 2014 Canoe Slalom World Championships by the International Canoe Federation. In the photo above, Dr. Jay Ditty of Morgantown, W.Va., navigates the whitewater of ASCI in a recent slalom canoe event. See story for more details.

Parking Lot Will Be Ready For Fair Week, Says Roads Department Superintendent

The Garrett County Roads Department has been busy working on the parking lot area at the fairgrounds in McHenry, general roads superintendent Jay Moyer indicated during a departmental update report for the county commissioners on Tuesday. He also reviewed paving projects and discussed adoption of an entrance permit policy with the officials.

"The bottom line is that the parking lot will be ready for use the week of the fair," Moyer said. "So that should squelch any rumors that the fair is going to be canceled because the parking lot is not ready."

A five-acre area was excavated for the lot, with about 18 inches of top soil removed. A local contractor then donated 12,000 cubic yards of suitable sub-base material and approximately 2,000 cubic yards of Grizzly base stone was laid over the area.

About 2,000 cubic yards of CR6 stone will be spread over the parking lot prior to the 55th annual Garrett County Agriculture Fair, scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 13, through Saturday, Aug. 20.

In addition, 27 bases were installed for future lighting and five storm water collection inlets were constructed.

"There's definitely a lot of work yet to be done," Moyer noted.

After the fair, his department will pave the lot with about 4,000 tons of surface course asphalt sometime late this fall or early spring. The new entrance and acceleration/deceleration lanes will be paved, and a new chain link fence will be installed next year.

Including work being done by contractors, Verizon, and others, Moyers anticipates that the parking lot project should be completed by late spring/early summer 2012, weather permitting.

Commissioner Gregan Crawford commended Roads Department crews for their work at the fairgrounds during the last couple of years.

"You've had weather delays along the way to contend with, plus all your other host of normal activities," said Commissioner Gregan Crawford. "This is a major undertaking."

The previous board of commissioners had allocated about $900,000 for the project. Commissioner Jim Raley asked if it were "on target" expensewise.

"We're under the budget right now," Moyer said, adding, however, that could change by the time the project is completed. "There are a lot of variables that play into that. The main one is the cost of materials."

Those include binders and fuel surcharges associated with asphalt purchases. Currently, a ton of asphalt costs about $70, including the surcharges. Moyer noted that price could rise or fall, depending upon the market price of crude oil, bringing the project over or under budget.

The superintendent also reviewed road paving work.

"We began our spring paving projects in May," Moyer said.

Those completed are as follows: Smouse Road, 2.2 miles, at a cost of $190,000; Pysell Road, 1.2 miles, $110,085; Fratz Street, $20,376; Church Hill Road, $89,174; and Savage River Road, 6 miles, $463,187. Moyer noted that half of the funding for the Savage River project came from his department's fiscal year 2011 budget, with the remainder coming out of the FY 2012 budget.

Also recently paved were 1.5 miles of Red Oak and Kempton roads at a cost of $175,000. Moyer noted that Synergics gave the county a check for $185,000 for the paving because of damages that were done to the roads while the company was constructing its Roth Rock wind turbines.

Also on the paving schedule are Underwood Road, 6 miles, $600,000; Lake Shore Drive, which may not be done until next spring; and the fairgrounds parking lot. Moyer noted there is $1.584 million left in his paving budget.

MSP Seeking Info On Stolen Handgun

Maryland State Police are investigating the theft of a handgun from a vehicle that was parked at a Deer Park residence.

Interim Superintendent Presents School Facts, Figures To Garrett County Officials

Interim school superintendent Sue Waggoner presented an update report on Garrett County schools to the county commissioners on Tuesday. She presented a wide variety of facts and figures pertaining to past and upcoming school years in such areas as pupil services, finance, transportation, food service, and special education.

"Engaging Students to Reach Their Potential" is this year's theme, Waggoner noted. With that in mind, local teachers, principals, and other personnel have been preparing for the upcoming session, which begins on Aug. 24.

She noted that nearly 6,000 educators from across the state recently participated in a staff development academy at Mountain Ridge High School in Frostburg. More than 60 local Board of Education employees took part in that event, including principals, office personnel, and reading and math teachers.

The BOE will hold an "academy" for new principals on Aug. 9 and 10 and an orientation for new teachers on Aug. 17. Waggoner noted that there are 10 new hires for fiscal year 2012. But a total of 29 positions have been eliminated: 19 at the elementary level, four middle school, five high school, and one central office staff member.

In addition to human resources, Waggoner presented facts in the following areas:

Pupil Services

• Character Education programing has had a positive effect on local schools, according to Waggoner. A local school is recognized annually by the state; the 2011 school was Yough Glades Elementary.

• Total enrollment this year (FY '12) is expected to be 3,945, which is a loss of 139 students compared to the last school year.

Finance

• With regard to Garrett County per pupil wealth, it is estimated that the county's

Dove Center's 10th Walk-A-Thon Attracts More Than 50, Raises $8K

The Dove Center held its 10th annual walk-a-thon on July 23. The event was titled "Walk a Mile in Her Shoes," and involved 53 walking participants and many others in attendance. The walkers raised more than $8,000, which will go toward aid for victims of domestic violence and sexual assault in Garrett County.

Participants included several 4-H members who banded together for a second year to help raise funds for the walk-a-thon. Additionally, Alyssa Rounds, Haylee Baer, and Allie Shumaker, representing the 13th annual Western Maryland Truck Show, assisted Dove Center staff and volunteers with activities at the event.

All of those in attendance were entertained by live music provided by Scott Alexander, as well as by Southern High School Band director Josh Elmlinger and several members of the Southern High School Marching Band. DJ services were provided by Jimmy B.

First, second, and third place prizes were awarded for both adult and child fundraisers. First place adult and child fundraisers were Ron Umbel and Laina Holler, respectively. Second place adult and child fundraisers were Cindy Schlossnagle and Madi Hanline, and third place went to Amanda Murphy and Emilia Germain.

The Dove Center is a private, non-profit agency that provides a hot-line, counseling, shelter, accompaniment, and advocacy services for victims of domestic violence and sexual assault. For more information about this agency, persons may call 301-334-9000, or visit the web site at www.garrettdovecenter.org.

MEA Authorizes Additional $850K In Home Rebates

Lt. Gov. Anthony G. Brown announced this morning that the Maryland Energy Administration (MEA) has authorized an additional $850,000 in funding for the Home Performance Rebate program. The program offers a 35% rebate (up to $3,100 total) toward qualifying home efficiency upgrades, which combined with the existing rebates of 15% provided by Maryland utilities, allows Marylanders to reduce the cost of upgrading their homes by as much as half.

The rebate program, launched earlier this year, has spurred nearly $3 million of private investment in home energy efficiency upgrades in seven months, according to a spokesperson. The additional funds announced today are expected to drive more than $1.5 million in additional investment in energy efficient home improvements.

"Governor O'Malley and I are focused on efforts to protect our natural resources and make Maryland a leader in energy innovation," said Brown. "By investing in home energy efficiency, we are helping Marylanders save money through lower electricity bills, protecting our environment through reduced energy demand, and stimulating millions of dollars in private investment in our growing innovation economy."

The announcement came as Brown toured a home in University Park currently undergoing upgrades made possible through the program, and viewed demonstrations of various efficiency upgrade techniques.

To date, the Maryland Home Performance Rebate program, funded entirely by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, has been utilized by nearly 1,000 Marylanders to upgrade their homes with an average rebate of $1,529. The additional $850,000 also stems from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, and was made available due to savings in administrative costs.

"I would like to thank Maryland's Congressional Delegation for making these additional funds, and the entire rebate program, possible through their support for the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act," said Brown.

The Home Performance Rebate program can be used to hire a Maryland Home Performance contractor to complete a number of qualifying home energy efficiency upgrades, including: whole-house air sealing; duct replacement; and insulation of walls, attics, crawl spaces, and basements.

"Each of these upgrades will help to keep homes more comfortable in extreme weather, and save homeowners money by lowering their energy bills throughout the life of the investment," Brown said.

"In addition to the up to 50% rebate, individuals who need assistance in financing a home energy efficiency investment may be able to take advantage of unsecured home energy improvement loans for up to $20,000 at 6.99%. Loans for high efficiency equipment, such as air conditioners or water heaters, are also available at 9.99%. The loans are being offered by the Maryland Clean Energy Center, with grant support

Unfair and Illogical...

When schools open in Garrett County in a few weeks, there will be around 140 fewer students than there were in the system tltis past school year, and that means bad news for the GC Board of Education, the county commissioners, and the county in general.

The amount of state funding that is received by the board of education is based upon a student per capita formula; that is, we receive X number of dollars per student in the system. So obviously, the number of students is in direct proportion to the level of funding from the state. The fewer the students, the less money received. In real numbers, a drop of 140 students equates to a loss of about $2.4 million.

At first glance, basing the number of dollars on the number of students may seem like a fair and logical approach; however, a closer look reveals how unfair and illogical it is.

The major flaw is that a relatively small reduction in the number of students typically results in minimal savings of money. Example: Let's say that a teacher has a class of 25 students one year, and then because of a drop in the overall county student population, the next year she has 23 students in her class. That begs the question "Where is the savings?" The board cannot simply do away with her job, or cut her pay in proportion to the number of students in her class. The bus hauling those 30 kids one year is not going to save one nickel when it hauls 28 kids the next year. The schools still have to be heated and cooled, regardless of the student population. There would be no savings in lighting. The school will need just as many custodians.

There would be a wee bit of savings in textbook purchases (assuming new books were purchased that year, which is a relatively rare occurrence), and some pennies from the cost of one or two fewer toilet flushes per day But there is simply no way that $2.4 million can be saved when there are 140 fewer students in the entire school system.

On top of this dilemma, it was learned this week that Garrett County's standing in the state's so-called "wealth rankings" may go from 7th among Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City to 5th wealthiest. Talk about a flawed formula!

It is sincerely hoped that our state elected officials, particularly Senator George Edwards and Delegate Wendell Beitzel, will begin work now to craft some legislation to address this problem, to change how the state makes such ridiculous funding determinations. The current system is both illogical and unfair Garrett County, and particularly the board of education, just finished up an extremely difficult budgetary process coming into the current fiscal year, and it appears that meeting our educational needs next year is going to be even far more challenging.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

To the God-fearing, pure-hearted letter writer of 07/28/11, I don't believe you have researched the Bible for any biblical texts to condemn God's lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender children. You tried to present your personal views as the word of God. You should try reading the Bible before you try to rewrite it.

Obviously, you have never given attention to what the Bible does or doesn't say about homosexuality. For your information:

A) Jesus says nothing about same-sex behavior

B) The Jewish prophets are also silent about homosexuality.

However, here are a few examples regarding the laws of sexual conduct, which are actually contained in the Bible:

• Deuteronomy 22:13-21 – If it is discovered that a bride is not a virgin, the Bible demands that she be executed by stoning immediately.

• Mark 10:1-12 – Divorce is strictly forbidden in both Testaments, as is remarriage of anyone who has been divorced.

• Leviticus 18:19 – The Bible forbids a married couple from having sexual intercourse during a woman's period. If they disobey, both shall be executed.

• Mark 12:18-27 – If a man dies childless, his widow is ordered by biblical law to have intercourse with each of his brothers in turn until she bears her deceased husband a male heir.

Wow! Garrett County would be a different place today if we only held ourselves to those Biblical laws. Those were the good old days; didn't even need lawyers.

Over the centuries the Bible has been misused to defend bloody crusades and tragic inquisitions; to support slavery, apartheid, and segregation; to persecute Jews and other non-Christian people of faith; to support Hitler's Third Reich and the Holocaust; to oppose medical science; to condemn interracial marriage; to execute women as witches; and to support the Ku Klux Klan.

I have a different interpre-

[illegible] tells the history of God's love at work – reseuing, renewing, and empowering humankind. It was never intended to be a book about human sexuality.

You paint yourself as a "God-fearing and pure-hearted person." I don't think so! It is you who is "spreading untruths." I think you are a small-minded homophobe misusing the Bible for reasons only known to you.

Remember, you are part of the problem or part of the solution!

The McCain family reunion is being held in Oakland this weekend. In an effort to show all those in attendance around this town that we love, we created an Amazing Race activity modeled after the popular TV show. You will see six teams of five touring through town in blue shirts that read "Amazing Race Oakland, McCain Family Reunion 2011."

The participants will be trying to find clues that will lead them to spots around Oakland that have family significance or that are just iconic places that we want to share with them. They will need to ask questions and get help from the townspeople to solve the clues. Please help them if you can, as we have told them that the best part of Oakland is the people!

We would like to give a special thanks to the area businesses, churches, schools, and agencies that have agreed to help out by being race locations. Thanks to Englander's, the Book Mark'et, Sugar and Spice Bakery, St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Crellin Elementary School, Glade View Dairy, Adventure Sports Center, the Discovery Center, Swallow Falls State Park, Broadford Park, and the Mtn. Fresh Market.

We look forward to having three generations of our family from all over the United States come and enjoy a morning of fun in our home town. Thank you in advance for your hospitality, and be on the lookout for those blue shirts between 9:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. this Saturday morning.

Sincerely,
Joy (McCain) Ridenour

To the Editor:

August 26 has been dubbed National Dog Day, but whatever you call it, it's a great time to thank our canine companions for their unconditional love by taking them for a long, leisurely walk. Follow these tips to make your hike a delight for your dog:

1. Put away your cell phone, switch off your iPod, and pay attention to what your dog is doing, so you don't yank him along while he's relieving himself.

2. Give your dog plenty of time to sniff the fire hydrants and bushes – this is how dogs get their "news."

3. If your dog is friendly, let her socialize with other friendly dogs you meet along the way.

4. Always use a harness (never a choke or prong collar) to avoid injuring your dog's neck and to ease the strain on your arm.

5. Take care in hot weather – dogs can't cool themselves as efficiently as humans can, and they are wearing fur coats. Make sure the pavement is cool, and never jog with dogs on hot days.

He and the commissioners also discussed the county's entrance permit policy The Roads Department has denied a local couple an entrance permit to their recently purchased property along Boy Scout Road because of the current speed limit, stopping sight distance, and other safety issues.

The couple did not realize there would be a problem getting a driveway permit when they bought the land. They recently met with the commissioners and Moyer in an attempt to resolve the issue. Following that event, the superintendent, commissioners, county attorney, and county administrator met to discuss the matter and legal ramifications associated with granting the permit.

Moyer was asked to come up with an addendum to the "County Specifications and Conditions for Entrances and Culverts" that offers property owners some type of recourse for getting a permit if the Roads Department denies them one.

The superintendent presented the following proposed amendment to the commissioners this week: "If an entrance permit fails to pass inspection, due to speed concerns, traffic volume, or sight distance issues, the applicant has a right to hire a licensed engineer, at their own expense, to determine if a change to existing conditions is justified for allowing the permit to then be modified and approved. The county reserves the right to approve or deny a permit based on these findings.

Crawford favored adopting the amendment as presented, but Raley and Commissioner Bob Gatto wanted to discuss the issue further.

Raley noted that hiring an engineer would cost property owners about $5,000. They could be out all that money and still not have a permit. He suggested establishing an appellate process for those who have been denied a permit.

Crawford noted the proposed amendment does offer property owners some recourse and states that the county reserves the right to approve or deny a permit based on the engineer's findings.

"So, up front, before they ever spend their money, they know it's a gamble," Crawford said about the county granting a permit "It's a case-by-case situation."

Moyer also pointed out that a property owner's engineer may find something that the county's engineers overlooked and a permit might, indeed, be granted.

"It's hard to say no, a lot of times you don't want to," Moyer added about granting a permit. "But it's a liability issue, and, as we discussed before, a safety issue."

Raley said his concern was that there are potentially thousands of lot owners who may not know they will not be able to get a permit.

"I'm very concerned at this point that this thing could grow and mushroom a lot more than what we realize once we start to realize how many nonbuildable lots there are out there now that people have purchased," Raley said.

He suggested that the issue be discussed further with the county attorney.

"Let's make sure we do this right," Raley said about adopting a entrance permit amendment/establishing an appellate process.

The commissioners' next public meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 23, beginning at 4 p.m. In addition to minutes from public sessions, the current commission board's administrative sessions' are available online at co.garrett.md.us.

She is also the mother of Tom Riley, Martinsburg, W.Va.; Dottie Phillips, Hixson, Tenn.; Steve Riley, Joppa; and Doug and Judy, deceased. She also has 17 grandchildren and 32 great-grandchildren. Md. Wins Nat'l Competitive Grant To Increase College Completion

Gov. Martin O'Malley announced yesterday that Maryland has won a $1 million award from the Complete College America Completion Innovation Challenge.

A national organization that works with states to boost college completion, Complete College America established the grant competition to support state-level efforts. Governors from all 50 states were invited to submit proposals to win one of only 10 $1 million Complete College America grants.

Ultimately, 33 states submitted proposals, and the winners were chosen based on which states proposed the most innovative, high-impact initiatives.

"It is more important than ever to ensure that Marylanders earn their degrees," said O'Malley. "This grant award will go a long way toward helping our state's higher education institutions implement strategies to eliminate barriers to completion and help students get the degrees they need to compete and win in the new economy."

Maryland's winning grant proposal focused on two key projects aimed at increasing the number of Marylanders who complete associate and bachelor's degrees. The Developmental Math Course Redesign Project will transform remedial and developmental mathematics courses, particularly at community colleges and historically black institutions, so that many more students can move onto college-level mathematics in a timely manner.

Research shows that remedial mathematics serves as a major roadblock to students completing their degrees. The ADAPTS (Associate's Degree Award for Pre-Degree Transfer Students) Project will help students obtain their associate degree if they transfer to a four-year institution before receiving that degree. Currently, more than 500 Marylanders earn their associate's degree after they transfer from a community college to a four-year college or university.

The grant will be administered by the Maryland Higher Education Commission (MHEC) with a CCA state team that includes representatives from the Governor's Office, the University System of Maryland, Morgan State University, St. Mary's College of Maryland, the Maryland Association of Community Colleges, and the Maryland State Department of Education.

O'Malley has set a statewide attainment goal that, by 2025, at least 55 percent of the state's residents age 25-64 will hold at least one degree. In addition, the state has joined a number of national policy initiatives that support Maryland's state-specific goals, and partnerships with Complete College America, the Lumina Foundation, and the National Governors Association's Complete to Compete Initiative.

Tax Credit Apps. Available From Historical Trust

The Maryland Historical Trust (MHT), the state's lead agency for historic preservation, is accepting applications until Aug. 31, 2011 from commercial projects for the Sustainable Communities Tax Credit Program for Fiscal Year 2012.

The Sustainable Communities Tax Credit program provides state income tax credits for the rehabilitation of existing buildings, both historic and non-historic, within designated areas throughout Maryland. Qualifying, income-producing properties can apply for the program.

"Visitors to Maryland spent over $13 billion each of the last two years, helping to create and save over 134,000 jobs across the state," said Gov Martin O'Malley. "The Maryland Heritage Area Program's targeted investments preserve and enhance the distinctive natural areas, rich culture traditions, and historic sites that so many of our visitors come to enjoy I congratulate Maryland's 12 Certified Heritage Areas and their heritage tourism partners on these awards that will develop and promote heritage sites and activities, support heritage tourism businesses and organizations across our state, and contribute to a Smart, Green and Growing Maryland.

"The investments we make in our existing communities today significantly influence their economic prosperity and sustainability in the future," O'Malley added. "The Sustainable Communities Tax Credit program assures the revitalization of towns

by Tiffany Yoder

Although there are many different practices and styles of yoga, generally speaking, it is the "art and science of being mindful of the present moment, without introducing negative emotions and thoughts." Continually practicing yoga helps build focus and concentration, and allows participants to reconnect with their true nature.

Yoga helps relieve aches and pains and conditions that make it hard to be still and steady. Practicing yoga over an extended period of time accumulates different benefits. Many find that they no longer have old aches and pains, and they have more range of motion, more energy, they sleep through the night, and find some symptoms of chronic conditions less severe. Participants find more contentment in life.

Over time, our sitting and standing habits or repetitive motions can make the body forget how to relax. These habits create structural discord, and we ignore minor aches and pams until they become chronic aches and pains. Practicing yoga reignites strength, balance, and flexibility. Yoga practices "mindful exercising," in which participants "focus on breathing, sensations, thoughts, and the sense of being in the moment " Many individuals find after participating in a yoga class an immediate sense of tranquility and a reduced depressive mood and state of anxiety Adults with chronic conditions find a sense of perceived improvement in physical and mental health, social relationships, and general health.

Practicing yoga with exercise programs such as strength training, stretching, bicycling, walking, aerobics, and swimming creates a well-rounded lifestyle. For more sedentary older adults, yoga itself can provide the balance of movement and introspection that allows them to feel more vibrant and connected.

All are invited to join the Flowery Vale Center's yoga class in Accident on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. For more information, persons may call 301-746-8050.

This project promotes the Garrett County Community Action Committee strategy of providing older adults with lifelong learning opportunities.

THINGS WE DIDN'T SAY
by Kristina Riggle
C. 2011, William Morrow, $14.99; 341 Pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

You've heard of this before, but it's the first time it's happened to you: The silence is almost touchable.

The fight was three days ago, but your spouse is still communicating in grunts. Your teenager, who could never be called chatty on a good day, is using shrugs as speech, and your youngest is following suit. Even the dog is skulking around.

Sure, there were words you regret, and you're sure the other members of your household are thinking the same, but you're at an impasse. As you'll see in the new novel Things We Didn't Say by Kristina Riggle, words kept silent are often more harmful than those that escape.

Edna Leigh Casey had her bags packed. Casey didn't want to leave, but things hadn't been good for so long that "good" was a distant memory.

Once upon a time she knew that Michael loved her. She was overjoyed when he asked her to move in with him and his kids, and though she wasn't much older than his oldest daughter, Casey thought they made a good family

But Angel was only sneering at Casey these days, something Casey could chalk up to being a teenager if it weren't for the fact that Angel had found and read Casey's journal. Venting, frustrated, Casey had written some privately harsh things

Dylan, on the edge of teenager-hood, had usually been Casey's buddy, but he was clearly not happy. Even Jewel, still just a little girl, was affected by this drama.

Once upon a time, Casey dreamed of having a baby with Michael. She was going to make a great stepmother, an even better Mommy. It would be a rosy future as long as Michael never learned about her past.

There was once upon a time when Michael was married to Mallory, who often spun out of control, and their fights were epic. Part of Mallory's problem, Michael knew, was alcohol, and once he came home ahd found her high. She was pregnant with Angel then, and he was horrified.

Michael vowed that he would never get involved with a

SHIRLEY L. McFARLAND

Shirley Louise McFarland, 77, Grantsville, died Monday, Aug. 1, 2011, at her home after a courageous battle with cancer.

Born Aug. 8, 1933, in Uniontown, Pa., she was a daughter of the late Porter and Oma (Victor) LaClair. She was also preceded in death by her husband, Chester; one daughter, Lois Pope; one son, Ronald; one brother, James LaClair; and one sister, Elizabeth Stearns.

Shirley stood by her husband Chester's side as they embarked on the venture of a lifetime. They opened Hill Top Fruit Market in 1958. Shortly after, they opened the Fruit Bowl in the Narrows, and the Farmers Market in Oakland. She was the driving force behind the addition of Candyland to the business.

She always had an idea or contribution for the business. In the early years, she could be seen at Hill Top Fruit Market working hard to make the business succeed. Later, she worked right along with her employees at the Fruit Bowl.

Until her death; she was a mainstay in the business. Shirley was a quiet, reserved woman with a "no nonsense" attitude that she carried until her death. She often thought of others before herself, providing support when needed.

She enjoyed the simple things in life – a good meal, a quiet evening, her flower garden, and her homes here and in Arizona. She spent many good times both here and in Arizona in the company of one of her closest friends, Betty Jo Swauger.

She is survived by 10 children, sons Kenneth "Pete" McFarland and wife Denise, Grantsville, and Jim McFarland and wife Melanie, Frostburg, and daughters Ambra Kay Dolan and husband Robert, Accident, Mary Shelley-Paul and husband Dalton, Grantsville, Joyce Lynn Kamp and husband Gregg, Lonaconing, Linda Sue Carr and husband Verlyn "Dutch," Accident, Barbara Jean Parrill and husband Roger, Paw Paw, W.Va., Terri Lee Wiley and husband Chuck, Frostburg, Peggy Jo Kamp and husband Mervin, Grantsville, and Ellen "Sandi" Carey and husband Darin, Frostburg; two sisters, Darlene LaClair, Uniontown, and Joyce Hunt, Michigan; one brother, Porter LaClair, Frostburg; 26 grandchildren; and 30 great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville, where a service was conducted today, Aug. 4, with the Rev. William Ferguson officiating.

Interment was held in Hopwood Cemetery, Hopwood, Pa.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the American Cancer Society, the Schwab Cancer Center at WMHS, or Hospice of Garrett County.

The Arts

AUTHENTIC JAZZ AND SWING will be heard at the Little Yough Summer Music Festival this Friday, Aug. 5, at 7 p.m. at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion in Oakland. "The Boilermaker Jazz Band has a wide repertoire that can make an audience swing to a classic jazz standard, get sentimental over an old-time ballad, boogie to a hot jump tune, or get low-down with a gritty blues," said a spokesperson. Leading the group on clarinet and vocals will be Paul Cosentino, a full-time bandleader/performer who founded the band in 1988 at Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh, Pa. The band has performed at major festivals, concert halls, ballrooms, colleges, and clubs throughout the world, including the Lincoln Center in New York City, the Edinburgh International Festival in Scotland, and the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. Admission to the performance is free. Those attending the performance may want to bring lawn chairs or blankets, as seating is limited. Food vendors will be set up at 6 p.m.

While a student at Preston High School, Kingwood, Mabel was stricken with a rare but aggressive form of breast cancer at age 15 and subsequently had to undergo several surgeries and 52 consecutive weeks of chemotherapy. In the photo above, Mabel (left) gains strength and encouragement from Ingrid, a little girl also receiving chemo treatments, and who Mabel referred to has her "little angel." Ingrid is portrayed by Athena Shaffer. Reservations for the show can be made online at www.totltheatre.org or by telephone at 304-680-1002. TOTL is a non-profit organization that receives some funding via grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and Maryland State Arts Council.

Caroline Stahl To Give Vocal Recital At Garrett

Caroline Stahl, Accident, will offer a vocal recital in the Garrett College auditorium on Tuesday, Aug. 9, at 7 p.m.

A 2004 graduate of Northern High School, Stahl earned an associate's degree in general studies from Garrett College in 2006, and will be graduating from West Virginia University this December with a bachelor's degree in music education. She is both a vocalist and a euphonium player.

While at Garrett College under the instruction of Gerald McGee, she was involved several vocal performances and played euphonium in the Garrett Community Concert Band. Presently Stahl is the brass and marching instructor at Northern High School for the second consecutive summer.

The singer will perform classical works by Georges Bizet, Franz Schubert, Hugo Wolf, Giuseppe Verdi, Charles Gounod, and Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, as well as jazz pieces by Cy Coleman, Louis Jordan, and Bert Kaempfert. The recital will conclude with a musical theatre piece by Zina Goldrich.

The recital is free and open to the public.

Triptych Piano Trio To Perform At Great Hall

Music at Penn Alps will present the Triptych Piano Trio, performing in the Great Hall at Penn Alps on Saturday, August 6, at 7:30 p.m. The musicians are Sonya Hayes, John McCrary, and Barbara Brown.

Triptych was founded in 2009 by McCrary and Hayes as the trio in residence for Blessed Sacrament Catholic Community and as A Joyful Noise. A Joyful Noise was created by Hayes and McCrary to bring quality music education on string instruments to the schools in the Diocese of Arlington. Brown joined the group in September 2010. The trio performs around the metropolitan Washington area and forms the core of the Blessed Sacrament Festival Orchestra.

McCrary has served as director of music at Blessed Sacrament Catholic Community since 1998. Prior to moving to Alexandria, Va., he played an active part in the Richmond musical community for over a decade. He holds a master's degree in piano performance from Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, and a bachelor's degree in piano performance from Virginia Commonwealth University. McCrary maintains a private studio and performs as a soloist, chamber player, and accompanist throughout the Washington, D.C., area.

Hayes began playing the violin at the age of 3. She earned a master's degree in violin performance from Catholic University. She has performed as soloist with the National Symphony, the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, and recently with the Indianapolis Philharmonic and the Prince George's Philharmonic.

Brown is a distinguished cellist in the Washington/Baltimore area. She served with the Kennedy Center Opera House Orchestra for seven years, and has played with the Washington Chamber Symphony, Wolf Trap Opera, and Concert Artists of Baltimore. She has held the principal chair in both the National Gallery and Baltimore Opera orchestras. She holds a master of music degree from the University of Maryland, where she was awarded the Guarneri Quartet Fellowship.

The program will feature the Andante con moto in c minor by Grieg, Faure's Trio in d minor, Op. 120, and the Trio in C Major, Op. 87, by Brahms.

After the concert, all are invited for refreshments and an opportunity to meet the artists. Ticket prices are $12 for adults. Students and children under 19 years of age are admitted free of charge. As seating is limited, it is recommended that guests arrive no later than 7:20 p.m.

Music at Penn Alps is supported in part by grants from the Naylor Family Trust, administered by the Community Trust Foundation of Western Maryland. This performance is sponsored by the Scarpelli family.

TO PERFORM AT ALPINE LAKE – Cello Fury, a cello trio gaining national recognition, will perform at the Alpine Lake Lodge this Saturday, Aug. 6, at 7:30 p.m. The group performs a unique style of music, which is a fusion of classical and rock. "Cello Fury is a rarity in the music world: three classically trained cellists performing high-energy original music in venues ranging from concert halls to rock clubs in the U.S. and abroad," said one critic. "Appealing to a wide audience – from kids to adults, metal-heads to classical music lovers – sets Cello Fury apart from your average rock band." The group, which began as a cover band of four cellists in 2004 called Cellofourte, has played with the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, on television and radio, and it was chosen as one of Skope Magazine's "Artists to Watch" in February of this year. Tickets for this Saturday's concert, which cost $10, will be available at the door. The Alpine Lake Lodge (700 W. Alpine Drive, Terra Alta, W.Va.) is located off Rt. 7 just east of Terra Alta, about 20 minutes west of Oakland. The program is sponsored by the Alpine Learning Program of the Alpine Lake community. More information is available by calling 304-789-5927 or 304-789-6022. For info on other upcoming programs, persons are invited to go online to www.alpinelake.com and look for Alpine Learning Program in the scrolling news box.

The GCCAC relies on Rodcheaver and Associates for audit services, and Duane Yoder, GCCAC president, has credited the vision of former mayor Asa McCain, along with current mayor Jamison and the town of Oakland, in making the workforce housing a reality.

Humane Society's "Dog-Gone" Event Deemed A Success

The Garrett County Humane Society has deemed its recent Dog-Gone FUNdraiser a success. President Lisa Baker noted that the annual event drew in many animal lovers to enjoy the day's many activities, despite the 90 degree weather

This year's fundraiser was held in memory of Dee Dee Clatterbuck Lohr, a GCHS member who died suddenly this spring.

"She was a valuable member of our group, dedicating hours of her time and energy responding to over 350 animal neglect calls last year," Baker said. "Dee Dee was truly dedicated to the welfare of animals and her 'job,' even though she was a volunteer."

The fundraiser's Benefit Dog Walk had 10 dogs entered, bringing in over $800 in pledges. Once again Charlotte, a standard poodle owned by Lydia Reiser of Oakland, took first place with her $400+ in pledges. Charlotte and her owner received a new leash, dog toy, and a portrait package donated by Caroline Blizzard of Hawks Flight Studio.

Second place went to Smokey, a boxer owned by Stewart Holt of Friendsville, who raised $100. They received a $50 Uno's gift card and dog toy.

The third place winner, Lexi, a black Lab owned by Diane Caldwell of Oakland, raised $50. They received a $25 First United Bank gift card and dog toy

The Meet-the-Breed area and parade offered attendees the chance to see and learn about more than 35 varieties of canines.

The popular Canine Costume Contest had eight entries. The judges were Sheldon and Carol Green and Jane Avery. Smokey, a black Lab recently adopted from the local animal shelter by Robin Mangold, took first place in his cow costume, complete with udders. He and his owner won a brush, dog toy, and a $20 certificate from Smiley's Pizzeria.

Second place went to Bonnie, a mini poodle, dressed as a hippie. She and her owner, Cindy Ringler, received a $10 Archie's Barbeque gift card and a dog toy.

Dressed as a fairy, third place went to Teagan, an Irish wolfhound owned by Susan Hertz. They received a $10 Trader's Coffee House gift card and a dog toy.

The day finished up with a large silent auction and a Garrett County Sheriff's Office K-9 demonstration presented by Deputy Meyers and Branco.

The raffle ticket winners were Karrie Kordyban, $500; Peggy Jamison, $250, and Amanda Klotz, $100.

"The GCHS would like to thank everyone who donated or helped with the event," Baker said. "The Sheriff's Office inmate work crew helped to set up and tear down the stuff, which was a great help to us. Thank you to Science Diet for the goody bags and to everyone who sold or bought a raffle ticket. We are thankful to such a supportive group of people. Hope to see you in July 2012."

The GCHS is the only organization in Garrett County that responds to animal neglect reports, Baker noted.

Though the society is volunteer, it still needs funds to pay veterinary bills and its animal control officer expenses, she added. Along with accepting private donations and having donation-collection cans at various businesses, the group holds various fundraisers through the year

Last year, the GCHS donated more than $30,000 to the animal community and prosecuted several serious animal neglect cases, according to Baker

Oaks Topple Powerhouse, Ready To Play Titans For Championship

The Oakland Oaks took two from West Virginia Powerhouse Sunday at Garrett College after Billy Reams belted a two-run home run in the 11th inning of the first game and Tommy Reams' RBI triple drove in the only run of the second. The wins advance the Oaks to next week's Pen-Mar championship series against the Tri-State Titans.

In the opener, Oakland trailed 4-1, but scored four runs in the top of the eighth inning to take a one-run advantage. West Virginia, however, tied it at 5-5 with a run in the bottom of the same inning. The score remained tied until Billy Reams' blast gave Oakland a three-run surge and allowed Tyler Barnett to close it out for the 8-5 victory.

Tommy Reams had two hits, including a triple. Patrick Sines and Jason Ashby had doubles for Oakland. Mike Twigg had a base hit and a solo home run in the sixth inning. Norm Hall had two base hits and T.M. Frye added a double. Ronnie Loy tallied a base hit.

In the second game, Reams' second inning RBI triple was the only run Oakland would need as Ashby, with eight strikeouts, limited West Virginia to just two hits—singles by Justin Combs and Nick Campanelli.

Reams also had a base hit as did Barnett and Corey Helbig.

Twigg struck out eight in six innings for Powerhouse, which finished its season 11-6.

Madigan's Falls In Game Three Of Title Series

With its best-of-three Hot Stove League baseball series tied 1-1 on Saturday, Madigan's Auto Sales fell in game three, 7-4, and had its hopes for the American West Division title dashed by the Cresaptown Eagles.

Madigan's opened the game with a three-run first and held its lead until the bottom of the third, when Cresaptown took the lead for the first time, scoring four runs. The Eagles tacked on a run in the fourth and fifth inning. Madigan's was unable to answer and the game ended in the seventh.

Cresaptown produced its seven runs on 12 hits, while Madigan's picked up four runs on six hits.

Madigan's finishes its season with an overall record of 16-9 and as the number two team in American West division.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

SANDY DOUGLASS MEMORIAL FLYING SCOT INVITATIONAL REGATTA
by Dan Muss

This is our biggest sailing/social event of our season and it's made more festive by the presence of visiting sailors from off the lake. It was originally called the "Maryland State Invitational Regatta." The name was changed, I believe, in 1995.

The year before was the second year of operation of the Deep Creek Sailing School (DCSS), and Mike Logsdon was just heading up the AdventureSports Institute (ASI) at the Garrett Community College. He approached DCSS with the idea of offering a one-week adult course in sailing as part of ASI's program, and that's what we did. It was our first adult week, and we used Flying Scots as the training boat. The next year Logsdon proposed that we name one of our regattas in memory of Sandy Douglass, the designer and builder of the Scot, and ASI donated the permanent trophy still in use.

Special recognition is due the principal race officer (PRO) for this regatta, Darrell Van Hutten, and his assistants Kris Van Hutten and Keith Spinnenweber. They got in all five scheduled races in the face of uncertain wind conditions. And their courses were as good as one can get on our mountain lake in light air.

On Saturday we started in the middle of the line and lost ground all the way to the windward mark. Peters saw that, although the line was square to the wind, the wind was more favorable on the right and the boat end was closer to that wind. Peters cut off Rissell, who was barging, and then got a big lift from that right side. After several tacks, Peters was first around the windward mark with a very nice lead and never looked back.

I, on the other hand, had a terrible race, even forgetting to put down the centerboard for the last beat to the finish ... for the entire leg!

The wind was a repeat on Sunday, but since the race started at 11 a.m. to provide an earlier finish to the racing so that our out-of-town visitors could get a good start back home, the wind was even more fluky. Although there was wind at the starting area, it took another 15 minutes to reach the Turkey Neck Club. On Saturday Anderson had finished second, and on Sunday he was first and thus won the Masters Fleet.

However, the next three boats each had a total of eight points. The tie-breaker went to Peters, since he had a first. On Saturday Gregory finished a boat ahead of Rissell, but on Sunday a boat behind. When the score is tied, the boat who wins the last race gets the go-ahead. Hence, Peters was second, Rissell was third, and Gregory, fourth.

Kitzmiller Elementary School

my 2010 - 2011 second and third grade students

I was very fortunate to spend the first nine years of my teaching career as a teacher at Kitzmiller Elementary School. Words cannot express the support and gratitude I received from community members. I loved teaching and watching your children grow, and I hope I instilled important values and lessons that they will never forget. As my teaching career takes me on a new journey to a different elementary school, I want you to know that my years at Kitzmiller were very rewarding and most definitely, unforgettable. Thanks for welcoming me into your community and school and allowing me to be a part of your children's lives.

assessable real property base will decline by .4 percent for the fiscal year 2013 state aid calculation cycle; however, the state average may contract by 6.20 percent. As a result, Garrett's wealth could decrease by approximately .33 percent in FY '13, compared to the state average's contraction of 4.39 percent.

• The enrollment loss of 139 students, or 3.4 percent, will likely be the highest of any district in the state.

• The above factors could result in a per pupil wealth increase of 3.19 percent for Garrett County and a 4.47 decrease for the state's average, which could lead to a reduction in state aid of $2,445,608.

• Based upon the estimated data, Garrett County may pass Queen Anne's and Anne Arundel counties in FY '13 to become the fifth most wealthy county in the state on a pupil basis. (The county is currently ranked at seventh.)

Transportation

• The BOE is in the process of posting all bus routes on its web site, as requested by numerous parents.

• Six buses have been eliminated in the last two years.

• About 40 percent of the fleet has had some form of route changes.

• In the upcoming school year, there will be 66 buses, 92 routes, 183 drivers/contractors/assistants, and 1,647 bus stops.

• Drivers logged 1,085,724 miles last year with no accidents.

• All breakfast and lunch prices will increase, as federally required. That increase, however, will be the least amount required – $.05. High and middle school breakfasts will be $1.35, and lunches will be $2.05. Elementary school breakfasts will be $1.20, and lunches will be $2.05.

• A total of 242,892 breakfasts and 457,639 lunches were served last year.

• The BOE spent $81,494 with local vendors for its food services.

"By taking advantage of these rebates, Marylanders have made a smart choice that will save real money on the monthly bills for years to come," said Malcolm Woolf, director of the Maryland Energy Administration. "I'm thrilled that we're able to redirect an additional $850,000 into this extraordinary program, and hope that anyone who has been considering making an investment in their homes will take advantage of this limited opportunity."

To apply for a rebate, residents should visit www.energy.state.md.us/homeperformance to complete the requisite forms.

Funds for the tax credit program are appropriated annually by the General Assembly. State law requires the Maryland Historical Trust to award the funds based on a competitive review and ranking process. To learn more about the program, its review process, and to access the application go online to http://mht.maryland.gov/taxcredits.html. Homeowners may also apply for Sustainable Communities Tax Credits equal to 20% of qualified rehabilitation expenses for improvements to historic homes. For more information about the tax credit program for homeowners, persons can go online to http://mht.maryland.gov/taxcredits_homeowner.html.

MDP oversees the Maryland Historical Trust (MHT), which administers the tax credit program.

The Sustainable Communities Tax Credit program is the successor to the Heritage Structure Rehabilitation Tax Credit program, which O'Malley retooled to create jobs, spur economic development and provide greater linkage to other community development programs, such as Main Street Maryland, Community Legacy, BRAC, and others.

It's really unfortunate that Oprah's Book Club is no longer around. This is the kind of book Ms. Winfrey would eat right up.

Things We Didn't Say swirls with characters in need of a referee. Each circles the others like wary cats about to fight, claws at the ready, but unwilling to be the first to slash. While that's exasperating and will make you want to reach through paper and shake sense into each character, author Riggle imbues enough love in this book that you know everything will turn out okay.

Or, at least you hope it will.

But I'm not telling. You have to read the book. In fact, take it to your book club. Once you all start it, Things We Didn't Say is one you'll be talking about.
